Grasp Is Lacking

Criticises Anti-Union and Union Groups for Attitudes

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, said today the nation should come to grips with the reality of its danger by understanding that "we are losing the war" instead of "whistling in a graveyard to keep from facing reality."

Bard told a meeting of shipbuilding workers that the warning that America could lose the war had often been made, but "we think of this as pure rhetoric, part of the old pep talk."

"How about, for a change, just saying that we are losing a war," he added, "and realizing that we damn well mean it?"

Bard emphasized the same point again at the conclusion of his prepared talk when, after reviewing what he considered to be the weaknesses of America's prosecution of the war, he declared that "at this point in the speech I should shift gears and wind up with predictions of a glorious finish of our uphill fight."

"But I am not going to do it," he continued. "We are still losing this war. It will take all we've got to win—what are you going to do about it?"

In an address prepared for delivery before the international convention of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (C.I.O.) Bard said the nation was afflicted with an "insufferable and materialistic pride" which has blinded it to the desperate nature of Nazi Germany's fight.

The nation, he continued, was hampered by economic pressure groups in which he said he could find no "spirit of sacrifice," and also by persons who misled by "the amiable self-deception of using percentages" about munitions production, assume that "we can't lose the war."

The self-deception of percentages was a form of compensation developed after the blow to the national egotism of Pearl Harbor, Bard said, and meant that "if two tanks in a 10,000-tank program rumbled out of a factory where one had before, we gloated that production was up 100 per cent."

"We have been wrangling for months over a tax bill for 1942, which in plain language means that we have been fighting over who is going to pay how much for this catastrophe which has engulfed us," he asserted.

"The pressure of rival economic groups, each armed with unassailable statistics to show how much that group will suffer injustice if thus and so happens, has ebbed and flowed like the tides for 10 months. I fail to detect a spirit of sacrifice in these groups before Congress.

"Neither does it indicate that we have a spiritual grasp of our threatening fate when we sell bonds to help finance a war of survival or extermination on the promise of profitable monetary returns on the investment.

"I see no fundamental grasp of our predicament in anti-union employers who sabotage production committees for fear that industry will be Sovietized, nor in labor union leaders who are so concerned about the competitive position of their own little groups as to examine the war with regard to how their own puny fortunes will be affected if labor unity is achieved or jurisdictional lines are eradicated * * *."

Bard said that Americans hoped to enlist the support of "the shoeless masses of Latin America and our own negroes" without having

Both Get 'Kiddo'

Judge Finally Arranges Six-Month Custody of Cocker Spaniel

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP)—For the custody of "Kiddo," a black cocker spaniel, a young wife traveled 1,500 miles to plead her motion, incident to her divorce petition, in Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Schiller, 21, of St. Petersburg, Fla., told Judge Joseph A. Sabath she and her husband were separated a year ago after being married for one year. Two months before the separation, they got "Kiddo."

Schiller's father, in court to plead his son's case, said, "my son loves 'Kiddo' as much as she does."

"I can't offer to cut 'Kiddo' in two, so I'll cut the year," ruled Judge Sabath, allowing Mrs. Schiller the dog's custody for the next six months and Schiller to have him the next half year. He ordered the arrangements to be followed throughout the dog's life.

Ulster County Salvage Harvest

On October 1, Ulster County's rural citizens get in the scrap when they start the harvesting of salvage material for victory. No patriotic farmer is doing his bit to win the war who doesn't get old iron, steel, brass, copper, lead and other metals into the junk yards now—before snow flies.

Nearly every farmer accumulates a huge scrap pile and this farm scrap is the best sort of metal for the open hearth furnaces and it is needed now for war production. One best way to help Uncle Sam, right now, is to get that scrap to the junk dealer. And it has to go to the junk man for he will sort out the many different kinds of junk and from his yard must flow the metal to the mills.

Kingston residents are putting over a record scrap collection and their neighbors in the surrounding townships will do likewise. They will also rejoice in their efforts to dig out a piece of scrap which they know their sons will need to hurl at the Axis murderers.

If you think that your help in collecting the scrap is not needed, read the following facts:

America's steel mills can turn out ninety million tons of steel. This season they will have turned out only eighty-five million tons. The reason: Lack of scrap to produce at capacity.

The mills are gobbling scrap metal at the rate of four million tons a month. Ordinarily they would have six weeks supply of scrap on hand. But they have now hardly more than two weeks' supply.

The Government wants seventeen million tons of scrap collected between now and January 1, when war production reaches its peak and scrap piles are vital.

A complete organization has been set up for the scrap harvest in the rural sections. Town dumps have been established for the depositing of junk. Assistance may be secured from the town superintendent of highways if material is too large to handle. If pieces are too large for the town superintendents then the county superintendent of highways will move it. The supervisors will also assist in handling the town details of the drive.

There is an unreaped harvest of metallic junk on every farm and in every community, and there isn't a man, woman or child in Ulster county who will not do his part to speed victory over the Axis.

Let's not have a Slacker in the County.

Between Four and 23 Persons Are Killed in B. & O. Wreck; Eighteen Unaccounted For

Hitler's Hunt Has Passed Salvaging Stage, Is Report

By ERNEST G. FISCHER

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 24 (AP)—Collection of scrap all over America reminds those of us who have been in Germany that Hitler's hunt for metals long ago passed the junk-salvaging stage.

There street cleaners even salvage bolts and nuts which drop from vehicles.

American nationals interned at Bad Nauheim saw workmen remove several large bells from the church across the street from the hotel in which the repatriates were held.

American churchgoers heard the pastor read a circular letter from the ministry of the interior saying that congregations throughout the Reich were being asked to sacrifice bells for war purposes. We were told that the metal was needed for the manufacture of bushings in airplane-engine bearings.

Metal fences, many of them artistic products of wrought iron, razed by hack-saw and blow-torch, had suffered the same fate. Hundreds of statues from public parks and squares throughout Germany as well as in Paris and other occupied cities, went into the furnaces.

Busts of Bismarck, the iron Chancellor, escaped the fuehrer's salvage crews.

Mrs. Halstead Joins WAVES, Navy Reports

Five young women today became the first enlisted personnel of the WAVES in the New York area.

The third naval district announced, the Associated Press says, that the group who had been sworn and were awaiting orders to proceed to a WAVES training school, included:

Mrs. John DeWitt Halstead, Jr., 26, of 33 Hayes street, Kingston. Mrs. Halstead is a graduate of State Teachers' College, Buffalo, and has been a high school teacher in the English Department at Wellsville. She expects to report to a radio training school in Wisconsin in about six weeks. Mr. Halstead is employed by the New York Telephone Co.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The position of the Treasury September 22: Receipts $105,831,443.81; expenditures $151,113,169.26; net balance $2,412,224,884.91; working balance included $1,649,746,107.46; customs receipts for month $14,503,909.98; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $3,490,989,327.70; expenditures for fiscal year $14,781,080,882.95; excess of expenditures $11,290,091,555.25; total debt $87,793,587,978.59; increase over previous day $301,935.50; gold assets $22,750,374,908.32.

Two Passenger Trains and Freight Collide Near Dickerson at 7:35 A. M.

Dickerson, Md., Sept. 24 (AP)—Two passenger trains and a freight of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crashed in a roaring, rending wreck near here today and reports from the scene indicated at least four and possibly 23 persons were killed.

The number of injured could not be determined immediately but witnesses said wreckage was strewn over a wide area, that fire broke out in some of the cars immediately afterward and there was much confusion.

Eighteen of 21 persons were "unaccounted for" in a rear Pullman of the Washington-bound Cleveland night express into which the diesel engine of the B. and O.'s crack Ambassador train ploughed about 7:35 a. m. The Pullman, thus shunted from the track, spilled into the side of a fast freight bound from Washington to Cumberland, Md., and was struck again.

Passenger and freight cars and the big diesel locomotive of the Ambassador, which overturned, were left smashed in the wreck. Baltimore and Ohio officials said many of the 18 persons missing in the rear Pullman of the Cleveland Express may be dead or injured. Seventeen persons in the car just ahead of it were accounted for "and the injured among them were hospitalized."

Witnesses said only one car of the two passenger trains remained on the track. Long lengths of pipe hauled by the freight were tossed over a lengthy area, much of it smashed like match sticks.

The Cleveland night express to Washington stopped half a mile from Dickerson, about 35 miles northwest of Washington, to repair an air pump on its engine.

Just after the train began moving, railroad headquarters said in describing the crash, the Ambassador, fast express from Detroit to Washington, ploughed into the rear of the train.

Cars buckled and overturned. The diesel engine on the Ambassador overturned and caught fire, as did a baggage car on the same train. Freight cars jumped the track. Smoke poured from the wreckage.

J. E. McCurdy of Pittsburgh, a mechanic on the wrecked engine, said "I was in the rear of the Diesel when the crash came. The train buckled and windows broke. I picked myself up and crawled out a window to look for the others. I saw Bowman and McClelland (the engineer and fireman) and they were all right. We tried to get other men out of the baggage car, but the wrecked freight started to burn and the fire spread to the baggage car. There wasn't anything we could do. We could see parts of bodies in the baggage car."

Two of those injured and taken to the Frederick, Md., hospital,

Stimson to Probe Louis-Conn Bout; Says He's Shocked

War Secretary Hopes to End Investigation in 48 Hours; Figures Are Reported

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today he was "shocked" over arrangements for the Joe Louis-Billy Conn championship prize fight and had started a personal investigation.

"I didn't know of the details until this morning," Stimson told his press conference. "I've been shocked at the situation.

"I am making a personal investigation which I hope to complete within 48 hours."

The war secretary's announcement was prompted by a question whether he would comment on the proposed October 12 fight at the Yankee Stadium in New York between Sergt. Louis, the heavyweight champion, and Pvt. Conn. He declined to state what details "shocked" him.

When original sanction for the fight was given September 8, the War Department announcement said that the entire net proceeds would go to the Army Emergency Relief Fund. The announcement said further that neither fighter nor any "private interest" would receive any return.

On September 18, however, a change in this setup was announced by the committee of New York sports writers, named to handle the fight arrangements. Under the terms of this new setup, which the committee said had been approved by the War Department, it was agreed that Louis would receive $100,951.53 to pay off obligations. Conn was to receive $34,500 for the same purpose.

'Obligations' Are Cited

Louis' obligations, as announced by the sports committee, consisted of $59,805.50 to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, of which Promoter Mike Jacobs is the head, and $41,146.03 to one of his managers, John Roxborough. Conn's obligation also was said to be to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Both fighters' indebtedness, it was said, consisted of sums advanced at various times by Jacobs and Roxborough for personal bills.

The sports committee's announcement followed a stormy session at which it is known that some members were opposed to the plan. The committee said that it had found it "impossible to conduct the fight under the original plan suggested by the War Department" under the terms of which no private interest would have benefitted.

"Upon investigation," the committee announcement said, "it was found that there were commitments and obligations with regard to sums of money owed by the soldier contestants in this fight. In order that the fight may go forward it is incumbent upon the committee to meet the sums of money owed by these soldiers to private interests."

Expenses Close to $300,000

It has been estimated in some quarters that total expenses for the fight would run somewhere close to $300,000. This includes the payments authorized to the fighters, training camp expenses, stadium rental and other expenses. Estimates of the total gate for the fight, based on $40 top price for tickets, have run as high as $1,000,000.

Man Confesses Slayings

St. Louis Electrician, 27, Tells Way He Murdered Father, Mother After Quarrel in Home

St. Louis, Sept. 24 (AP)—After hours of questioning, Robert Nash, 27-year-old St. Louis electrician, today confessed, said Police Captain Leonard Murphy, to the ax slaying of his father and mother during a quarrel over his financial difficulties.

Murphy, of the St. Louis police detective division, said the husky blonde-haired youth related details of the brutal crime to police, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Illinois authorities.

His composure unruffled by a constant barrage of questions, the younger Nash finally revealed he slew his father, then his mother, during a violent argument over $640 in personal debts and his habit of continued late hours, Murphy related.

Nash said at a press conference after police announced he had admitted the slayings that the altercation with his parents took place on a deserted country road near St. Louis. He stopped the car, he told newspapermen, during the

Brown Fears Congress, President Are Heading For Court Showdown

Collision Is Called Possible Because of Disunity Between Two Branches

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Senator Brown (D., Mich.) told the Senate today he feared congress and the President were heading for a "collision" that, "God forbid," might have to be settled by the third branch of the government, the supreme court.

Taking the floor immediately after 13 Senate agriculture committee members had voted to reject an administration-sponsored compromise in the controversy over farm parity prices provisions of the anti-inflation bill, Brown told his colleagues:

"I believe the congress and the President are headed for a collision. * * * I am fearful at this time when unity is the need in the conduct of the government today that we are going to have criticism, disunity and discord between the legislative and executive branches of the government."

"God forbid that this should happen," he continued, "but it is entirely possible that this dispute may have to be resolved in the third branch of the government."

Brown alluded to the demand of the congressional farm bloc that farm parity prices be revised upward to take into account cost of all labor on the farms, a revision to which President Roosevelt said he was "unalterably opposed."

Some administration supporters have said that if this provision, already approved by the House in passing the anti-inflation legislation, were finally adopted by congress, the President might veto the bill and proceed to act under executive authority.

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) said all members present at a meeting with leaders of farm organizations had agreed to stand by an amendment sponsored by him and Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), which would increase the level of parity prices by about 12 per cent by including all farm labor costs as a factor.

The House adopted a similar amendment yesterday in passing a measure authorizing and directing President Roosevelt to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at September 15 levels, so far as practical.

Administration leaders had sought to split the farm bloc apart in the Senate by offering an amendment which would leave to the President the determination of when increased costs were not reflected by the price ceilings. The President had expressed "unalterable" opposition to recomputing the basis of parity.

"The compromise doesn't mean anything," Thomas told reporters. "We want to write this thing directly into the law."

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) said the compromise proposal in itself was not so bad, but there was some fear among agriculture committee members about its administration.

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, said before the committee voted that if the farm group did not accept the compromise, the issue would be fought out on the floor of the Senate.

U. S. Army Needs And May Take One Local Snow Plow

Machine Received in 1941 Might Be Used at U. S. Camp Somewhere in America

Mayor William F. Edelmuth received word this morning from Col. Phillips W. Smith of the War Department at Washington that the army was greatly in need of snow removal equipment to keep combat campsites open during the winter.

The army particularly desired Sno Go plows and loaders, and it is expected that the one purchased by the Board of Public Works in 1941, will be taken by the army. The machine was delivered here in December, 1941, and was used in a few snowstorms during the winter of 1941-42.

Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works said this morning that the loss of the Sno Go would be greatly felt the coming winter, in case there was a considerable fall of snow.

Kaiser Launches Ship In 10-Day Period

Portland, Ore., Sept. 24 (AP)—A promise of still greater speed is coupled with Henry J. Kaiser's latest production sensation—the tenth day launching of a 10,500-ton Liberty freighter.

Steam pluming from her boilers, the Joseph N. Teal hit the water at Kaiser's Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation yards yesterday, ten days after her keel was laid. The feat cut two full weeks from the best previous record, set in Kaiser's Richmond, Calif., yards with the freighter John Fitch.

"Absolutely," was Kaiser's reply to an interviewer's question of whether he thought he could better the latest achievement.

The Teal was 87 per cent complete at her launching, compared with a wartime average of 79 per cent. The yard intends to have her ready for the sea by Sunday.

Wickard Says U.S. Meat Consumption Will Drop to 79 Per Cent of '41 Amounts

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today that, beginning October 1, civilian meat consumption during the last three months of this year would be restricted to approximately 79 per cent of the amount delivered by packers for civilian use during the last quarter of 1941.

Simultaneously, Wickard reiterated that citizens voluntarily should limit themselves to 2½ pounds of meat a week per person, to permit a fair sharing of available supplies.

As chairman of the War Production Board's food requirements committee, Wickard disclosed that, to assure sufficient meat for Army, Navy, and lend-lease needs, the committee had ordered deliveries for civilian use curtailed on this basis:

Beef and veal, 80 per cent of deliveries during the last quarter of 1941; lamb and mutton, 95 per cent; pork, 75 per cent.

The allowance proposed, the secretary declared, was entirely adequate for good nutrition, assuming the 2½ pound limit was observed.

"It is necessary that individuals hold their consumption at this figure whether they eat at home or in public eating places," Wickard said. "Public eating places in some sections may prefer some such device as a meatless day.

"We plan to consult with the trade groups of people managing public eating places and help them work out methods of enabling their patrons to stay within the sharing limits."

Individual households may use any method the family prefers in effecting the limitation, he explained. However, if there are invalids, aged persons, young chil-

Two U. S. Vessels Are Lost; One Is Without Trace

Possible Loss of Life Set at 250 by Navy on Ships in Pacific; One Destroyer

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the United States destroyer Jarvis had disappeared in the Southwest Pacific without leaving a trace, presumably sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft, and that the auxiliary transport Little had been sunk during recent operations in the Solomons.

Possible loss of life on the two ships was estimated at 250 men.

The Jarvis was en route from the Solomons to a repair base when she vanished several weeks ago. She had been damaged during enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal in the Solomons.

Approximately half of the personnel of the Little was saved when she went down.

The loss included the commanding officers, Lieutenant Commander William Walter Graham, Jr., Phoenix, Ariz., of the Jarvis, and Lieutenant Commander Gus B. Lofberg, (95 Mission street) Santa Cruz, Calif., of the Little.

Navy communique, No. 131, said:
"South Pacific—

"1. The U. S. S. Jarvis (destroyer), which was damaged as a result of enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal, must be presumed lost at sea en route from Tulagi to a southern repair base. The Jarvis has been overdue for several weeks and intensive search by ships and aircraft has failed to locate her or reveal any trace of her personnel. It is assumed that she was sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft.

"2. The U. S. S. Little (small auxiliary transport) has been sunk by the enemy in recent operations in the Solomon Islands area. Approximately half of the personnel of the Little were saved.

"3. The next of kin of those lost have been notified."

The Jarvis, according to Jane's Standard Reference Work on Fighting Ships, had a normal complement of 172 officers and men. The 1,500-ton vessel was a modern ship, having been launched in May, 1937, and commissioned later that same year. She was built at the Puget Sound, Wash., Navy Yard.

The Little, a converted former World War destroyer of 1,060 tons, probably had between 150 to 200 men on board. Since half this total personnel was saved the Little's losses may have been between 75 and 100 men.

The United States, on the basis of the Navy's published reports, now has had five ships sunk and five damaged in the Solomon's offensive compared with the enemy's 22 or more in operations among those islands.

P.S.C. Gives Bus Company Notice

October 15 Deadline Is Set for Obtaining Bus on Route

The Kingston City Transportation Co. was given until October 15, to attempt to obtain a bus to use on the proposed extension of the bus line in the Forsyth Park area of the city at an adjourned meeting of the state public service commission in Albany on Wednesday.

The hearing was attended by Attorney John M. Cashin representing the bus line, and Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman representing the city.

At the first hearing held earlier in the year the bus line was instructed to attempt to obtain a bus and run it over the proposed extension to ascertain if the extension would produce enough revenue to warrant the extension of service in the territory affected.

The bus line contended yesterday that it has been unable to obtain a bus as yet, and for that reason was given a further extension of time.

The hearing was held on the petition of residents of the Forsyth Park area of the city seeking bus service in that section. The Common Council had approved the petition following a public hearing held by the railroad and bus committee of the council.

Machold Is Elected

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Earle J. Machold, New York city attorney, was elected president and a director of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation at a meeting of the board of directors today. He succeeds Alfred H. Schoellkopf who died September 9.

Red Armies and Volga Gunboats Drive Germans From Fortified Points in Stalingrad; 13,000 Nazi Soldiers Die

Street Warfare Goes on Unabated, Says Nazi Bulletin About Siege

Aussies Hang On

Australians Still Cling to Positions High in New Guinea

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Bolstered by shell-fire from Volga river gunboats, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red Armies were reported to have driven the Germans from a series of fortified points in Stalingrad today, rolled up a four-day toll of more than 13,000 Nazis killed, and struck a sharp counter blow northwest of the Volga metropolis.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters again stressed the fury of the battle, declaring in a terse, noncommittal bulletin:

"Street fighting in Stalingrad is continuing with undiminished bitterness."

Significantly, the Nazi communique made no claim of fresh gains in the bloody house-to-house fighting, despite the reported arrival of strong German reinforcements.

The Nazi command further noted "strong Soviet counterattacks" north of the city in which 34 Red Army tanks were reported destroyed.

Soviet headquarters, reporting perhaps the biggest successes of the entire 31-day-old siege, indicated that the Germans had failed to drive a single new breach into Russian lines within the embattled city.

German reverses also were reported on four other sectors of the far-flung front: At Sinyavino, southeast of Leningrad; at Voronezh, 300 miles north of Stalingrad; below Novorossisk, on the Black Sea coast, and in the Mozdok sector of the central Caucasus.

At mid-day, Red Army headquarters announced:

"Northwest of Stalingrad, Soviet troops have inflicted a counter-blow on the Germans. One unit, by a vigorous attack, dislodged the Germans from a populated place. The Germans left 250 dead on the field.

"In another sector, several enemy attacks were repulsed and about 700 Germans killed.

A Vichy (French) radio broadcast said the Russians, in a dramatic resurgence of striking power, had recaptured a number of streets in the northwest suburbs of Stalingrad.

The broadcast, quoting Berlin advices, said the Russians had launched a drive "in fairly considerable force" in that sector.

"In the Stalingrad area, our troops repulsed several enemy attacks," the Soviet command said. "The Germans are suffering heavy losses and are hurriedly bringing up reinforcements by plane."

Volga river gunboats laid down a flaming barrage on German shock troops within the battered city, supporting Red army artillerymen, machine-gunners and riflemen in mowing down the invaders by the thousands.

Dispatches to Red Star said the Germans sent 200 tanks rumbling through the debris-littered streets as a shield for a single attack, but declared that Soviet defenders beat off the thrust.

The paper said the battle was

Amnesia Victim's Husband Was Suicide, Records of Coroner Show

Hollywood, Sept. 24 (AP)—Disclosure that the death of H. Pierce Weller, first husband of Mrs. Glory Weller Miller, was written down as a suicide rather than from natural causes has injected a new note into the strange case of the blonde model who says she aroused from a state of amnesia to find herself married to a man she did not know.

"He did it for me. That's all I'll say," Mrs. Miller, 25, now the wife of Henry Miller, commercial photographer, told newsmen. "I wish we hadn't done it, or that he had killed me first."

The report of the San Luis Obispo county coroner said her first husband, H. Pierce Weller, 60, a newspaperman, died of a self-inflicted bullet wound at Atascadero, Calif., November 4, 1941.

Mrs. Miller blamed the shock for causing what she said was almost a year of forgetfulness during which she became Miller's wife without knowing it. She returned to realism Sunday night she declared.

Bard Says U.S. Losing World War

Criticises Anti-Union and Union Groups for Attitudes

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, said today the nation should come to grips with the reality of its danger by understanding that "we are losing the war" instead of "whistling in a graveyard to keep from facing reality."

Bard told a meeting of shipbuilding workers that the warning that America could lose the war had often been made, but "we think of this as pure rhetoric, part of the old pep talk."

"How about, for a change, just saying that we are losing a war," he added, "and realizing that we damn well mean it?"

Bard emphasized the same point again at the conclusion of his prepared talk when, after reviewing what he considered to be the weaknesses of America's prosecution of the war, he declared that "at this point in the speech I should shift gears and wind up with predictions of a glorious finish of our uphill fight."

"But I am not going to do it," he continued. "We are still losing this war. It will take all we've got to win—what are you going to do about it?"

In an address prepared for delivery before the international convention of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (C.I.O.) Bard said the nation was afflicted with an "insufferable and materialistic pride" which has blinded it to the desperate nature of Nazi Germany's fight.

The nation, he continued, was hampered by economic pressure groups in which he said he could find no "spirit of sacrifice," and also by persons who misled by "the amiable self-deception of using percentages" about munitions production, assume that "we can't lose the war."

The self-deception of percentages was a form of compensation developed after the blow to the national egotism of Pearl Harbor, Bard said, and meant that "if two tanks in a 10,000-tank program rumbled out of a factory where one had before, we gloated that production was up 100 per cent."

"We have been wrangling for months over a tax bill for 1942, which in plain language means that we have been fighting over who is going to pay how much for this catastrophe which has engulfed us," he asserted.

"The pressure of rival economic groups, each armed with unassailable statistics to show how much that group will suffer injustice if thus and so happens, has ebbed and flowed like the tides for 10 months. I fail to detect a spirit of sacrifice in these groups before Congress.

"Neither does it indicate that we have a spiritual grasp of our threatening fate when we sell bonds to help finance a war of survival or extermination on the promise of profitable monetary returns on the investment.

"I see no fundamental grasp of our predicament in anti-union employers who sabotage production committees for fear that industry will be Sovietized, nor in labor union leaders who are so concerned about the competitive position of their own little groups as to examine the war with regard to how their own puny fortunes will be affected if labor unity is achieved or jurisdictional lines are eradicated * * *."

Bard said that Americans hoped to enlist the support of "the shoeless masses of Latin America and our own negroes" without having

Judge Finally Arranges Six-Month Custody of Cocker Spaniel

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP)—For the custody of "Kiddo," a black cocker spaniel, a young wife traveled 1,500 miles to plead her motion, incident to her divorce petition, in Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Schiller, 21, of St. Petersburg, Fla., told Judge Joseph A. Sabath she and her husband were separated a year ago after being married for one year. Two months before the separation they got "Kiddo."

Schiller's father, in court to plead his son's case, said, "my son loves 'Kiddo' as much as she does."

"I can't offer to cut 'Kiddo' in two, so I'll cut the year," ruled Judge Sabath, allowing Mrs. Schiller the dog's custody for the next six months and Schiller to have him the next half year. He ordered the arrangements to be followed throughout the dog's life.

Ulster County Salvage Harvest

On October 1, Ulster County's rural citizens get in the scrap when they start the harvesting of salvage material for victory. No patriotic farmer is doing his bit to win the war who doesn't get old iron, steel, brass, copper, lead and other metals into the junk yards now—before snow flies.

Nearly every farmer accumulates a huge scrap pile and this farm scrap is the best sort of metal for the open hearth furnaces and it is needed now for war production. One best way to help Uncle Sam, right now, is to get that scrap to the junk dealer. And it has to go to the junk man for he will sort out the many different kinds of junk and from his yard must flow the metal to the mills.

Kingston residents are putting over a record scrap collection and their neighbors in the surrounding townships will do likewise. They will also rejoice in their efforts to dig out a piece of scrap which they know their sons will need to hurl at the Axis murderers.

If you think that your help in collecting the scrap is not needed, read the following facts:

America's steel mills can turn out ninety million tons of steel. This season they will have turned out only eighty-five million tons. The reason: Lack of scrap to produce at capacity.

The mills are gobbling scrap metal at the rate of four million tons a month. Ordinarily they would have six weeks supply of scrap on hand. But they have now hardly more than two weeks' supply.

The Government wants seventeen million tons of scrap collected between now and January 1, when war production reaches its peak and scrap piles are vital.

A complete organization has been set up for the scrap harvest in the rural sections. Town dumps have been established for the depositing of junk. Assistance may be secured from the town superintendent of highways if material is too large to handle. If pieces are too large for the town superintendents then the county superintendent of highways will move it. The supervisors will also assist in handling the town details of the drive.

There is an unreaped harvest of metallic junk on every farm and in every community, and there isn't a man, woman or child in Ulster county who will not do his part to speed victory over the Axis.

Let's not have a Slacker in the County.

Hitler's Hunt Has Passed Salvaging Stage, Is Report

By ERNEST G. FISCHER

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 24 (AP)—Collection of scrap all over America reminds those of us who have been in Germany that Hitler's hunt for metals long ago passed the junk-salvaging stage.

There street cleaners even salvage bolts and nuts which drop from vehicles.

American nationals interned at Bad Nauheim saw workmen remove several large bells from the church across the street from the hotel in which the repatriates were held.

American churchgoers heard the pastor read a circular letter from the ministry of the interior saying that congregations throughout the Reich were being asked to sacrifice bells for war purposes. We were told that the metal was needed for the manufacture of bushings in airplane-engine bearings.

Metal fences, many of them artistic products of wrought iron, razed by hack-saw and blow-torch, had suffered the same fate. Hundreds of statues from public parks and squares throughout Germany as well as in Paris and other occupied cities, went into the furnaces.

Busts of Bismarck, the iron Chancellor, escaped the fuehrer's salvage crews.

Mrs. Halstead Joins WAVES, Navy Reports

Five young women today became the first enlisted personnel of the WAVES in the New York area.

The third naval district announced, the Associated Press says, that the group who had been sworn and were awaiting orders to proceed to a WAVES training school, included:

Mrs. John DeWitt Halstead, Jr., 26, of 33 Hayes street, Kingston. Mrs. Halstead is a graduate of State Teachers' College, Buffalo, and has been a high school teacher in the English Department at Wellsville. She expects to report to a radio training school in Wisconsin in about six weeks. Mr. Halstead is employed by the New York Telephone Co.

Two Passenger Trains and Freight Collide Near Dickerson at 7:35 A. M.

Dickerson, Md., Sept. 24 (AP)—Two passenger trains and a freight of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crashed in a roaring, rending wreck near here today and reports from the scene indicated at least four and possibly 23 persons were killed.

The number of injured could not be determined immediately but witnesses said wreckage was strewn over a wide area, that fire broke out in some of the cars immediately afterward and there was much confusion.

Eighteen of 21 persons were "unaccounted for" in a rear Pullman of the Washington-bound Cleveland night express into which the diesel engine of the B. and O.'s crack Ambassador train ploughed about 7:35 a. m. The Pullman, thus shunted from the track, spilled into the side of a fast freight bound from Washington to Cumberland, Md., and was struck again.

Passenger and freight cars and the big diesel locomotive of the Ambassador, which overturned, were left smashed in the wreck. Baltimore and Ohio officials said many of the 18 persons missing in the rear Pullman of the Cleveland Express may be dead or injured. Seventeen persons in the car just ahead of it were accounted for "and the injured among them were hospitalized."

Witnesses said only one car of the two passenger trains remained on the track. Long lengths of pipe hauled by the freight were tossed over a lengthy area, much of it smashed like match sticks.

The Cleveland night express to Washington stopped half a mile from Dickerson, about 35 miles northwest of Washington, to repair an air pump on its engine.

Just after the train began moving, railroad headquarters said in describing the crash, the Ambassador, fast express from Detroit to Washington, ploughed into the rear of the train.

Cars buckled and overturned. The diesel engine on the Ambassador overturned and caught fire, as did a baggage car on the same train. Freight cars jumped the track. Smoke poured from the wreckage.

J. E. McCurdy of Pittsburgh, a mechanic on the wrecked engine, said "I was in the rear of the Diesel when the crash came. The train buckled and windows broke. I picked myself up and crawled out a window to look for the others. I saw Bowman and McClelland (the engineer and fireman) and they were all right. We tried to get other men out of the baggage car, but the wrecked freight started to burn and the fire spread to the baggage car. There wasn't anything we could do. We could see parts of bodies in the baggage car."

Two of those injured and taken to the Frederick, Md., hospital,

Aussies Hang On

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Bolstered by shell-fire from Volga river gunboats, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red Armies were reported to have driven the Germans from a series of fortified points in Stalingrad today, rolled up a four-day toll of more than 13,000 Nazis killed, and struck a sharp counter blow northwest of the Volga metropolis.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters again stressed the fury of the battle, declaring in a terse, noncommittal bulletin:

"Street fighting in Stalingrad is continuing with undiminished bitterness."

Significantly, the Nazi communique made no claim of fresh gains in the bloody house-to-house fighting, despite the reported arrival of strong German reinforcements.

The Nazi command further noted "strong Soviet counterattacks" north of the city in which 34 Red Army tanks were reported destroyed.

Soviet headquarters, reporting perhaps the biggest successes of the entire 31-day-old siege, indicated that the Germans had failed to drive a single new breach into Russian lines within the embattled city.

German reverses also were reported on four other sectors of the far-flung front: At Sinyavino, southeast of Leningrad; at Voronezh, 300 miles north of Stalingrad; below Novorossisk, on the Black Sea coast, and in the Mozdok sector of the central Caucasus.

At mid-day, Red Army headquarters announced:

"Northwest of Stalingrad, Soviet troops have inflicted a counter-blow on the Germans. One unit, by a vigorous attack, dislodged the Germans from a populated place. The Germans left 250 dead on the field.

"In another sector, several enemy attacks were repulsed and about 700 Germans killed.

A Vichy (French) radio broadcast said the Russians, in a dramatic resurgence of striking power, had recaptured a number of streets in the northwest suburbs of Stalingrad.

The broadcast, quoting Berlin advices, said the Russians had launched a drive "in fairly considerable force" in that sector.

"In the Stalingrad area, our troops repulsed several enemy attacks," the Soviet command said.

"The Germans are suffering heavy losses and are hurriedly bringing up reinforcements by plane."

Volga river gunboats laid down a flaming barrage on German shock troops within the battered city, supporting Red army artillerymen, machine-gunners and riflemen in mowing down the invaders by the thousands.

Dispatches to Red Star said the Germans sent 200 tanks rumbling through the debris-littered streets as a shield for a single attack, but declared that Soviet defenders beat off the thrust.

The paper said the battle was

War Secretary Hopes to End Investigation in 48 Hours; Figures Are Reported

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today he was "shocked" over arrangements for the Joe Louis-Billy Conn championship prize fight and had started a personal investigation.

"I didn't know of the details until this morning," Stimson told his press conference. "I've been shocked at the situation.

"I am making a personal investigation which I hope to complete within 48 hours."

The war secretary's announcement was prompted by a question whether he would comment on the proposed October 12 fight at the Yankee Stadium in New York between Sergt. Louis, the heavyweight champion, and Pvt. Conn. He declined to state what details "shocked" him.

When original sanction for the fight was given September 8, the War Department announcement said that the entire net proceeds would go to the Army Emergency Relief Fund. The announcement said further that neither fighter nor any "private interest" would receive any return.

On September 18, however, a change in this setup was announced by the committee of New York sports writers, named to handle the fight arrangements. Under the terms of this new setup, which the committee said had been approved by the War Department, it was agreed that Louis would receive $100,951.53 to pay off obligations. Conn was to receive $34,500 for the same purpose.

'Obligations' Are Cited

Louis' obligations, as announced by the sports committee, consisted of $59,805.50 to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, of which Promoter Mike Jacobs is the head, and $41,146.03 to one of his managers, John Roxborough. Conn's obligation also was said to be to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

Both fighters' indebtedness, it was said, consisted of sums advanced at various times by Jacobs and Roxborough for personal bills.

The sports committee's announcement followed a stormy session at which it is known that some members were opposed to the plan. The committee said that it had found it "impossible to conduct the fight under the original plan suggested by the War Department" under the terms of which no private interest would have benefitted.

"Upon investigation," the committee announcement said, "it was found that there were commitments and obligations with regard to sums of money owed by the soldier contestants in this fight. In order that the fight may go forward it is incumbent upon the committee to meet the sums of money owed by these soldiers to private interests."

Expenses Close to $300,000

It has been estimated in some quarters that total expenses for the fight would run somewhere close to $300,000. This includes the payments authorized to the fighters, training camp expenses, stadium rental and other expenses. Estimates of the total gate for the fight, based on $40 top price for tickets, have run as high as $1,-000,000.

Man Confesses Slayings

St. Louis Electrician, 27, Tells Way He Murdered Father, Mother After Quarrel in Home

St. Louis, Sept. 24 (AP)—After hours of questioning, Robert Nash, 27-year-old St. Louis electrician, today confessed, said Police Captain Leonard Murphy, to the ax slaying of his father and mother during a quarrel over his financial difficulties.

Murphy, of the St. Louis police detective division, said the husky blonde-haired youth related details of the brutal crime to police, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Illinois authorities.

Charles A. Nash, 61-year-old Internal Revenue agent, and his 49-year-old wife, Eleanor, were found, hacked and mutilated, Tuesday night in the family automobile on a highway eight miles north of Springfield, Ill.

His composure unruffled by a constant barrage of questions, the younger Nash finally revealed he slew his father, then his mother, during a violent argument over $640 in personal debts and his habit of continued late hours, Murphy related.

Nash said at a press conference after police announced he had admitted the slayings that the altercation with his parents took place on a deserted country road near St. Louis. He stopped the car, he told newspapermen, during the

Brown Fears Congress, President Are Heading For Court Showdown

U. S. Army Needs And May Take One Local Snow Plow

Machine Received in 1941 Might Be Used at U. S. Camp Somewhere in America

Mayor William F. Edelmuth received word this morning from Col. Phillips W. Smith of the War Department at Washington that the army was greatly in need of snow removal equipment to keep combat campsites open during the winter.

The army particularly desired Sno Go plows and loaders, and it is expected that the one purchased by the Board of Public Works in 1941, will be taken by the army. The machine was delivered here in December, 1941, and was used in a few snowstorms during the winter of 1941-42.

Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works said this morning that the loss of the Sno Go would be greatly felt the coming winter, in case there was a considerable fall of snow.

Kaiser Launches Ship In 10-Day Period

Portland, Ore., Sept. 24 (AP)—A promise of still greater speed is coupled with Henry J. Kaiser's latest production sensation—the tenth day launching of a 10,500-ton Liberty freighter.

Steam pluming from her boilers, the Joseph N. Teal hit the water at Kaiser's Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation yards yesterday, ten days after her keel was laid. The feat cut two full weeks from the best previous record, set in Kaiser's Richmond, Calif., yards with the freighter John Fitch.

"Absolutely," was Kaiser's reply to an interviewer's question of whether he thought he could better the latest achievement.

The Teal was 87 per cent complete at her launching, compared with a wartime average of 79 per cent. The yard intends to have her ready for the sea by Sunday.

Collision Is Called Possible Because of Disunity Between Two Branches

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Senator Brown (D., Mich.) told the Senate today he feared congress and the President were heading for a "collision" that, "God forbid," might have to be settled by the third branch of the government, the supreme court.

Taking the floor immediately after 13 Senate agriculture committee members had voted to reject an administration-sponsored compromise in the controversy over farm parity prices provisions of the anti-inflation bill, Brown told his colleagues:

"I believe the congress and the President are headed for a collision. * * * I am fearful at this time when unity is the need in the conduct of the government today that we are going to have criticism, disunity and discord between the legislative and executive branches of the government."

"God forbid that this should happen," he continued, "but it is entirely possible that this dispute may have to be resolved in the third branch of the government."

Brown alluded to the demand of the congressional farm bloc that farm parity prices be revised upward to take into account cost of all labor on the farms, a revision to which President Roosevelt said he was "unalterably opposed."

Some administration supporters have said that if this provision, already approved by the House in passing the anti-inflation legislation, were finally adopted by congress, the President might veto the bill and proceed to act under executive authority.

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) said all members present at a meeting with leaders of farm organizations had agreed to stand by an amendment sponsored by him and Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), which would increase the level of parity prices by about 12 per cent by including all farm labor costs as a factor.

The House adopted a similar amendment yesterday in passing a measure authorizing and directing President Roosevelt to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at September 15 levels, so far as practical.

Administration leaders had sought to split the farm bloc apart in the Senate by offering an amendment which would leave to the President the determination of when increased costs were not reflected by the price ceilings. The President had expressed "unalterable" opposition to recomputing the basis of parity.

"The compromise doesn't mean anything," Thomas told reporters. "We want to write this thing directly into the law."

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) said the compromise proposal in itself was not so bad, but there was some fear among agriculture committee members about its administration.

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, said before the committee voted that if the farm group did not accept the compromise, the issue would be fought out on the floor of the Senate.

Wickard Says U. S. Meat Consumption Will Drop to 79 Per Cent of '41 Amounts

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today that, beginning October 1, civilian meat consumption during the last three months of this year would be restricted to approximately 79 per cent of the amount delivered by packers for civilian use during the last quarter of 1941.

Simultaneously, Wickard reiterated that citizens voluntarily should limit themselves to 2½ pounds of meat a week per person, to permit a fair sharing of available supplies.

As chairman of the War Production Board's food requirements committee, Wickard disclosed that, to assure sufficient meat for Army, Navy, and lend-lease needs, the committee had ordered deliveries for civilian use curtailed on this basis:

Beef and veal, 80 per cent of deliveries during the last quarter of 1941; lamb and mutton, 95 per cent; pork, 75 per cent.

The allowance proposed, the secretary declared, was entirely adequate for good nutrition, assuming the 2½ pound limit was observed.

"It is necessary that individuals hold their consumption at this figure whether they eat at home or in public eating places," Wickard said. "Public eating places in some sections may prefer some such device as a meatless day.

"We plan to consult with the trade groups of people managing public eating places and help them work out methods of enabling their patrons to stay within the sharing limits."

Individual households may use any method the family prefers in effecting the limitation, he explained. However, if there are invalids, aged persons, young chil-

Two U. S. Vessels Are Lost; One Is Without Trace

Possible Loss of Life Set at 250 by Navy on Ships in Pacific; One Destroyer

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the United States destroyer Jarvis had disappeared in the Southwest Pacific without leaving a trace, presumably sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft, and that the auxiliary transport Little had been sunk during recent operations in the Solomons.

Possible loss of life on the two ships was estimated at 250 men.

The Jarvis was en route from the Solomons to a repair base when she vanished several weeks ago. She had been damaged during enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal in the Solomons.

Approximately half of the personnel of the Little was saved when she went down.

The loss included the commanding officers, Lieutenant Commander William Walter Graham, Jr., Phoenix, Ariz., of the Jarvis, and Lieutenant Commander Gus B. Lofberg, (95 Mission street) Santa Cruz, Calif., of the Little.

Navy communique, No. 131, said:

"South Pacific—

"1. The U. S. S. Jarvis (destroyer), which was damaged as a result of enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal, must be presumed lost at sea en route from Tulagi to a southern repair base. The Jarvis has been overdue for several weeks and intensive search by ships and aircraft has failed to locate her or reveal any trace of her personnel. It is assumed that she was sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft.

"2. The U. S. S. Little (small auxiliary transport) has been sunk by the enemy in recent operations in the Solomon Islands area. Approximately half of the personnel of the Little were saved.

"3. The next of kin of those lost have been notified."

The Jarvis, according to Jane's Standard Reference Work on Fighting Ships, had a normal complement of 172 officers and men. The 1,500-ton vessel was a modern ship, having been launched in May, 1937, and commissioned later that same year. She was built at the Puget Sound, Wash., Navy Yard.

The Little, a converted former World War destroyer of 1,060 tons, probably had between 150 to 200 men on board. Since half this total personnel was saved the Little's losses may have been between 75 and 100 men.

The United States, on the basis of the Navy's published reports, now has had five ships sunk and five damaged in the Solomon's offensive compared with the enemy's 22 or more in operations among those islands.

P.S.C. Gives Bus Company Notice

October 15 Deadline Is Set for Obtaining Bus on Route

The Kingston City Transportation Co. was given until October 15, to attempt to obtain a bus to use on the proposed extension of the bus line in the Forsyth Park area of the city at an adjourned meeting of the state public service commission in Albany on Wednesday.

The hearing was attended by Attorney John M. Cashin representing the bus line, and Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman representing the city.

At the first hearing held earlier in the year the bus line was instructed to attempt to obtain a bus and run it over the proposed extension to ascertain if the extension would produce enough revenue to warrant the extension of service in the territory affected.

The bus line contended yesterday that it has been unable to obtain a bus as yet, and for that reason was given a further extension of time.

The hearing was held on the petition of residents of the Forsyth Park area of the city seeking bus service in that section. The Common Council had approved the petition following a public hearing held by the railroad and bus committee of the council.

New Angle Arises

Amnesia Victim's Husband Was Suicide, Records of Coroner Show

Hollywood, Sept. 24 (AP)—Disclosure that the death of H. Pierce Weller, first husband of Mrs. Glory Weller Miller, was written down as a suicide rather than from natural causes has injected a new note into the strange case of the blonde model who says she aroused from a state of amnesia to find herself married to a man she did not know.

"He did it for me. That's all I'll say," Mrs. Miller, 25, now the wife of Henry Miller, commercial photographer, told newsmen. "I wish we hadn't done it, or that he had killed me first."

The report of the San Luis Obispo county coroner said her first husband, H. Pierce Weller, 60, a newspaperman, died of a self-inflicted bullet wound at Atascadero, Calif., November 4, 1941.

Mrs. Miller blamed the shock for causing what she said was almost a year of forgetfulness during which she became Miller's wife without knowing it. She returned to realism Sunday night she declared.

Local Union Not Mentioned, Says Hearing Witness

Tillson Man Discloses He Heard No Such Hint From Officials of Rosendale Plant

The National Labor Relations Board hearing at the court house was brought to a close at 11:30 this morning. Trial Examiner William Mazlow gave attorneys until the close of business on October 2 to file briefs. He said that if it is found necessary to have more time, and attorneys wire him by September 30, he will grant the request if he is in a position to do so.

Attorney Warren was not able to be present this morning and no further testimony was taken except that James Fahey was called to identify certain pay-roll names, and Attorney Kaercher put in evidence a list of members of the independent union, which he has been representing at the hearing.

There was brief oral argument by the attorneys and suggestions by the examiner as to some points which might be covered in briefs to be filed.

One of the points is whether or not the fact that the independent union's demand for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour, which was granted, was in the nature of a recognition of that organization by the company and did it have the effect of increasing the prestige of the independent union among the employes.

One of the charges is that the independent organization is a company dominated union.

Another disputed question is as to what date should be taken as a normal pay-roll date and when an election should be had to select a bargaining agent. Attorney for the N.L.R.B. argued that pay-rolls indicated that between November 8 last year and January 31 this year number of employes showed a drop of two-thirds, due to the seasonal nature of the work. He claimed that the International Union Local had a clear majority of the employes on the pay-roll as of November 8, at which time there appeared to be 80 employes, excluding those in a supervisory or clerical position. He said that at that time Local 182 had a membership of 46.

Examiner Mazlow said that he expected to render a decision in the matter in about two weeks.

Among those present at the hearing this week has been Samuel R. Diskan of Philadelphia, sixth general vice-president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union. He said this morning that out of 163 cement plants, located in 36 states, his organization has contracts with 93 per cent of them. He added that a few plants, in the western part of the country, are connected with the C.I.O.

Witness Anthony Guerrera of Tillson denied yesterday at the labor union hearing on charges brought against the Century Cement Mfg. Co. of Rosendale that an independent union had been suggested to him by plant officials. The hearing is under way at the county court house and several witnesses have been called to date.

Attorney William Kaercher, who represents the independent union, which it is charged is dominated by the company, opened the case for the defense at the start of the afternoon session and called Guerrera as his first witness.

Employed by the Century Cement Co. for six years, Guerrera is in charge of the mine. He told of the meeting, with four others, at the house of Harcid Van Kleeck in January this year, at which time the first steps toward forming an independent union were taken. He also told of the meeting on February 13, at Kelder's Hotel when he was elected president of the independent union, John Fatum vice president; Henry Dunbar, treasurer, and William Whitney, financial secretary.

Guerrera testified that Howard H. Rowell, organizer for the international union, was present and was allowed to talk; that he told the independent employes that it was "foolish for a small group to go against a big organization like the A. F. of L." The witness quoted Rowell as saying that he hoped they would "think it over" and "come with us," but that "if you don't I am going to fight you to the last ditch."

The witness denied that Fahey, Burns, Snyder or Kelly had at any time suggested to him the formation of an independent union, that the companies never had contributed toward the independent union, or that, so far as he knew, had taken any part in its formation.

Not His Reason

Asked by Mr. Paradise, "Isn't it true that the only reason for the formation of the independent union was to keep the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' Union out of the plant?" Guerrera replied, "I don't know if you would put it that way. It was not my reason."

William Whitney of High Falls, financial secretary for the independent union, an electrician and maintenance man at the plants, was questioned by Attorney Kaercher regarding membership and also was asked to point out names on the membership roll of Local 182 who also were listed as members of the independent union.

LOCAL UNION—2— ....

He did not proceed far with this line of questioning when Trial Examiner Mazlow remarked that it was being charged that the independent union was "company dominated," and "if it is company dominated, what difference does it make how many members it has?" The examiner also ruled that the question as to certification of membership was not in the present proceedings.

Not Advised

Whitney said that none of the management had ever advised him to join the independent union, or asked him not to join the A. F. of L. union. He never had discussed the matter with any of the management.

Victor Lewis of High Falls testified that he had signed an application (which he had not read) to join the A. F. of L. uunion, but never paid them any money. Later, in March, he joined the independent union. He said that the management had not suggested to him that he withdraw from Local 182, nor suggested that he join the independents. Didn't know as anybody asked him to join the latter.

Ernest Nielsen of Maple Hill, employed at repair work for the Century Co. for eight or nine years, told of suggesting to Van Kleeck in January this year that an independent union be formed. Later, he testified that he was not exactly sure whether it was his idea or Van Kleeck's, but thought it was his. It was not due to any suggestion from the management.

Talked With None

Carl Gazley of Cottekill, employed at the lime plant at Tillson, was the last witness of the afternoon and was examined by Attorney Leonard Warren of Coxsackie. He was asked about testimony previously given by Raymond Coats, A. J. Hill and Fred Streinbecker, to the effect that Gazley had expressed views regarding joining the A. F. of L. union. The witness said that he never had talked with any of them regarding the matter, nor with anyone else in their presence.

Examined by Mr. Paradise, Gazley said that he knew James Craig, but never had talked with him about unions, nor had he told him that "if he wasn't a member of the union he had work for him." He had never had any conversation with anybody at any time about unions, he testified.

The hearing which started Tuesday before an N.L.R.B. trial examiner is on charges brought by the newly organized Local No. 182 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union against the Century Cement Mfg. Co. of Rosendale and A. J. Snyder doing business as the A. J. Snyder Lime Co. It continued until after 5 p. m. and was resumed today at 9:45 o'clock.

William J. Burns of Kingston, office manager for the two companies, was among those examined by James C. Paradise, attorney for the labor board, at the Wednesday morning session. He said he had been with the Snyder interests for 14 years. Mr. Burns refused to state the salaries received by members of the office force, saying that he "just didn't think it was right that salaries of the office force should be brought out in public." Despite insistence of Attorney Paradise, who said that the information was important to establish the interests of these employes in the business, Examiner Mazlow upheld the witness in his refusal to testify as to the salaries.

Asked as to whether George Taylor, shipping clerk, had resigned from the independent union (the Independent Lime and Cement Workers of Rosendale, organized in February this year, some time after the organization of Local 182 of the International Union), Burns said that he "didn't know that he belonged."

Other witnesses Wednesday morning were Fred Streinbecker, financial secretary of Local 182, and Clarence Gardner, assistant organizer for the International Union, who testified regarding applications.

Center for Armed Forces Is Opened

Entertainment Headquarters Includes Many Comforts, Red Cross Canteen

Officially opening its doors this morning at 10 a. m. Kingston's Service Men's Center at 672 Broadway is now ready to aid and entertain any member of the armed forces in uniform. To date there has been but a small expense to the operation of the center, since all of the furniture has been contributed and the use of the building is being given by Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties.

Twice last week service men stopped at the center while workers were preparing the interior for today's opening. These men had been at other towns and when they were sent to Kingston inquired for the address of a center. Most of them were in the city just one night but the need for an amusement center and homelike place for them was felt by the members of the committee with whom they talked.

The center is not only for amusement purposes but there will be many conveniences for the service men. There will be candy, cigars and cigarettes, a full canteen service contributed by the local chapter of the American Red Cross, stationery and facilities for the men to press and mend their clothing.

The center will also act as a clearing house for tickets and invitations to entertainments. There are magazines, musical instruments and recreational equipment. Hostesses are on duty from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. each day.

There are still a few minor details to be completed in the interior decorating before the public opening. However, these tasks will be finished within a few days and announcements will be made when the general public will be admitted for inspection of the center.

Many individuals and groups have contributed materials for this center and the committee hopes to be able to finance the operation of the project without drawing from the fund which has been collected from the recent salvage drive. This fund will be held in reserve to pay for large bills. In order to do this contributions will be needed and arrangements for any type of donations from individuals or groups may be made through the Volunteer Office at 247 Clinton avenue.

Alabama Draft Board Is Sick of Strike Business

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 24 (AP)—Declaring "I am sick and tired of this strike business," Alabama's Selective Service chief asserted today that "every board in Alabama will be told to reclassify all men who walk out on defense jobs."

Brig. Gen. Ben S. Smith, state Selective Service director and also head of Alabama's State Guard, said "no man is deferred in the draft because of personal favor. The deferment is granted because a worker is engaged in vital war industry.

"When that worker strikes, he has lost his preferred status if he stays out as long as 24 hours. I am working my office force 20 hours a day in an effort to get men in the army, and yet we are continually hearing about strikes."

In his first order under the new policy, Gen. Smith directed Mobile county draft boards to reclassify some 70 men who walked off a road construction project at an air base here because of union charges that the contractor employed non-union workers.

Doctors Face Adjustment To New Form of Society

Rome, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Doctors face adjustment to "a new form of Society" in which the people demand medical care "without much regard" to their ability to earn it, the State Medical Society's president declared today.

"Under the smoke and fire of battles," asserted Dr. George W. Cottis, Jamestown, in a prepared address, the world's people are moving "toward a new form of society in which independence is replaced by dependence, and freedom traded for security."

"The security they demand is security against want, hardship and illness," he told about 200 physicians at the 36th annual meeting of the society's fifth district branch, adding:

"That is the negative way of saying that they demanded assurance of shelter, food, clothing, recreation and medical care, without much regard to their ability to earn them."

Teachers Courses Slated This Year For Local School

Two courses for teachers and other qualified persons will be offered at Kingston this year, it was announced today by Dr. Pliny H. Powers, director of off-campus activities at the New York University School of Education.

"The Unit Approach to a Social Studies Curriculum" will be taught by J. Earle Thomson at the Kingston High School on Tuesdays at 4:15 o'clock. More and more are school systems in the reconstruction of curricula attempting an integration with the social studies as the core, and too frequently, those suggested units have become just another stereotyped course of study.

"Methods of War Teaching and War Management" will be presented at 5:15 o'clock by Miss Alice Studer. It will cover the content required in preparation for clinical instruction, the application of the principles of teaching to this field, and the methods of teaching through conferences, ward clinics, demonstrations, case studies, case assignments and projects as well as methods of evaluating the clinical work of students and graduate nurses.

Teachers and other students from suburban and rural areas may petition their local ration boards for supplemental gasoline rations to attend such courses according to Form O.P.A. R-535, Professor Powers pointed out.

Bicycles Trick Nazis

Men's bicycles are no longer requisitioned by the German army in Holland lest the Dutch play some new joke. When the original order was issued in one village near Rotterdam the owners, before handing over their bikes, smeared the saddles with glue and removed the brakes. As the road from the village was down a steep hill, and included a hairpin bend in front of the duck pond, the casualties incurred by the Nazis cyclist coincided with the number of machines they commandeered.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Sept. 24—Miss Florence DeWitt of Ellenville was one of the birthday party guests omitted in the last news item, as being present last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hover when they had the party for Mrs. Hover's father, John A. Barringer.

Mrs. Cornelia E. Rockerfeller of Tampa, Fla., arrived at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon of this week to spend some time with her foster son and family, the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer.

At the meeting held at the Krumville Reformed Church Tuesday evening of this week it was voted to incorporate the cemetery. John A. Barringer, the president of the unincorporated body, appointed the Rev. William H. Barringer as the chairman of the meeting. After the records of the last meeting, and the legal notice of the meeting had been read by the secretary, Miss Ruth Trowbridge, the following directors were elected: Harry Krum, John A. Barringer, the Rev. William H. Barringer, Alvin Markle, Joseph Every, Ella W. Merrihew, Mary Polinsky, Edith S. Davis, Ruth Trowbridge, Florence N. Christiana, Luther Merrihew and Mrs. Katie Davis. The board of directors elected the officers as follows: Honorary president, Ephraim Krum; president, John A. Barringer; first vice president, Luther Merrihew; second vice president, Harry Krum; secretary, Miss Ruth Trowbridge; treasurer, Ella W. Merrihew. Committee on superintendency is as follows: John A. Barringer, Harry Krum and Joseph Every. It was voted that the regular annual meeting is to be held the second Monday of November each year, and the first annual meeting will be held November 9, 1942. At that meeting four of the directors will be elected for a term of one year, four for a term of two years, and four for a term of three years. Also the bi-laws will be submitted for approval.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Crime Wave—Too Close!

Little Rock, Ark. — The deep pink complexions around police headquarters here are not sunburns. Within 24 hours, a masked gunman held up a service station across the street and escaped; a safe-cracker robbed a restaurant safe—also across the street; two tires were stolen from a truck parked in the filling station, and then somebody inserted 12 slugs in the soft drink vending machine in city hall corridor adjacent to headquarters.

Hospital Missing

Philadelphia—John Michel, Red Cross executive, made this appeal:

"Will the party who found a 12-bed emergency hospital in North Philadelphia yesterday kindly return it to the Red Cross?"

Michel explained that a cabinet maker, who built the interior of the 20 by 30-foot canvas emergency station, was delivering it when he lost the whole thing off his truck.

Eagle Eye

Weiser, Idaho—A. D. Rodabaugh of San Francisco has a new story about how he got that shiner.

And he has the eagle to prove it.

Rodabaugh and his wife were driving through Winnemucca, Nev., when the large golden bird attacked the automobile and crashed through the windshield—and into Rodabaugh's face. The Rodabaughs brought the bird along.

The casualties—Rodabaugh, one black eye, the eagle, one broken wing.

The Long Way Home

Portland, Ore.—Nancy Latourette lost her driver's license in Seaside, Ore., a year ago.

Yesterday it came home in an envelope postmarked "Somewhere in Australia." Sgt. Paul S. Yale, formerly of Portland, wrote he had found it while trudging through Australia bush country.

Miss Latourette doesn't know how it got to Australia.

Bottle Neck

Los Angeles—The United States Hydrographic Office received a communique from an American doughboy on a lonely South Pacific island.

He returned one of the 200 bottles sent out by the office and tossed from an Australia-bound steamer to obtain data on ocean currents.

The soldier made his report and then postscripted: "The next time you float a bottle my way, I would much prefer something else in it."

Has Ace in Hole

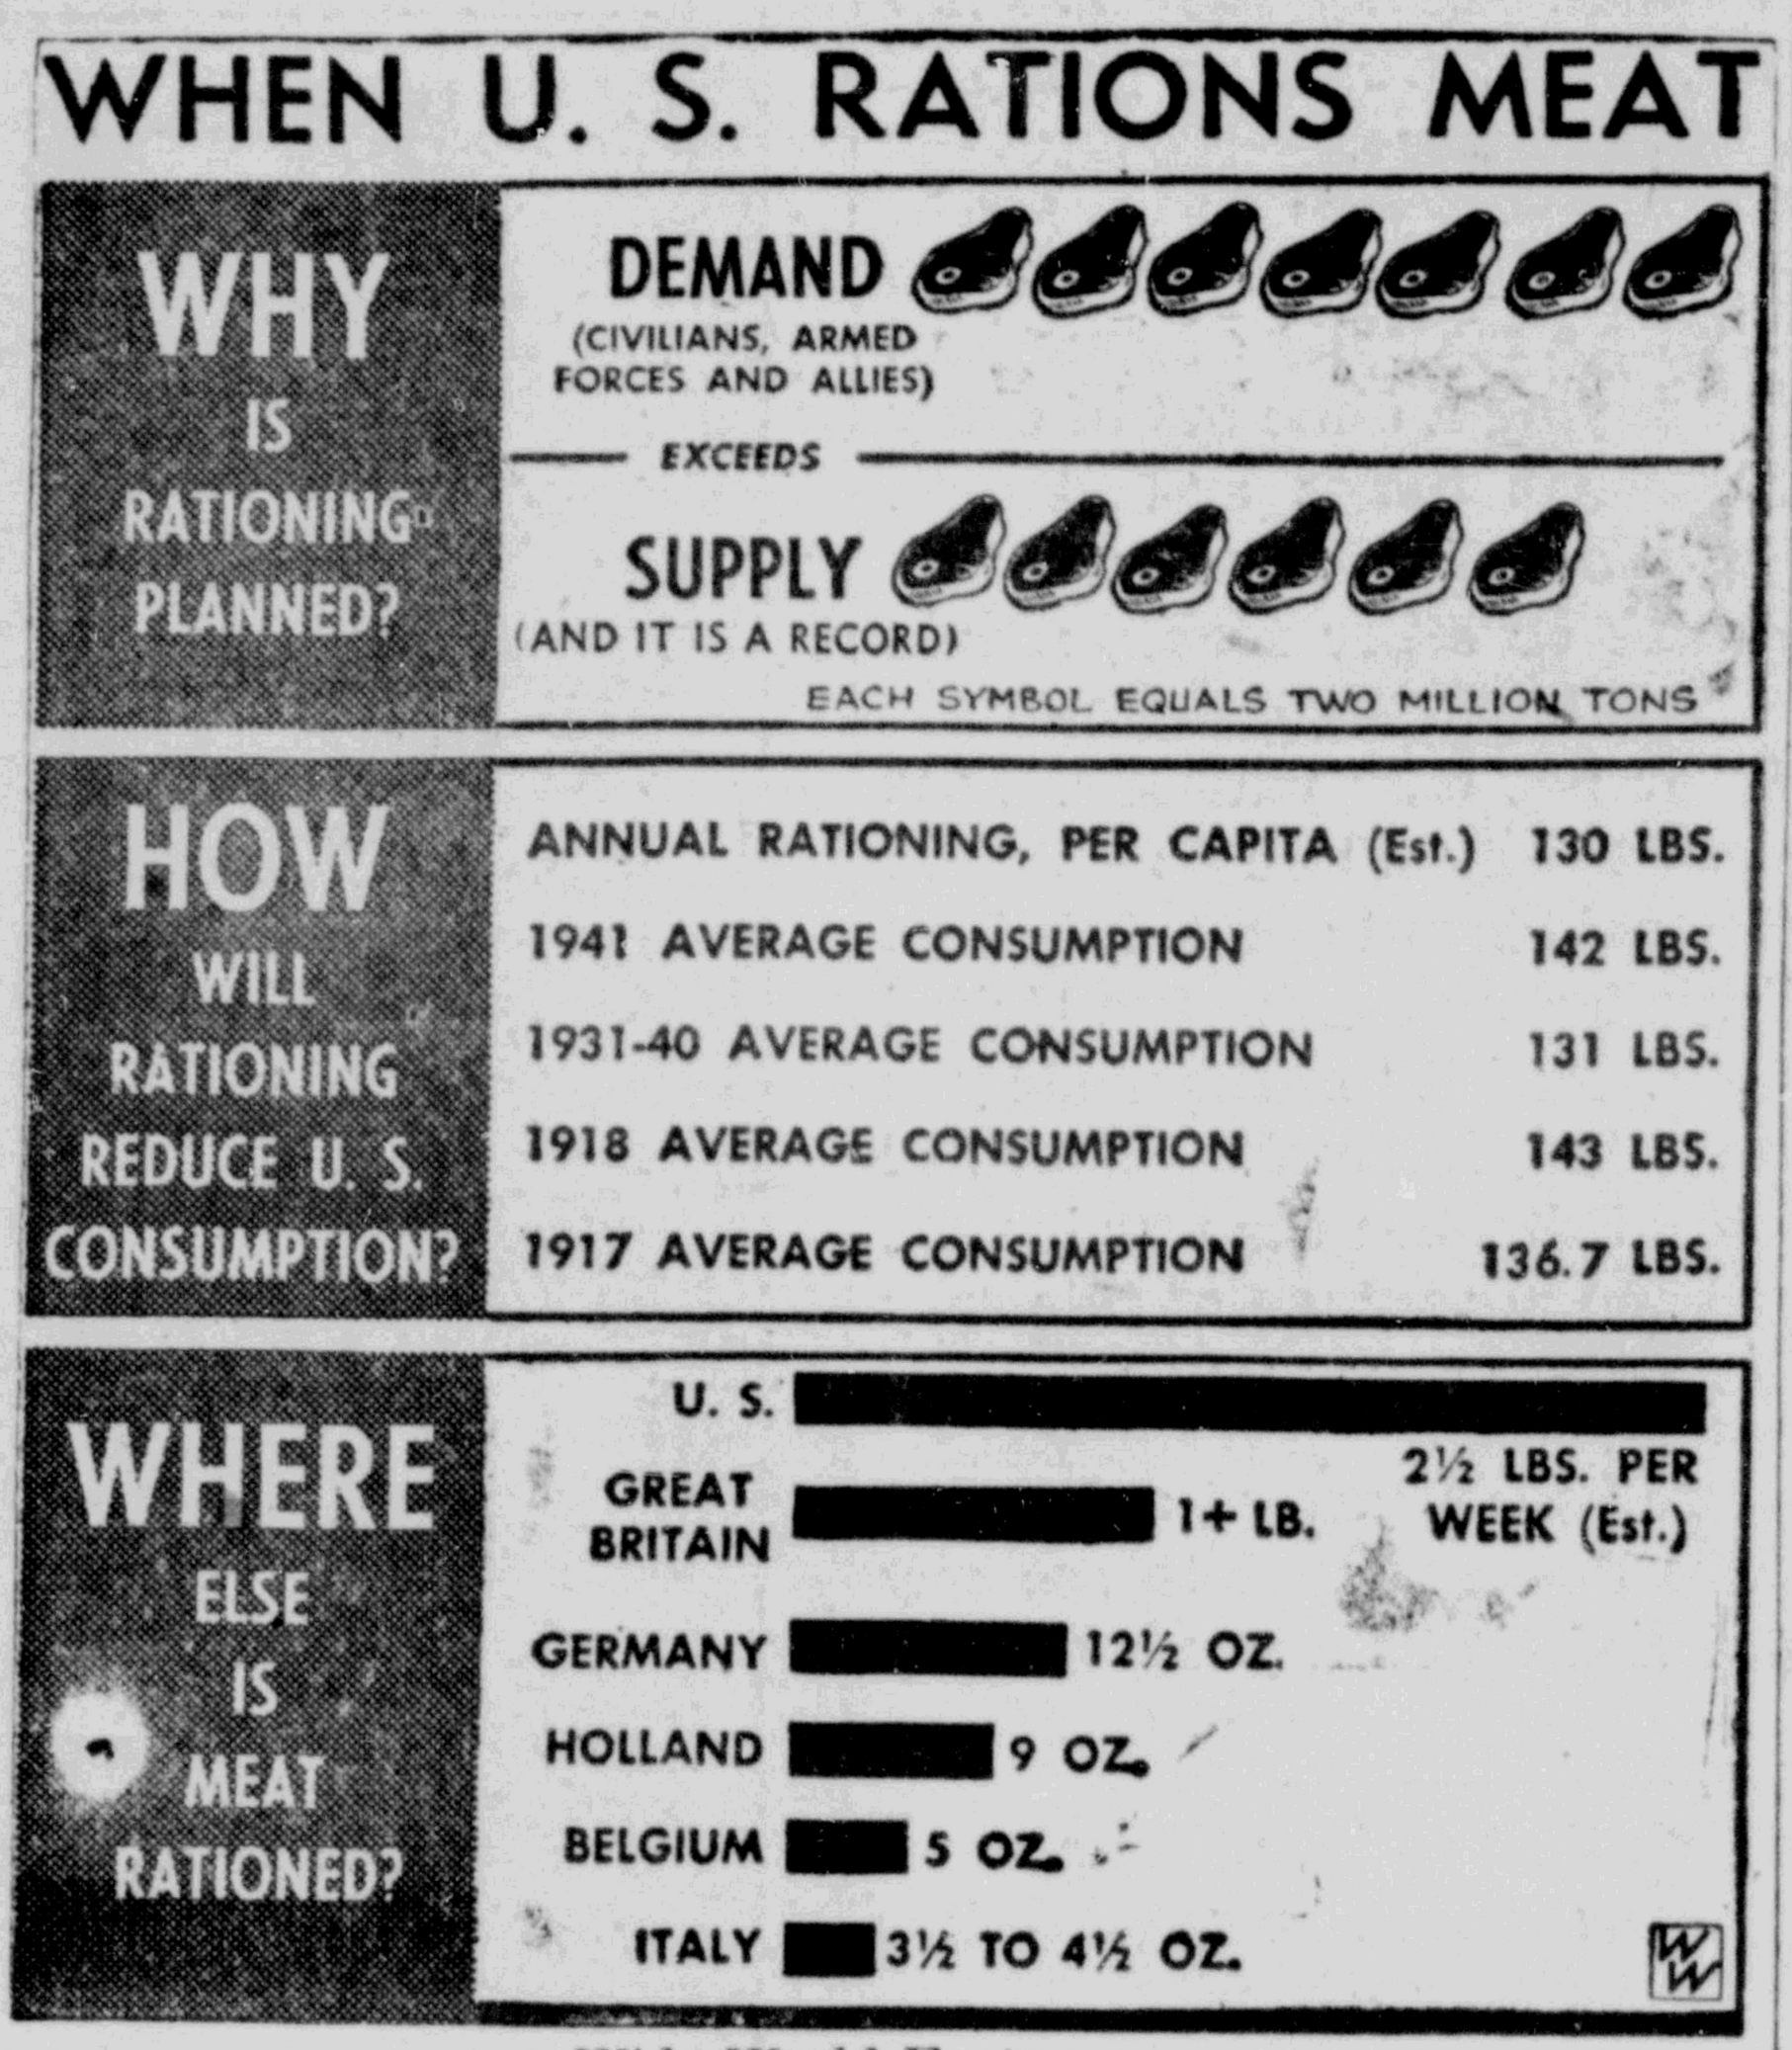
Hugo, Okla. (AP)—At one of these war-time first aid classes, Mike Hughes stuck his hand in the electric fan, lacerating three fingers. Excitement was high, since no one had a bandage. Somebody suggested an emergency bandage from a petticoat, but there were no petticoats. Finally, even as you, the first aiders called a doctor.

Homespun Hollywood

Hollywood stars are dipping into their grandmother's beauty recipes for a few home hints. Alexis Smith puts a cup of cornstarch in her bath. Jane Wyman keeps her hands smooth with cocoa butter.

Chemist Slain

Chicago police sought details of the private life of Gustave Redemske, 55, (above) well-to-do bachelor chemist, in an effort to solve the mystery of his slaying. Redemske's body was found in his home in Beverly Hills, Chicago suburb.



Wide World Features

Government officials have strongly recommended to the W. P. B. a regulation that will probably within a few months affect the eating habits of the 130,000,000 men, women and children of the United States; rationing of meat to a probable maximum of 2½ pounds per person each week. The chart, based on per capita consumption, gives the why, how and where of curtailment.

With A. E. F. in Iceland

With the United States Army in Iceland (AP)—Motion pictures are proving the Army's most effective weapon in fighting boredom and improving morale on this war front. Night after night thousands of American soldiers troop to enlarged Nisson hut camp theatres to see their favorite actor or actress on the screen. Theatres are scattered over the island and movie circuits are so arranged that nearly every American soldier, sailor and flier here may see at least one picture a week. Most of the larger camps have movies almost every night.

Local Union Not Mentioned, Says Hearing Witness

Tillson Man Discloses He Heard No Such Hint From Officials of Rosendale Plant

The National Labor Relations Board hearing at the court house was brought to a close at 11:30 this morning. Trial Examiner William Mazlow gave attorneys until the close of business on October 2 to file briefs. He said that if it is found necessary to have more time, and attorneys wire him by September 30, he will grant the request if he is in a position to do so.

Attorney Warren was not able to be present this morning and no further testimony was taken except that James Fahey was called to identify certain pay-roll names, and Attorney Kaercher put in evidence a list of members of the independent union, which he has been representing at the hearing.

There was brief oral argument by the attorneys and suggestions by the examiner as to some points which might be covered in briefs to be filed.

One of the points is whether or not the fact that the independent union's demand for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour, which was granted, was in the nature of a recognition of that organization by the company and did it have the effect of increasing the prestige of the independent union among the employes.

One of the charges is that the independent organization is a company dominated union.

Another disputed question is as to what date should be taken as a normal pay-roll date and when an election should be had to select a bargaining agent. Attorney for the N.L.R.B. argued that pay-rolls indicated that between November 8 last year and January 31 this year number of employes showed a drop of two-thirds, due to the seasonal nature of the work. He claimed that the International Union Local had a clear majority of the employes on the pay-roll as of November 8, at which time there appeared to be 80 employes, excluding those in a supervisory or clerical position. He said that at that time Local 182 had a membership of 46.

Examiner Mazlow said that he expected to render a decision in the matter in about two weeks.

Among those present at the hearing this week has been Samuel R. Diskan of Philadelphia, sixth general vice-president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union. He said this morning that out of 163 cement plants, located in 36 states, his organization has contracts with 93 per cent of them. He added that a few plants, in the western part of the country, are connected with the C.I.O.

Witness Anthony Guerrera of Tillson denied yesterday at the labor union hearing on charges brought against the Century Cement Mfg. Co. of Rosendale that an independent union had been suggested to him by plant officials. The hearing is under way at the county court house and several witnesses have been called to date.

Attorney William Kaercher, who represents the independent union, which it is charged is dominated by the company, opened the case for the defense at the start of the afternoon session and called Guerrera as his first witness.

Employed by the Century Cement Co. for six years, Guerrera is in charge of the mine. He told of the meeting, with four others, at the house of Harold Van Kleeck in January this year, at which time the first steps toward forming an independent union were taken. He also told of the meeting on February 13, at Kelder's Hotel when he was elected president of the independent union, John Fatum vice president; Henry Dunbar, treasurer, and William Whitney, financial secretary.

Guerrera testified that Howard H. Rowell, organizer for the international union, was present and was allowed to talk; that he told the independent employes that it was "foolish for a small group to go against a big organization like the A. F. of L." The witness quoted Rowell as saying that he hoped they would "think it over" and "come with us," but that "if you don't I am going to fight you to the last ditch."

The witness denied that Fahey, Burns, Snyder or Kelly had at any time suggested to him the formation of an independent union, that the companies never had contributed toward the independent union, or that, so far as he knew, had taken any part in its formation.

Not His Reason

Asked by Mr. Paradise, "Isn't it true that the only reason for the formation of the independent union was to keep the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' Union out of the plant?" Guerrera replied, "I don't know if you would put it that way. It was not my reason."

William Whitney of High Falls, financial secretary for the independent union, an electrician and maintenance man at the plants, was questioned by Attorney Kaercher regarding membership and also was asked to point out names on the membership roll of Local 182 who also were listed as members of the independent union.

LOCAL UNION—2— ....

He did not proceed far with this line of questioning when Trial Examiner Mazlow remarked that it was being charged that the independent union was "company dominated," and "if it is company dominated, what difference does it make how many members it has?" The examiner also ruled that the question as to certification of membership was not in the present proceedings.

Not Advised

Whitney said that none of the management had ever advised him to join the independent union, or asked him not to join the A. F. of L. union. He never had discussed the matter with any of the management.

Victor Lewis of High Falls testified that he had signed an application (which he had not read) to join the A. F. of L. union, but never paid them any money. Later, in March, he joined the independent union. He said that the management had not suggested to him that he withdraw from Local 182, nor suggested that he join the independents. Didn't know as anybody asked him to join the latter.

Ernest Nielsen of Maple Hill, employed at repair work for the Century Co. for eight or nine years, told of suggesting to Van Kleeck in January this year that an independent union be formed. Later, he testified that he was not exactly sure whether it was his idea or Van Kleeck's, but thought it was his. It was not due to any suggestion from the management.

Talked With None

Carl Gazley of Cottekill, employed at the lime plant at Tillson, was the last witness of the afternoon and was examined by Attorney Leonard Warren of Coxsackie. He was asked about testimony previously given by Raymond Coats, A. J. Hill and Fred Streinbecker, to the effect that Gazley had expressed views regarding joining the A. F. of L. union. The witness said that he never had talked with any of them regarding the matter, nor with anyone else in their presence.

Examined by Mr. Paradise, Gazley said that he knew James Craig, but never had talked with him about unions, nor had he told him that "if he wasn't a member of the union he had work for him." He had never had any conversation with anybody at any time about unions, he testified.

The hearing which started Tuesday before an N.L.R.B. trial examiner is on charges brought by the newly organized Local No. 182 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union against the Century Cement Mfg. Co. of Rosendale and A. J. Snyder doing business as the A. J. Snyder Lime Co. It continued until after 5 p. m. and was resumed today at 9:45 o'clock.

William J. Burns of Kingston, office manager for the two companies, was among those examined by James C. Paradise, attorney for the labor board, at the Wednesday morning session. He said he had been with the Snyder interests for 14 years. Mr. Burns refused to state the salaries received by members of the office force, saying that he "just didn't think it was right that salaries of the office force should be brought out in public." Despite insistence of Attorney Paradise, who said that the information was important to establish the interests of these employes in the business, Examiner Mazlow upheld the witness in his refusal to testify as to the salaries.

Asked as to whether George Taylor, shipping clerk, had resigned from the independent union (the Independent Lime and Cement Workers of Rosendale, organized in February this year, some time after the organization of Local 182 of the International Union), Burns said that he "didn't know that he belonged."

Other witnesses Wednesday morning were Fred Streinbecker, financial secretary of Local 182, and Clarence Gardner, assistant organizer for the International Union, who testified regarding applications.

Entertainment Headquarters Includes Many Comforts, Red Cross Canteen

Officially opening its doors this morning at 10 a. m. Kingston's Service Men's Center at 672 Broadway is now ready to aid and entertain any member of the armed forces in uniform. To date there has been but a small expense to the operation of the center, since all of the furniture has been contributed and the use of the building is being given by Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties.

Twice last week service men stopped at the center while workers were preparing the interior for today's opening. These men had been at other towns and when they were sent to Kingston inquired for the address of a center. Most of them were in the city just one night but the need for an amusement center and homelike place for them was felt by the members of the committee with whom they talked.

The center is not only for amusement purposes but there will be many conveniences for the service men. There will be candy, cigars and cigarettes, a full canteen service contributed by the local chapter of the American Red Cross, stationery and facilities for the men to press and mend their clothing.

The center will also act as a clearing house for tickets and invitations to entertainments. There are magazines, musical instruments and recreational equipment. Hostesses are on duty from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. each day.

There are still a few minor details to be completed in the interior decorating before the public opening. However, these tasks will be finished within a few days and announcements will be made when the general public will be admitted for inspection of the center.

Many individuals and groups have contributed materials for this center and the committee hopes to be able to finance the operation of the project without drawing from the fund which has been collected from the recent salvage drive. This fund will be held in reserve to pay for large bills. In order to do this contributions will be needed and arrangements for any type of donations from individuals or groups may be made through the Volunteer Office at 247 Clinton avenue.

Alabama Draft Board Is Sick of Strike Business

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 24 (AP)—Declaring "I am sick and tired of this strike business," Alabama's Selective Service chief asserted today that "every board in Alabama will be told to reclassify all men who walk out on defense jobs."

Brig. Gen. Ben S. Smith, state Selective Service director and also head of Alabama's State Guard, said "no man is deferred in the draft because of personal favor. The deferment is granted because a worker is engaged in vital war industry.

"When that worker strikes, he has lost his preferred status if he stays out as long as 24 hours. I am working my office force 20 hours a day in an effort to get men in the army, and yet we are continually hearing about strikes."

In his first order under the new policy, Gen. Smith directed Mobile county draft boards to reclassify some 70 men who walked off a road construction project at an air base here because of union charges that the contractor employed non-union workers.

Doctors Face Adjustment To New Form of Society

Rome, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Doctors face adjustment to "a new form of Society" in which the people demand medical care "without much regard" to their ability to earn it, the State Medical Society's president declared today.

"Under the smoke and fire of battles," asserted Dr. George W. Cottis, Jamestown, in a prepared address, the world's people are moving "toward a new form of society in which independence is replaced by dependence, and freedom traded for security."

"The security they demand is security against want, hardship and illness," he told about 200 physicians at the 36th annual meeting of the society's fifth district branch, adding:

"That is the negative way of saying that they demanded assurance of shelter, food, clothing, recreation and medical care, without much regard to their ability to earn them."

WOMAN IN POLITICS

Life is added to a dragging political campaign by the advent of Clare Booth—colorful war correspondent, author, magazine writer, etc.—as Republican candidate for Congress in Connecticut. This eloquent young lady at least knows what is going on in the world and, regardless of party allegiance, may stir up a sluggish House if she reaches Washington.

"We know tonight, as we stand here," she says, "that the walls of this hall shut out a horrible vision of human suffering. All over the world, with every tick of the clock, hundreds of people are dying. Everywhere, as we talk, men are maiming, mutilating, burning each other and blasting each other into eternity. Women are being buried with their babies in their arms under the ruins of their bombed homes. Whole peoples grow sunken-eyed, bare-boned, rickety, easy prey to pestilence, after famine. And with every breath we take in, some starved child breathes its last.

"I think that we had better make a pledge to the dead. To those who do not see, but who are also listening. To the spirits of all those killed at Pearl Harbor and after, our pledge is this: They shall not have died in vain. We pledge them total victory, which is not only the military defeat of their enemies but a just and fruitful peace and a better world for their children. The future of their children is the only stake that our American dead have left in their country now."

Hardly less vital is her practical plea: "See to it that the two-party system survives, for political liberty boils down to a very simple idea: have two big parties." Criticise government policies, she urges, but give support to the President in his final decisions. For "if our Commander in Chief fails in the two years ahead, America fails."

SILVER SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco is a silver city. The taxi man changes the traveler's sawbuck with "If you don't mind taking silver?" and hands over eighteen shiny new half dollars and small change. The traveler can but laugh and take them, dispersing them among various pockets which promptly jingle. San Francisco makes the silver money and is proud of it.

The streets are bright and shining. Men and women both are smartly dressed and walk briskly. The feeling is that of New York, but with a difference. San Francisco lacks the drabness of most of the older city. It's a little daughter of New York—smarter, brighter, peppier, newer. It knows all the answers.

The rounded hills and the Spanish influence on the architecture continue that bright half-dollar feeling. Little new stucco houses in rows are strange and fascinating to eyes accustomed to wooden boxes framed in green. Funny little patio entrances, millions of rounded bay windows, gay flowers against white walls are at once exotic and American. There's strong youth, not decadence.

San Francisco specializes in fogs. It has high fogs and low fogs, light fogs and deep fogs, lifting, sinking, all-day and pea-soup fogs. The inhabitants point to them with pride. They are life-giving, they say. At least they are lovely, with a silvery softness, rolling off under a sunshiny breeze. Night lights are all dimmed these days, but the Bay still shimmers under a silver moon.

STRENGTH AND FREEDOM

When President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie agree about a public policy or principle, it may as well be assumed that it's true.

Mr. Willkie in his presidential campaign two years ago kept pounding home, in every speech, the principle that "only the productive can be strong, and only the strong can be free." It always sounded good, but at the time it seemed more like oratory than a living principle.

Much has happened since 1940. And the old, familiar declaration recurred to many minds recently when the President said: "Only by stripping our civilian economy to the bone can maximum production and certain victory be reached." The two statements mean the same thing. Today they are not oratory but living truth, which no group of Americans can safely ignore.

TITHING

A Gallup poll shows a majority of American voters in favor of paying a dime out of every dollar for war savings bonds and stamps. They think all people with incomes, whether in wages or salaries or other forms, should do this.

Such "tithing" is not only patriotic. It is perhaps the easiest way there is to save money. The price paid is not spent; it is kept by the safest custodian on earth—the United States government. And it "works while you sleep" by accumulating interest. Millions of Americans will be glad, when the war is won, that they have taken advantage of this easy way to make themselves save money.

The President refuses to accept a Jap flag for his office. He doesn't want to see any Jap flags around and that's a good, healthy prejudice.

It is sad to think that so beautiful a vegetable as an eggplant should be regarded as food.

Then, too, there's quite a bit of inflation in the form of inflated egos.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

VITAMIN A AND EYESIGHT

It is agreed that the greatest discovery in nutrition in recent years is the vitamins. Each and every vitamin so far discovered gives some definite help in maintaining good nutrition and, in other indirect ways, is a real help to the body processes.

Unfortunately, many individuals are relying almost entirely on vitamins not only for nourishment but for other defects or deficiencies in the body.

Thus the fact that vitamin A is of great help where there is some defect of the surface cells of the body—skin, lining of the eyelids, covering of eyeball and other surfaces—has caused many individuals to believe that vitamin A will restore their eyesight and make glasses unnecessary.

If an individual is getting little or no vitamin A in his food, he may find that his eye reflexes are slow; that is, when he passes from light to darkness or darkness to light the eyes are slow in adjusting themselves to the change. In severe cases inflammation results. It is in these cases which, though it is the eyes that are affected, that vitamin A taken direct or in milk, fruit, vegetables, cod liver oil, gives such wonderful results. As these are common foods in general use, physiologists state that the retina, at back of eye, does not usually need extra vitamin A.

We are told in the bulletin of the Better Vision Institute that about 95 per cent (19 of every 20) of all cases of poor vision result from refractive errors, that is, the object does not strike the retina at back of eye properly—short sight, long sight, astigmatism (object not clear). These defects of vision are corrected by glasses which bend the rays of light in such a way that the object strikes the retina properly. Vitamin A cannot perform this service for poor vision.

The thought, then, is that vitamin A has a definite use in certain eye conditions but it cannot restore poor eyesight nor can it take the place of glasses in making an image strike the retina properly.

I am writing this because so many are taking vitamin A for their poor eyesight instead of consulting an oculist or optometrist. This means that they are not only wasting their time and money but are losing valuable time in not getting vision corrected properly.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

When in 1926 it was decided to remove St. John's Church from Wall street to its present location on Albany avenue, the contracting firm of Michaud-Campbell Co. Inc., was awarded the contract.

Work on taking down the old church was started in September of that year, and the church was re-erected on its present site.

Dr. John T. Buckley of Elmendorf street died on September 19, 1926, in his home, after a brief illness. I recall that Dr. Buckley was very active in politics in Kingston and had served as a supervisor during 1894-95.

At the time of his death Dr. Buckley was serving as sanitary inspector of the Board of Health. During his lifetime he had served as coroner and also as health officer of the city.

I recall that in the years before the World War the late Mayor William D. Brinnier was the owner of a motor cruiser and that one day he invited a party of friends including Dr. Buckley and Seth Jocelyn of the sheriff's office to make a trip to Poughkeepsie and return on his boat.

The trip went off without a mishap as the former mayor was a skilled riverman.

Mayor Brinnier was also an ardent horseman and in his day owned some fine trotters. Older readers will recall the many races staged on Albany avenue during the summer months and also the horse races staged on the Rondout creek during the winter.

Harry B. Walker and Elmer Palen can tell many interesting yarns of the old days when the horse was in his heyday in the years before the advent of the auto era. Both men are still members of the Kingston Horsemen's Association, and Mr. Palen is still active in holding horse auctions in the central part of the city.

Mr. Palen has been engaged in the buying and selling of horses for many years, and in all those years he has become widely known throughout this area.

The Kingston Horsemen's Association is still in existence, and undoubtedly with gas rationing now in force the association is likely to obtain a new lease of life.

Damage Suits Involving Back Pay Might Come Once War Is Over and Constitutionality of Acts Is Tested

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 24 — Some day, when the war is over and the courts get around to passing on the constitutionality of various acts occurring during the war, there may be some far-reaching damage suits involving back pay.

History reveals that after the Civil War, the Supreme Court of the United States questioned some of the acts of President Lincoln, and it has been the experience of the nation with acts performed during war that a great deal more objectivity occurs in the calmer moments of a post-war period.

Literally hundreds of millions of dollars of payments for double time or premium pay may be the subject of litigation, and employers may find themselves saddled with judgments involving enormous sums just because the President has issued an executive order of doubtful constitutionality which impairs existing contracts between unions and employers.

Many of the leaders of the national unions are sending word to their locals not to take the initiative in abrogating any contracts involving double time or premium pay, but to put the burden of reopening the contracts on employers or on the government.

Most of the union lawyers are assuming that the President has the right to impair their contracts under his so-called war powers. There is, of course, a difference of opinion on this point, for while congress by legislation may impair private contracts, no such authority has been delegated to the President and none is inherent in his executive office.

When the famous gold clauses were being argued after America departed from the gold standard, many people thought even congress didn't have the right to impair private contracts. There certainly has been little support for the theory that the President may nullify private contracts without previous sanction by congress.

The new executive order which calls for nullification of certain provisions of private contracts by October 1 as they relate to overtime pay could be challenged through damage suits, but it is unlikely that these would arise during the war. The statute of limitations in some states would bar the reopening of these matters, but there are several states in which the statute does not begin to bar lawsuits till three or five years have elapsed.

The principle is, of course, vital to the future of union labor, because if a President of the United States can at any time during war nullify contracts that exist between an employer and a union, he can order unions to do virtually anything that he thinks they should do if he only bases his action on a claim that it will aid the war effort.

The constitution, of course, does not grant to the President as commander in chief any new powers during war that he does not possess in peacetime. So if it is argued that the commander in chief can, under the constitution, nullify private contracts, then the way is opened for him to do so during peacetime as well—a point that would rise to plague any supreme court if it upheld such action as being derived from the commander in chief's powers over the military establishment.

The only chance for the recent orders to be validated would be by act of congress, which body alone possesses and may delegate war powers to the President. The President's order is scheduled to go into effect on October 1, and it may be that by that time congress will have delegated to the President full power over wage payments. The question might still arise as to indemnifying employers who are subject to suits for back pay, and the safest way to avoid the issue would be for congress to stipulate that wherever private contracts conflict with the provisions of the new wage control bill, the federal government shall indemnify the contractors against losses arising out of actions under state laws governing private contract obligations.

The more the issue of wage control by the federal government is studied, the more it becomes apparent that a far-reaching step is being taken now under the stress of war and with little thought to the legal implications for the after-the-war period.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(Editor's Note: Never before in a war have U. S. fighting men been granted so many legal benefits and economic protections. In three articles, Jack Stinnett, Washington correspondent for the Kingston Daily Freeman, discusses many of the things Congress has done for men in uniform.)

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Life for the fighting man of World War II is no downy couch. He has to be rough, tough and a smart jack of more trades than one. But he can go off to the wars knowing that never in history has Congress taken so many precautions to see that service men (and women) get so much in pay, legal protection, benefits for dependents and assurance of economic security when they come marching home.

Probably everybody knows that the service men's base pay now starts at $50 a month; that with the exception of a few grades in the Australian army, the U. S. soldier is the best paid in the world, receiving more than four times as much as a British soldier; 12 times as much as a Russian; and in the case of a private, 160 times as much as a Jap.

It hasn't been so widely publicized that non-commissioned officers and privates get a 20 per cent (and commissioned officers a 10 per cent) bonus for service overseas; that he gets an automatic five per cent raise every three years; that if he is a paratrooper he gets $50 a month bonus; that there are also bonuses for flying soldiers and men in other hazardous branches; that the lowliest private is reckoned by the Army to be earning the civilian equivalent of $1,700 a year.

That doesn't take into consideration either what total or partial dependents get. It doesn't consider that one-cent a mile (on round trip basis) that is deducted from his train fare while on furlough or the cash allowance he gets on his return for rations he didn't eat (42 to 56 cents a day).

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act of 1940 covers a lot. It authorizes the courts to stay execution of judgment and stay (or even vacate) attachments and garnishments against men in the service. It protects against the lapse of certain life insurance policies; against forced payment while in the service of the burdensome income taxes owed at the time of induction.

It won't prevent the eviction of a man's family for non-payment of rent, but it clears the way for staying that eviction for a while. Under some circumstances, it protects the man in service against sale of his properties for non-payment of taxes.

By extending the statute of limitations on his debts by that length of time which he is in service, it relieves the creditors of being forced to take action on such debts while a man is in service.

In addition to all of that, Congress has provided that men in the service may take out insurance policies from $1,000 to $10,000, in multiples of $500. There is nothing compulsory about it. After a year they may be converted to 20-pay, 30-pay, or ordinary life policies.

Best Fuel Woods On State's Woodlands

Ithaca, N. Y. — The best fuelwoods in the United States are in farm woodlands.

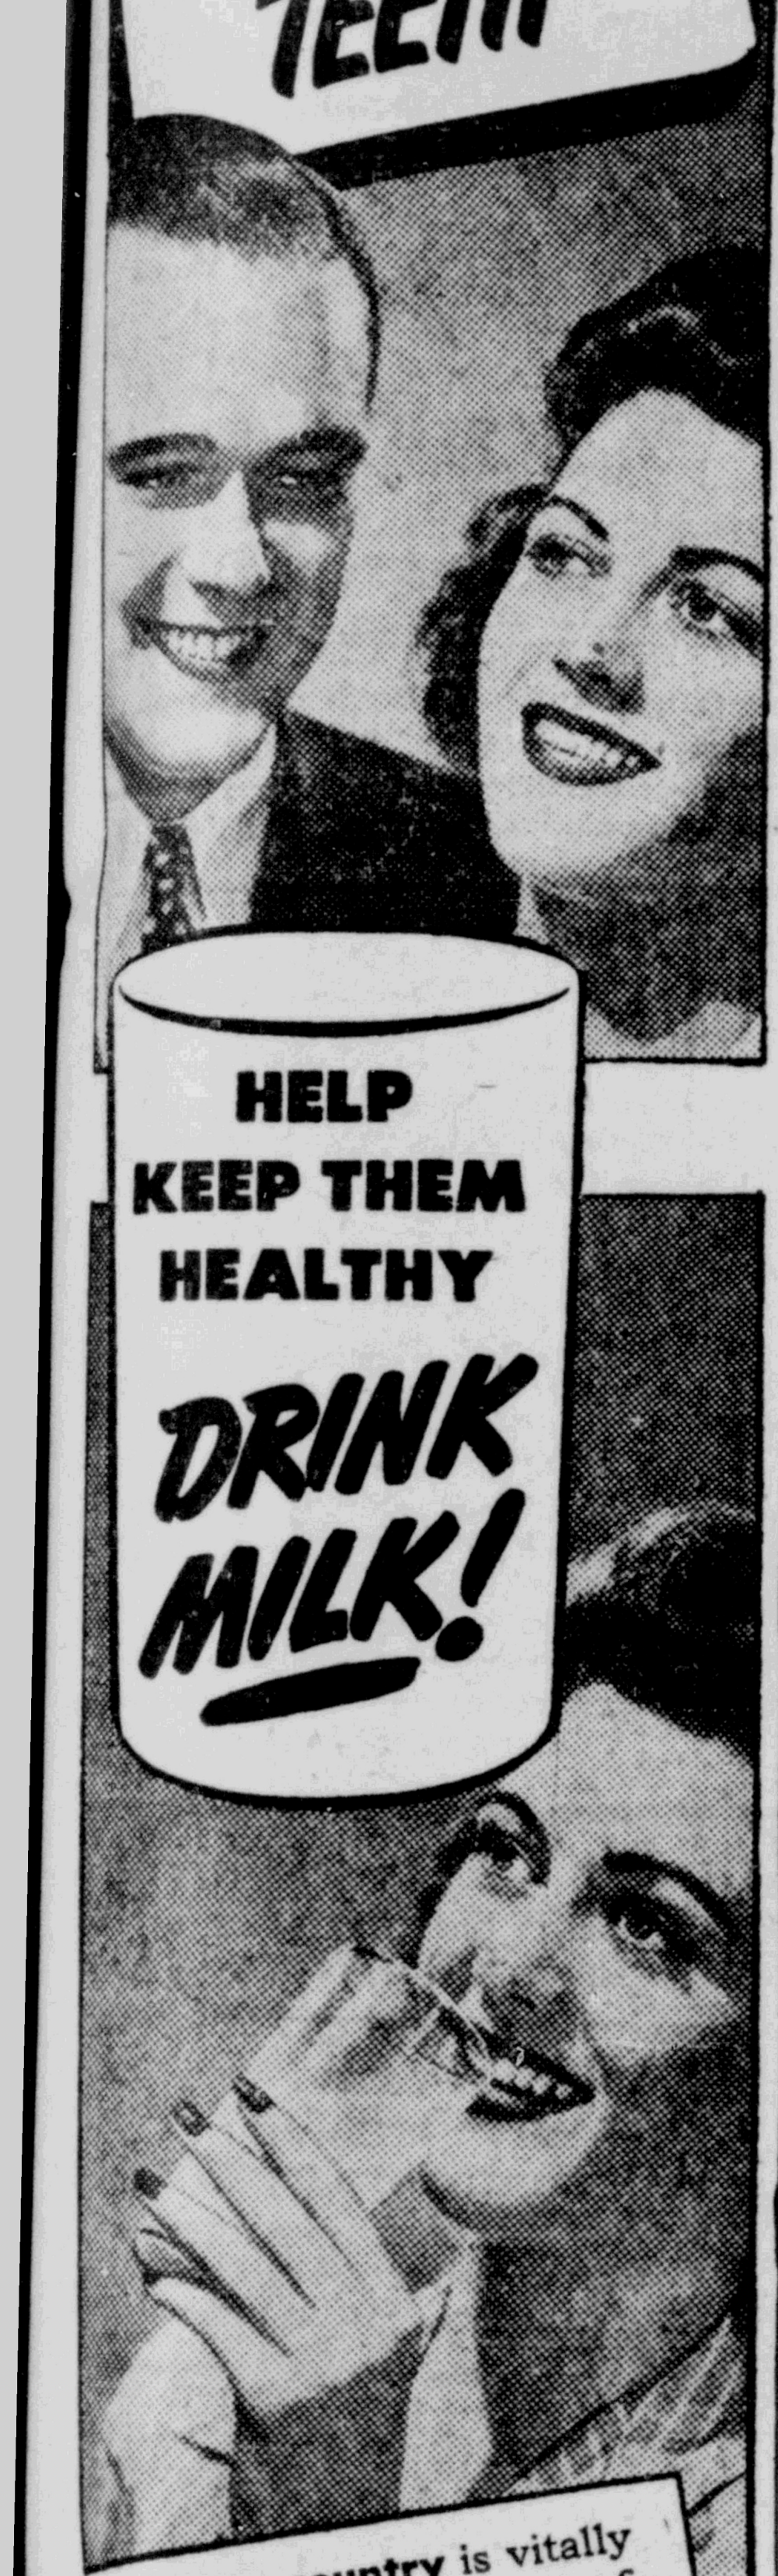
In a recent government publication, nine woods are listed as having heating qualities in which one seasoned cord equals one ton of anthracite coal. Seven out of the nine woods mentioned are abundant in New York state. They are oak, beech, black birch, yellow birch, hickory, hard maple, and black locust.

To have this coal equivalent, says Prof. J. A. Cope of the New York State College of Agriculture, the wood must be seasoned, which involves at least three months of good seasoning weather. But in an emergency, and that is what is likely to develop, these woods may be burned green. For instance, seasoned beech rates 99, if coal is 100, while green beech fresh from the woodlot rates 79. In other words, it takes about 20 units of the heat to drive off that excess moisture but there are still 80 left for the room, he explains.

For the most heat from wood, whether in stove or furnace, use body wood, split rather than round, and of the largest size that can be put through the door. Prof. Cope suggests that if the fire box is close-packed, good combustion and uniformly-maintained heat is obtained. A mixture of wood coal in the furnace is another possibility that merits consideration in the emergency. From 25 per cent to 50 per cent of coal can be saved in this way.

Many other suggestions and helpful hints are to be found in a new bulletin just off the press in Washington. Write directly to your congressman for Farmers' bulletin 1912, "Wood Fuel in War Time."

BEAUTIFUL TEETH



HELP KEEP THEM HEALTHY DRINK MILK!

Today our country is vitally interested in the health of every one of us . . . and in every phase of our health. To maintain the health and beauty of your teeth, as well as your general vitality and well-being, the minerals and vitamins found in milk are absolutely required. Milk is not only a delicious, economical beverage . . . but an indispensable food. Be sure you drink it every day!

THE STATE OF NEW YORK

Better Farm Pastures Forecast in State

Ithaca, N. Y. — One third of the milk produced under normal conditions in New York state is derived from pasture. During war-time, it is highly desirable to produce an even higher proportion from pasture, by proper attention to pasture improvement and grazing management. This not only reduces costs of production but also lessens the need for purchased feeds which require transportation. These are the findings of Prof. D. B. Johnstone-Wallace at the New York State College of Agriculture.

An investigation by the pasture expert showed that comparatively poor pastures in New York produce each 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients at a cost of 50 cents, whereas the same amount of nutrients in hay cost $1, and in concentrates, $1.50. Costs of production have risen under war-time conditions, but the margin of difference between the cost of nutrients in improved pastures compared with those in hay and concentrates, is greater than ever before, he points out.

Good grazing management in the fall, Prof. Johnstone-Wallace continued, involves heavy stocking of improved pastures in early September, to make full use of favorable growing conditions. The rate of herbage growth, however, decreases rapidly during this month. Pastures which are producing about 50 pounds of dry matter an acre a day, may be producing less than ten pounds an acre a day by the end of the month; so this is one time of year when the pastures should not be closely grazed, he indicates.

Grazing management experiments which have been in progress at Cornell for several years clear up many problems that face stock-men, Prof. Johnstone-Wallace declared. Establishment of new pastures from fall seedings is seldom successful under New York conditions. Fall seeded grasses do well, however, if seeded before September 15.

Church Service Club To Hold Fall Meeting

The Service Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will hold its first meeting after the summer vacation Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ethel Heiselman, on West Chestnut street. Albert Kurdt of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, will be the guest speaker. His subject will be "Defense Foods." The program for the coming season and other important business will be considered at the business meeting. Members of the club are invited to bring a guest with them to this opening meeting.

MOUSE STOPS BROADCAST

Just as engineers switched on the broadcasting apparatus and the announcer cleared his throat for action in a small country station near Sydney, Australia, a mouse stopped everything. The current shot through the mouse, causing a short circuit and burning out the high tension transformer. After several hours the engineers found what remained of the mouse.

All Gardens Will Need Fall Weed Harvesting

Ithaca, N. Y. — Harvest of the bountiful crop of weeds now before they can go to seed will save the gardener or vegetable grower many hours of work next spring and summer, as well as in other growing seasons.

According to R. D. Sweet of the New York State College of Agriculture, the moist weather of this summer has fostered weed growth, so that control of the unwanted plants is particularly important.

Most growers like to blame the weather, or weed seeds from manure or from flood water as the source of the perennial growth of weeds on their cultivated land. But whatever precautions a home gardener or a commercial grower takes, says Sweet, none has ever waged a successful war on weeds without an intensive cleanup campaign in the fall.

A home gardener should not wait until October to have a neighboring farmer come in to disk the weeds into the soil, as by that time the weed seeds will have ripened and spread. Weeds pulled now can be placed on the compost pile to provide fertilizer instead of competition for the crop plants of next year.

To cover the soil for winter, and to provide a growth to plow under next spring as a source of humus, rye may be planted as soon as the weeds are removed, either in the entire area where crops have been harvested, or between the rows of late growing crops. Rye grass or legumes like ladino clover should not be planted late in September or October, as they will not grow fast enough to protect the soil for winter.

Men in 3-A Asked To Volunteer for Officers' School

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Men classified 3-A by the selective service were asked by the Anti-Aircraft Command today to volunteer as officer candidates at the Anti-Aircraft School, Camp Davis, N. C.

Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Green, commanding general of the Anti-Aircraft Command, said a nationwide quota of 500 volunteer officer candidates for the school offered an opportunity "to those Americans who earnestly seek a way to serve their country but who heretofore have been deterred by responsibilities to dependents."

Volunteer officer candidates undergo a 90-day basic military training course, followed by 12 weeks of instruction in school. Those who fail of appointments as a second lieutenant are permitted to return to civilian life.

Men who have completed high school algebra and trigonometry have the necessary mathematical training for anti-aircraft, Green said, and "opportunities for advancement are as good here as anywhere in the armed services."

Applications should be filed through local draft boards.

Simon Lake Foresees Sub Raids in East River

Philadelphia, Sept. 23 (AP)—Simon Lake, designer who built the world's first big submarine, says he is prepared for the time when enemy submarines will venture up the East river in New York, torpedo docks and shipping and "lie unseen on the river bed for months—if necessary—until they can get away."

"I know of a secret process for manufacturing air by which the ships could remain submerged for a year and not even impair the crew's health," he told a luncheon club without disclosing who developed the technique.

The white-haired, 76-year-old inventor also said that one giant "underseas freighter," of the type he proposed to the Senate military affairs committee August 3, would be "worth 38 of the mammoth super-cargo planes" envisioned by Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser.

Lake testified before the committee that similar super-submarines were used by Germany for troop movements. He told the Philadelphia Optimist Club he had suggested building such ships here and added "the navy just couldn't see things my way."

Teachers Courses Slated This Year For Local School

Two courses for teachers and ther qualified persons will be offered at Kingston this year, it was nounced today by Dr. Pliny H. Powers, director of off-campus activities at the New York University School of Education.

"The Unit Approach to a Social Studies Curriculum" will be taught by J. Earle Thomson at the Kingston High School on Tuesdays at 4:15 o'clock. More and more are school systems in the reconstruction of curricula attempting an integration with the social studies as the core, and too frequently, those suggested units have become just another stereotyped course of study.

"Methods of War Teaching and War Management" will be presented at 5:15 o'clock by Miss Alice Studer. It will cover the content required in preparation for clinical instruction, the application of the principles of teaching to this field, and the methods of teaching through conferences, ward clinics, demonstrations, case studies, case assignments and projects as well as methods of evaluating the clinical work of students and graduate nurses.

Teachers and other students from suburban and rural areas may petition their local ration boards for supplemental gasoline rations to attend such courses according to Form O.P.A. R-535, Professor Powers pointed out.

Bicycles Trick Nazis

Men's bicycles are no longer requisitioned by the German army in Holland lest the Dutch play some new joke. When the original order was issued in one village near Rotterdam the owners, before handing over their bikes, smeared the saddles with glue and removed the brakes. As the road from the village was down a steep hill, and included a hairpin bend in front of the duck pond, the casualties incurred by the Nazis cyclist coincided with the number of machines they commandeered.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Sept. 24—Miss Florence DeWitt of Ellenville was one of the birthday party guests omitted in the last news item, as being present last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hover when they had the party for Mrs. Hover's father, John A. Barringer.

Mrs. Cornelia E. Rockerfeller of Tampa, Fla., arrived at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon of this week to spend some time with her foster son and family, the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer.

At the meeting held at the Krumville Reformed Church Tuesday evening of this week it was voted to incorporate the cemetery. John A. Barringer, the president of the unincorporated body, appointed the Rev. William H. Barringer as the chairman of the meeting. After the records of the last meeting, and the legal notice of the meeting had been read by the secretary, Miss Ruth Trowbridge, the following directors were elected: Harry Krum, John A. Barringer, the Rev. William H. Barringer, Alvin Markle, Joseph Every, Ella W. Merrihew, Mary Polinsky, Edith S. Davis, Ruth Trowbridge, Florence N. Christiana, Luther Merrihew and Mrs. Katie Davis. The board of directors elected the officers as follows: Honorary president, Ephraim Krum; president, John A. Barringer; first vice president, Luther Merrihew; second vice president, Harry Krum; secretary, Miss Ruth Trowbridge; treasurer, Ella W. Merrihew. Committee on superintendency is as follows: John A. Barringer, Harry Krum and Joseph Every. It was voted that the regular annual meeting is to be held the second Monday of November each year, and the first annual meeting will be held November 9, 1942. At that meeting four of the directors will be elected for a term of one year, four for a term of two years, and four for a term of three years. Also the bi-laws will be submitted for approval.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Crime Wave—Too Close!

Little Rock, Ark. — The deep pink complexions around police headquarters here are not sunburns. Within 24 hours, a masked gunman held up a service station across the street and escaped; a safe-cracker robbed a restaurant safe—also across the street; two tires were stolen from a truck parked in the filling station, and then somebody inserted 12 slugs in the soft drink vending machine in city hall corridor adjacent to headquarters.

Hospital Missing

Philadelphia—John Michel, Red Cross executive, made this appeal: "Will the party who found a 12-bed emergency hospital in North Philadelphia yesterday kindly return it to the Red Cross?"

Michel explained that a cabinet maker, who built the interior of the 20 by 30-foot canvas emergency station, was delivering it when he lost the whole thing off his truck.

Eagle Eye

Weiser, Idaho—A. D. Rodabaugh of San Francisco has a new story about how he got that shiner.

And he has the eagle to prove it.

Rodabaugh and his wife were driving through Winnemucca, Nev., when the large golden bird attacked the automobile and crashed through the windshield—and into Rodabaugh's face. The Rodabaughs brought the bird along.

The casualties—Rodabaugh, one black eye, the eagle, one broken wing.

The Long Way Home

Portland, Ore.—Nancy Latourette lost her driver's license in Seaside, Ore., a year ago.

Yesterday it came home in an envelope postmarked "Somewhere in Australia." Sgt. Paul S. Yale, formerly of Portland, wrote he had found it while trudging through Australia bush country.

Miss Latourette doesn't know how it got to Australia.

Bottle Neck

Los Angeles—The United States Hydrographic Office received a communique from an American doughboy on a lonely South Pacific island.

He returned one of the 200 bottles sent out by the office and tossed from an Australia-bound steamer to obtain data on ocean currents.

The soldier made his report and then postscripted: "The next time you float a bottle my way, I would much prefer something else in it."

Has Ace in Hole

Hugo, Okla. (AP) — At one of these war-time first aid classes, Mike Hughes stuck his hand in the electric fan, lacerating three fingers. Excitement was high, since no one had a bandage. Somebody suggested an emergency bandage from a petticoat, but there were no petticoats. Finally, even as you, the first aiders called a doctor.

With A. E. F. in Iceland

With the United States Army in Iceland (AP)—Motion pictures are proving the Army's most effective weapon in fighting boredom and improving morale on this war front. Night after night thousands of American soldiers troop to enlarged Nisson hut camp theatres to see their favorite actor or actress on the screen. The theatres are scattered over the island and movie circuits are so arranged that nearly every American soldier, sailor and flier here may see at least one picture a week. Most of the larger camps have movies almost every night.

Business Man (to a newspaper reporter)—Please get this straight . . . you reporters ball up everything so much. A man named White—I can't remember his first name—he lives somewhere in Illinois, or maybe in Indiana, and will get married this Fall or next Spring to a woman who lives in Washington or California. White was in some kind of business here 10 or 15 years ago; I think he was in the pop business or was it pop corn?

Junior—Mother, I wish you would not call me your "little lamb" when people are around.

Mother—Why not?

Teacher (to her class)—I want each of you children to draw a picture showing what you wish to be when you grow up.

The youngsters diligently applied themselves to their tasks, and soon began displaying crude pictures of soldiers, aviators, cowboys, G-men, ball players, dancers, nurses, and other characters dear to the juvenile heart. But one little girl down front seemed unable to carry out the assignment. With pencil poised in her hand she sat regarding the blank sheet before her with an air of doubt and uncertainty.

Teacher—Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up, Anna?

Anna—Yes, but I don't know how to draw it.

Teacher—What do you want to be?

Anna—Married.

If you will add the letter p to luck, you will have solved most of life's problems.

Voice (on telephone) — My son has a severe cold and he won't be able to come to school today.

Teacher—Very well, sir. Who is this speaking, please?

Voice—This is my father, sir.

Give this a thought: Buy War Bonds now or take orders from Hitler later.

A newly married doctor was taking his young wife out walking one afternoon when a pretty girl smiled and bowed to him:

Wife (scenting an earlier love affair)—Who's the lady, dear?

Doctor (nonchalantly)—Oh, just a girl I have met once or twice professionally.

Wife (meowing)—No doubt, but who's profession . . . yours or hers?

There is no one quite so foolish as an educated fool.

Two men at a "talkie" were sitting just in front of two women, whose continuous chatter they stood as long as they would. One turned and said to the woman:

Man—Pardon me, madam, but my friends and I can't hear.

Woman—You're not supposed to. This is a private conversation.

Of Course

"I killed five flies, three male, two female,"
She said, loud enough so everyone could hear her.
"How do I know? The three were on beer bottles,
The other two on a mirror."

Mrs. Jones (reproving maid)—This chair is just covered with dust.

Maid—And why shouldn't it be, ma'am? It's so uncomfortable nobody ever sits on it.

Barnum said a fool was born every minute and the fact has never been disputed.

Any man can become notorious, but he will have to do something really worthwhile in order to become famous.

Keep our boys tiptop by putting the U. S. O. drive over the top.

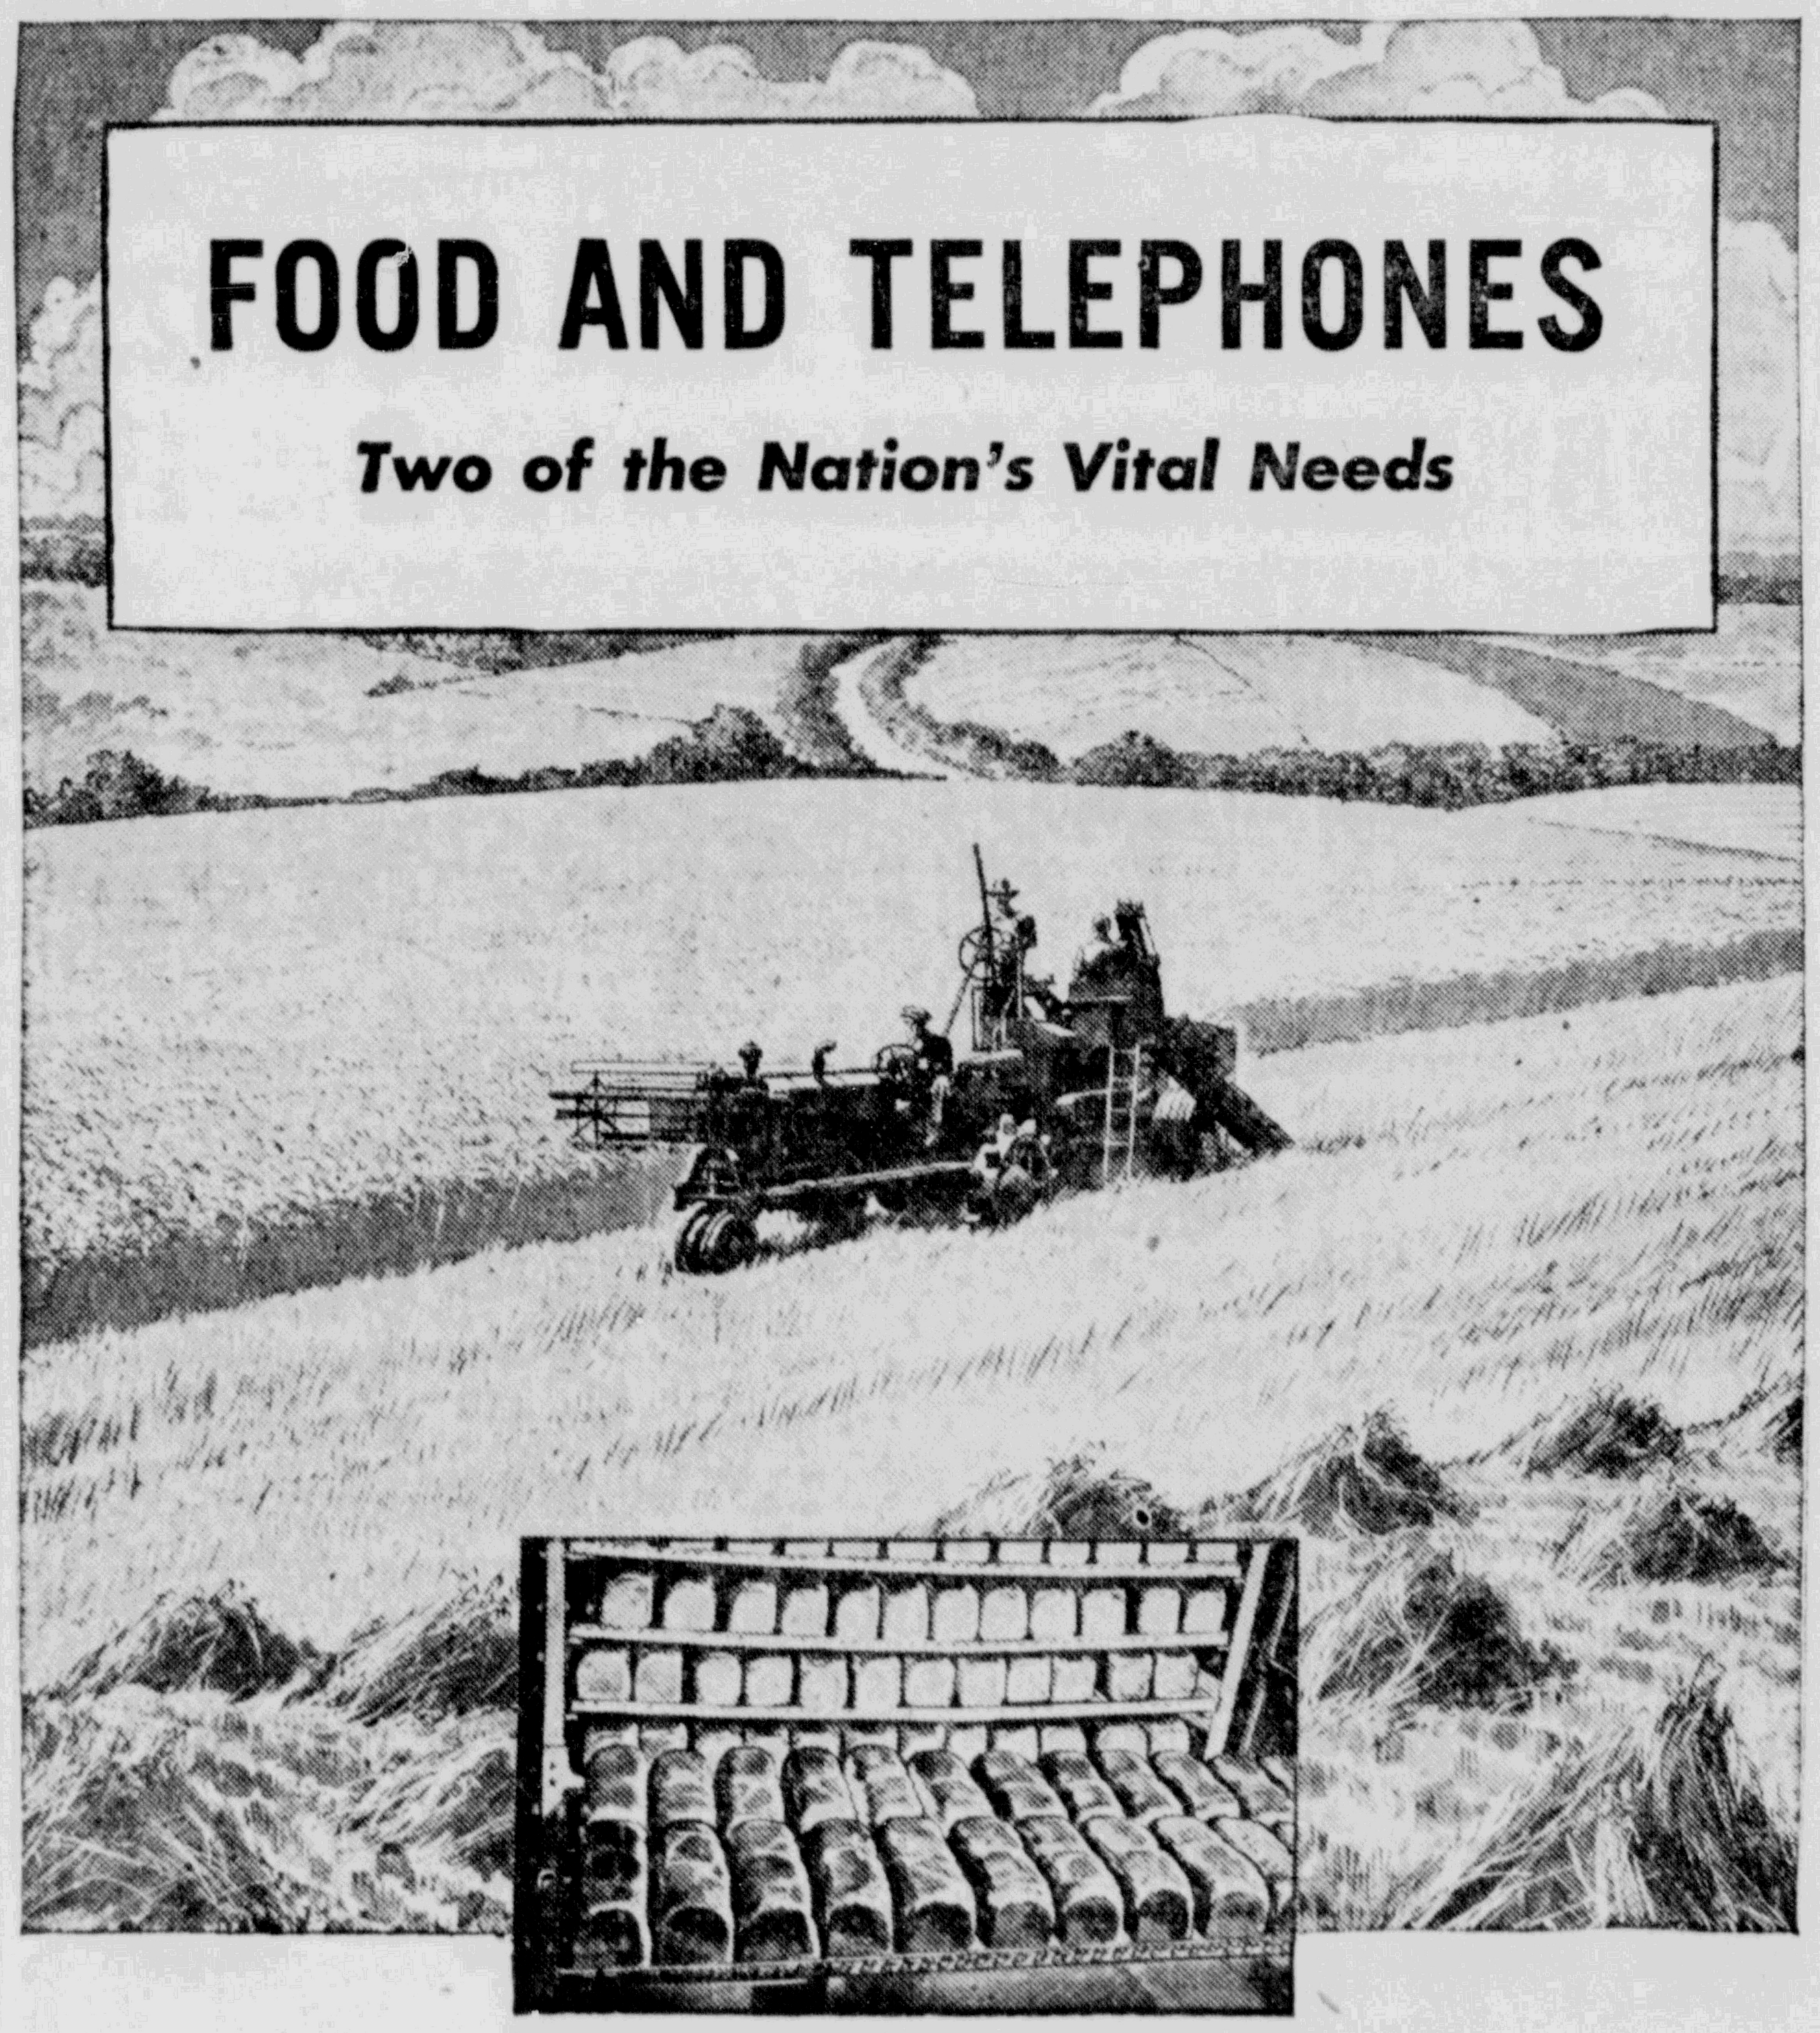
Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

First Gas Tractor

Froelich, Ia. (AP)—Just 50 years ago this summer, the first gasoline tractor was learning to walk. There was no boisterous celebration when John Froelich coaxed two miles an hour out of the contraption at his village blacksmith shop, but the two score people in this northeastern Iowa hamlet haven't forgotten the occasion. In quiet fashion they are observing the golden anniversary. After numerous adjustments the vertical, one-cylinder engine, built largely of steam engine parts, was shipped to South Dakota in the fall of '92 and was used successfully to operate a threshing machine at Lanford.

Jam Maker in a Jam

W. H. Scott ,licensed jam maker of Belfast, Northern Ireland, was in something of a jam when he apeared in court. He was fined $20 on each of four counts—failing to furnish returns on fruit delivered to him; inaccurate records, selling unlabeled jam, and selling jam for household use.



FOOD AND TELEPHONES

Two of the Nation's Vital Needs

AMERICA is not only the arsenal of Democracy—it is also the food bin. To produce, process and distribute food for our armed forces, our civilian population and our allies is a task of tremendous magnitude. Since so much of the food is perishable, a high degree of efficiency is needed all along the line until it reaches the consumer.

This need for speed in handling food has caused everyone concerned with it to turn more and more to the telephone.

That is one more reason why telephone traffic is now breaking all records, and why you will want to cooperate in your own use of the telephone.

Your Use of the Telephone in War Time

You can help us serve both you and the war effort if you will keep in mind these simple suggestions:

1 Don't make Long Distance telephone calls to important war-activity centers, particularly Washington and Chicago, unless your call is urgent—and directly connected with the war effort.

2 If you must make Long Distance calls, please do so during these least-busy hours—

Before 10 A. M. 12 Noon to 2 P. M.
5 P. M. to 7 P. M. After 9 P. M.

3 Call by number (station-to-station) whenever you can. And make your conversations brief.

4 If you have party-line service, please remember that others may be waiting to make or receive a call. Help make your party-line a good neighbor line—let's be considerate of the other fellow.

YOUR FOOD—AND NUTRITION

Besides combining foods into well-balanced menus, the homemaker who wants to feed her family well should remember that essential foods must be served every day and in sufficient quantities to furnish energy and body building materials.

Even quick meals should be adequate in food value as well as satisfying to the appetite. They can fit into the pattern of good nutrition and supply their share of the daily need for meat, leafy vegetables, fruit, milk and cereals.

Meat, served in a salad, contributes just as high food value as a hot meat dish, and tasty cubes of cold veal, lamb, pork or beef combine deliciously with lettuce, tomatoes, celery and other vegetables which add their share to the day's food requirements.

New problems face the homemaker these days. In many cases, there is less time for meal preparation, just when good, nourishing food is more important than ever before. It is never wise to skimp on the food value of the meals, nor to skip meals. And it is quite possible to work out a system of quick and easy meal preparation, without sacrificing appetizing qualities or food value.

Among the good main dishes for meals which must be prepared in a hurry are meat salads. These are by no means limited to summer meals. They can be served throughout the year, with quickly prepared hot foods, such as soups, and canned vegetables which can be quickly heated. One hot dish should always be included in the menu.

Use Any Left-Overs

A meat salad is an excellent way of using the remnants of any roast, beef, veal, pork or lamb. A large enough roast can be selected to allow for a generous left-over portion. Veal is especially popular for use in salad.

Left-over roast may be supplemented by ready-to-serve meat from the market, such as cooked ham, if desired.

eMat for salad can be cut into cubes and placed in French dressing or an oil and vinegar mixture in the refrigerator. Then it may be combined with the freshly cut vegetables and the dressing added just before it is served.

Here are suggestions for tasty combinations:

Veal and Ham Salad

1 cup diced cooked veal
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 cup mayonnaise or boiled dressing
Ripe olives

Combine veal, ham, celery, and tomatoes, draining all possible juice from the latter. Season rather highly, moisten with half the dressing, chill and serve in beds of lettuce, garnishing with olives, and the rest of the dressing.

Royal Lamb Salad

2 cups diced cooked lamb
1 cup diced celery
1 cup Bing cherries
4 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Nutritious Food, Daintily Served

Had Luck in Green Tie

That his prison sentence was not merely the result of stealing a gold watch but was due mostly to the fact that the victim was a man whose green tie was hidden by a scarf, was the assertion of a pickpocket in Belfast, Northern Ireland. He explained that pickpockets believe that it means seven years bad luck to pick the pockets of a red-haired woman or rob anyone wearing green. Pickpockets should carry a date stone, and burglars a piece of coal for good luck, he added.

PARENTHOOD TAUGHT

Schools in Britain are now giving girls of 16 and upwards a special course in "Parenthood." The idea sprang from a conference of doctors, teachers, nurses and welfare workers. At Kensington High School, London, a classroom poster reads: "Why is your child naughty? Because you let him be master of the house." The drawing is entitled "My Lord and His Slaves." All subjects relating to children are dealt with.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Sept. 24—The Dorcas Society met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Clark Bonesteel, Miss Anna Wolf and Miss Mary Polhemus serving as hostesses for the social hour. Plans were made by the second birthday group for raising funds. A novel cloth "apple tree" is to be passed around among the members and friends, on which each one is to sew a red "apple" or green "leaf" patch under which is to be placed a donation. This is to be in charge of Mrs. Walter Schussler and Miss Mary Polhemus. Miss Florence Kruse is to have charge of the sale of Christmas cards as another project of this group. The next meeting is to be held following a pot luck supper October 13. Miss Louise Van Aken, Mrs. Phoebe Ostrander, Miss Florence Kruse and Mrs. David Harris were appointed on the supper committee.

The Port Ewen Cemetery Association reminds the public that all flower jars they wish to save, must be removed from the cemetery by October 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril G. Small are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Duane William, Wednesday at the Kingston Hospital.

Corporal Wallace (Buddy) Jump, a former resident of this place, is stationed at Luke Field, Phoenix, Ariz. He has received a certificate of proficiency as a graduate of Mechanics School in Aircraft Maintenance.

Eddie Maines, Jr., is ill at his home on Bayard street.

Many first aid workers from Port Ewen attended the refresher class at the M. J. M. School Tuesday evening.

Corporal Walter Clark, who is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., spent a short leave this week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clark, of Schryver street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beichert were in Albany Sunday visiting their daughter, Marilyn, who is a student in St. Rose College.

The following schedule has been released for candlepin bowling matches at the Port Ewen Reformed Church tonight.

Temple Emanuel Services

Succoth services will be held in Temple Emanuel Friday evening, September 25, at 7:45 o'clock. Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, "Thou Shalt Dwell in Booths." Saturday morning service will be held at 10 o'clock. The morning service is especially designed for the young people. The regular session of the religious school will begin Sunday morning, September 27, at 10 o'clock. All children are expected to be present to begin work. Those who have not registered may register at this time. All those interested in a high school study group are to be present in the Temple on Sunday morning to determine the time and place of such a group. Everyone interested in an adult study group conducted by Rabbi Bloom on the theme, "Minorities in the Post War World," should contact Rabbi Bloom at his home, 93 Orchard street. Registration for the adult study group must be completed soon. No tuition is to be charged.

UMBRELLA GOES FISHING

Fishermen in North Brazil are doing their best to step up food production, it is revealed in Rio de Janeiro. There the angler uses a taraffa, a net about 15 feet across, and weighted round the edges with stones or lead. It has to be thrown in such a manner that it lands flat and fully extended on the water. As the weights cause it to sink, it closes and entraps the fish.

Look Out for Wartime Constipation!
Lack of "bulk" one of common causes

Don't be surprised if you feel all bogged down these war days! Look at how you live! Longer hours, harder work, irregular meals—your whole way of living's been upset. Specially eating habits. Meals are apt to be hurried, improperly balanced—and the important matter of bulk neglected.

And lack of "bulk" is one of the common causes of constipation! Medicinal laxatives give only temporary relief because they don't get at the cause.

The answer to this kind of trouble is drinking plenty of water and eating a crisp, golden cereal — KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. For this delicious breakfast food supplies the needed "bulk," corrects the cause. Why not start eating ALL-BRAN yourself? Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

LIGHT. It's the crust that "makes" the pie and it's Flako that "makes" the crust! Flako assures light and flaky crusts—top and bottom—because the ingredients are the same good ones you use. And Flako assures delicious results at every baking because these ingredients are precision-mixed! Just add water, roll and bake.

Make crisp, tender corn muffins by just adding egg and milk.

Boy "Commandos" Fail

When two Edinburgh, Scotland, boys of 12 set out to outshine the commandos they had a thrilling experience. Thomas Wright and George Allan tried to climb the cliffs of Edinburgh Castle Rock without ropes or ladders. They stuck on a perilous patch 100 feet from the bottom. While holiday makers and dancers in the gardens shouted advice, Allan slipped and hurtled down, but escaped with a cut eye and bruised hip. Soldiers rescued his companion.

WOMAN IN POLITICS

Life is added to a dragging political campaign by the advent of Clare Booth—colorful war correspondent, author, magazine writer, etc.—as Republican candidate for Congress in Connecticut. This eloquent young lady at least knows what is going on in the world and, regardless of party allegiance, may stir up a sluggish House if she reaches Washington.

"We know tonight, as we stand here," she says, "that the walls of this hall shut out a horrible vision of human suffering. All over the world, with every tick of the clock, hundreds of people are dying. Everywhere, as we talk, men are maiming, mutilating, burning each other and blasting each other into eternity. Women are being buried with their babies in their arms under the ruins of their bombed homes. Whole peoples grow sunken-eyed, bare-boned, rickety, easy prey to pestilence, after famine. And with every breath we take in, some starved child breathes its last.

"I think that we had better make a pledge to the dead. To those who do not see, but who are also listening. To the spirits of all those killed at Pearl Harbor and after, our pledge is this: They shall not have died in vain. We pledge them total victory, which is not only the military defeat of their enemies but a just and fruitful peace and a better world for their children. The future of their children is the only stake that our American dead have left in their country now."

Hardly less vital is her practical plea: "See to it that the two-party system survives, for political liberty boils down to a very simple idea: have two big parties." Criticise government policies, she urges, but give support to the President in his final decisions. For "if our Commander in Chief fails in the two years ahead, America fails."

SILVER SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco is a silver city. The taxi man changes the traveler's sawbuck with "If you don't mind taking silver?" and hands over eighteen shiny new half dollars and small change. The traveler can but laugh and take them, dispersing them among various pockets which promptly jingle. San Francisco makes the silver money and is proud of it.

The streets are bright and shining. Men and women both are smartly dressed and walk briskly. The feeling is that of New York, but with a difference. San Francisco lacks the drabness of most of the older city. It's a little daughter of New York—smarter, brighter, peppier, newer. It knows all the answers.

The rounded hills and the Spanish influence on the architecture continue that bright half-dollar feeling. Little new stucco houses in rows are strange and fascinating to eyes accustomed to wooden boxes framed in green. Funny little patio entrances, millions of rounded bay windows, gay flowers against white walls are at once exotic and American. There's strong youth, not decadence.

San Francisco specializes in fogs. It has high fogs and low fogs, light fogs and deep fogs, lifting, sinking, all-day and pea-soup fogs. The inhabitants point to them with pride. They are life-giving, they say. At least they are lovely, with a silvery softness, rolling off under a sunshiny breeze. Night lights are all dimmed these days, but the Bay still shimmers under a silver moon.

STRENGTH AND FREEDOM

When President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie agree about a public policy or principle, it may as well be assumed that it's true.

Mr. Willkie in his presidential campaign two years ago kept pounding home, in every speech, the principle that "only the productive can be strong, and only the strong can be free." It always sounded good, but at the time it seemed more like oratory than a living principle.

Much has happened since 1940. And the old, familiar declaration recurred to many minds recently when the President said: "Only by stripping our civilian economy to the bone can maximum production and certain victory be reached." The two statements mean the same thing. Today they are not oratory but living truth, which no group of Americans can safely ignore.

TITHING

A Gallup poll shows a majority of American voters in favor of paying a dime out of every dollar for war savings bonds and stamps. They think all people with incomes, whether in wages or salaries or other forms, should do this.

Such "tithing" is not only patriotic. It is perhaps the easiest way there is to save money. The price paid is not spent; it is kept by the safest custodian on earth—the United States government. And it "works while you sleep" by accumulating interest. Millions of Americans will be glad, when the war is won, that they have taken advantage of this easy way to make themselves save money.

The President refuses to accept a Jap flag for his office. He doesn't want to see any Jap flags around and that's a good, healthy prejudice.

It is sad to think that so beautiful a vegetable as an eggplant should be regarded as food.

Then, too, there's quite a bit of inflation in the form of inflated egos.

VITAMIN A AND EYESIGHT

It is agreed that the greatest discovery in nutrition in recent years is the vitamins. Each and every vitamin so far discovered gives some definite help in maintaining good nutrition and, in other indirect ways, is a real help to the body processes.

Unfortunately, many individuals are relying almost entirely on vitamins not only for nourishment but for other defects or deficiencies in the body.

Thus the fact that vitamin A is of great help where there is some defect of the surface cells of the body—skin, lining of the eyelids, covering of eyeball and other surfaces—has caused many individuals to believe that vitamin A will restore their eyesight and make glasses unnecessary.

If an individual is getting little or no vitamin A in his food, he may find that his eye reflexes are slow; that is, when he passes from light to darkness or darkness to light the eyes are slow in adjusting themselves to the change. In severe cases inflammation results. It is in these cases which, though it is the eyes that are affected, that vitamin A taken direct or in milk, fruit, vegetables, cod liver oil, gives such wonderful results. As these are common foods in general use, physiologists state that the retina, at back of eye, does not usually need extra vitamin A.

We are told in the bulletin of the Better Vision Institute that about 95 per cent (19 of every 20) of all cases of poor vision result from refractive errors, that is, the object does not strike the retina at back of eye properly—short sight, long sight, astigmatism (object not clear). These defects of vision are corrected by glasses which bend the rays of light in such a way that the object strikes the retina properly. Vitamin A cannot perform this service for poor vision.

The thought, then, is that vitamin A has a definite use in certain eye conditions but it cannot restore poor eyesight nor can it take the place of glasses in making an image strike the retina properly.

I am writing this because so many are taking vitamin A for their poor eyesight instead of consulting an oculist or optometrist. This means that they are not only wasting their time and money but are losing valuable time in not getting vision corrected properly.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

When in 1926 it was decided to remove St. John's Church from Wall street to its present location on Albany avenue, the contracting firm of Michaud-Campbell Co. Inc., was awarded the contract.

Work on taking down the old church was started in September of that year, and the church was re-erected on its present site.

Dr. John T. Buckley of Elmendorf street died on September 19, 1926, in his home, after a brief illness. I recall that Dr. Buckley was very active in politics in Kingston and had served as a supervisor during 1894-95.

At the time of his death Dr. Buckley was serving as sanitary inspector of the Board of Health. During his lifetime he had served as coroner and also as health officer of the city.

I recall that in the years before the World War the late Mayor William D. Brinnier was the owner of a motor cruiser and that one day he invited a party of friends including Dr. Buckley and Seth Jocelyn of the sheriff's office to make a trip to Poughkeepsie and return on his boat.

The trip went off without a mishap as the former mayor was a skilled riverman.

Mayor Brinnier was also an ardent horseman and in his day owned some fine trotters. Older readers will recall the many races staged on Albany avenue during the summer months and also the horse races staged on the Rondout creek during the winter.

Harry B. Walker and Elmer Palen can tell many interesting yarns of the old days when the horse was in his heyday in the years before the advent of the auto era. Both men are still members of the Kingston Horsemen's Association, and Mr. Palen is still active in holding horse auctions in the central part of the city.

Mr. Palen has been engaged in the buying and selling of horses for many years, and in all those years he has become widely known throughout this area.

The Kingston Horsemen's Association is still in existence, and undoubtedly with gas rationing now in force the association is likely to obtain a new lease of life.

Damage Suits Involving Back Pay Might Come Once War Is Over and Constitutionality of Acts Is Tested

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 24 — Some day, when the war is over and the courts get around to passing on the constitutionality of various acts occurring during the war, there may be some far-reaching damage suits involving back pay.

History reveals that after the Civil War, the Supreme Court of the United States questioned some of the acts of President Lincoln, and it has been the experience of the nation with acts performed during war that a great deal more objectivity occurs in the calmer moments of a post-war period.

Literally hundreds of millions of dollars of payments for double time or premium pay may be the subject of litigation, and employers may find themselves saddled with judgments involving enormous sums just because the President has issued an executive order of doubtful constitutionality which impairs existing contracts between unions and employers.

Many of the leaders of the national unions are sending word to their locals not to take the initiative in abrogating any contracts involving double time or premium pay, but to put the burden of reopening the contracts on employers or on the government.

Most of the union lawyers are assuming that the President has the right to impair their contracts under his so-called war powers. There is, of course, a difference of opinion on this point, for while congress by legislation may impair private contracts, no such authority has been delegated to the President and none is inherent in his executive office.

When the famous gold clauses were being argued after America departed from the gold standard, many people thought even congress didn't have the right to impair private contracts. There certainly has been little support for the theory that the President may nullify private contracts without previous sanction by congress.

The new executive order which calls for nullification of certain provisions of private contracts by October 1 as they relate to overtime pay could be challenged through damage suits, but it is unlikely that these would arise during the war. The statute of limitations in some states would bar the reopening of these matters, but there are several states in which the statute does not begin to bar lawsuits till three or five years have elapsed.

The principle is, of course, vital to the future of union labor, because if a President of the United States can at any time during war nullify contracts that exist between an employer and a union, he can order unions to do virtually anything that he thinks they should do if he only bases his action on a claim that it will aid the war effort.

The constitution, of course, does not grant to the President as commander in chief any new powers during war that he does not possess in peacetime. So if it is argued that the commander in chief can, under the constitution, nullify private contracts, then the way is opened for him to do so during peacetime as well—a point that would rise to plague any supreme court if it upheld such action as being derived from the commander in chief's powers over the military establishment.

The only chance for the recent orders to be validated would be by act of congress, which body alone possesses and may delegate war powers to the President. The President's order is scheduled to go into effect on October 1, and it may be that by that time congress will have delegated to the President full power over wage payments. The question might still arise as to indemnifying employers who are subject to suits for back pay, and the safest way to avoid the issue would be for congress to stipulate that wherever private contracts conflict with the provisions of the new wage control bill, the federal government shall indemnify the contractors against losses arising out of actions under state laws governing private contract obligations.

The more the issue of wage control by the federal government is studied, the more it becomes apparent that a far-reaching step is being taken now under the stress of war and with little thought to the legal implications for the after-the-war period.

Washington in Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(Editor's Note: Never before in a war have U. S. fighting men been granted so many legal benefits and economic protections. In three articles, Jack Stinnett, Washington correspondent for the Kingston Daily Freeman, discusses many of the things Congress has done for men in uniform.)

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Life for the fighting man of World War II is no downy couch. He has to be rough, tough and a smart jack of more trades than one. But he can go off to the wars knowing that never in history has Congress taken so many precautions to see that service men (and women) get so much in pay, legal protection, benefits for dependents and assurance of economic security when they come marching home.

Probably everybody knows that the service men's base pay now starts at $50 a month; that with the exception of a few grades in the Australian army, the U. S. soldier is the best paid in the world, receiving more than four times as much as a British soldier; 12 times as much as a Russian; and in the case of a private, 160 times as much as a Jap.

It hasn't been so widely publicized that non-commissioned officers and privates get a 20 per cent (and commissioned officers a 10 per cent) bonus for service overseas; that he gets an automatic five per cent raise every three years; that if he is a paratrooper he gets $50 a month bonus; that there are also bonuses for flying soldiers and men in other hazardous branches; that the lowliest private is reckoned by the Army to be earning the civilian equivalent of $1,700 a year.

That doesn't take into consideration either what total or partial dependents get. It doesn't consider that one-cent a mile (on round trip basis) that is deducted from his train fare while on furlough or the cash allowance he gets on his return for rations he didn't eat (42 to 56 cents a day).

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act of 1940 covers a lot. It authorizes the courts to stay execution of judgment and stay (or even vacate) attachments and garnishments against men in the service. It protects against the lapse of certain life insurance policies; against forced payment while in the service of the burdensome income taxes owed at the time of induction.

It won't prevent the eviction of a man's family for non-payment of rent, but it clears the way for staying that eviction for a while. Under some circumstances, it protects the man in service against sale of his properties for non-payment of taxes.

By extending the statute of limitations on his debts by that length of time which he is in service, it relieves the creditors of being forced to take action on such debts while a man is in service.

In addition to all of that, Congress has provided that men in the service may take out insurance policies from $1,000 to $10,000, in multiples of $500. There is nothing compulsory about it. After a year they may be converted to 20-pay, 30-pay, or ordinary life policies.

Plenty of Underwear Is on Hand, America

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Stop worrying, America—it may be a long, tough winter, but there's plenty of long underwear to go around.

Roy A. Cheney, president of the Underwear Institute, had this happy announcement today:

"This winter the chances of living in overheated homes and offices will be out for the duration and heavier underclothing will be in."

The big men of the long underwear business admit that there will be plenty of us itching about the situation, because most city dwellers aren't used to it.

"Much of the heavy underwear will be heavier and coarser cotton garments," Cheney said, "because the armed forces are using the entire domestic wool clip as well as the combed yarn and finer carded yarns.

"And you might tell the girls they're going back to draw-string top drawers, whether they like it or not, because the government is taking all the rubber we used for elastic tops."

Cheney said that the underwear industry had sufficient capacity to take care of all needs of the armed forces and civilians, with the only bottleneck in the production of yarn.

Gardeners Are Making Plant Food at Home

Ithaca, N. Y. — The home garden compost pile may have to take the place of many commercial fertilizers cut off by wartime needs.

Kitchen waste, coal ashes, and plant tops from the garden are among the materials that can be made into compost to help relieve the shortage, says Prof. Hans Platenius of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Home lawn owners, owners of golf greens, parks, and cemeteries will not be able to purchase most types of nitrogen fertilizer next year. Even farmers, who are producing much-needed food crops, will be able to get only about 80 per cent of the amount of nitrogen fertilizer they used in 1942.

Phosphoric acid, potash, lime, and other fertilizer elements needed by plants to grow will be more plentiful than nitrogen.

Composts made through the rotting of leaves, roots, weeds, fruit peelings, and coal ashes, mixed with whatever fertilizer and manure is available, provide an excellent home-made fertilizer. Main cost of this material is a little work in the fall piling the refuse with alternate layers of soil and manure, followed by the turning over of the material later in the year to speed its decay.

Hidden under a postage stamp, the photograph of a South African soldier was discovered by Mrs. E. J. Cato, adjutant of a women's army auxiliary in Klerksdorp. When she opened a twice-used envelope the stamp dropped off, revealing the photograph. Army authorities are investigating.

Quarrel Between Hitler, Von Bock May Be Decisive One of War

There Is No Point In Getting Sore at Junkman, U.S. Says

This Man's Job Is So Vital He Is Given Award of Merit When He Meets Needs

By HUDSON PHILLIPS

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Wait a minute before you get sore at the junkman for not coming around for your 25 pounds of scrap or not giving you the price you thought it was worth.

Maybe the sight of scrap piled high in his yard discouraged you from realizing fully that there was a real and serious shortage.

Maybe the junkman would have good answers to your wondering. If you don't know the answers or don't understand them and therefore stop collecting scrap, the war job suffers.

Because the junkman is doing important work in the war, the government is taking the trouble to set public thinking straight about the role he's playing.

More than ever he'll be valuable in the next three weeks as American Newspapers spearhead scrap collection for the mills which are producing 5 million tons less steel than they should because of scrap lack.

More than 1,400 newspapers are in the drive which officially runs from September 28 to October 17, but in some states already is under way.

The War Production Board warned this week that unless there is an "exceptional job" of iron and steel scrap collection this fall the country's blast furnices would have to cut down steel output this winter.

You may dump your scrap — anything from old lawnmowers to iron pots—in the town square's collection bin, but eventually it will move to the mills through the junkman who buys it.

On Subject of Prices

On the subject of jungman's prices, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel says: "Figuring his various expenses, the junkman can't afford to pay more than $9 a ton for the best scrap."

The price the mills pay him varies from $13 to $20 a ton, depending on the location. It costs him from 55 cents to $5 a ton to move it to the mills. It costs him from $3.50 to $4.50 a ton to prepare it before it moves.

The W. P. B. considers the junkman's job so important that now it gives him an award of merit—similar to the Army-Navy award for outstanding jobs by industrial plants—when he fills certain requirements which include:

Delivering to the mills tonnage of scrap 33½ per cent greater than his monthly average in the first six months of 1942.

This is the answer Donald Nelson, W. P. B. chief, gives to critics of the junkman:

Only the junkman has the experience and equipment to do the right job of sorting, grading, preparing, packing and accumulating scrap in lots large enough to be shipped efficiently to the mills.

Because the government has put a limit on the price he can charge the mills for the scrap, he can't hope for a better deal by holding back his stock.

There is always a certain amount of scrap piled up in a well-run junk yard. An empty yard produces no scrap. If a junkman tries to hoard scrap, the government will requisition it because federal inspectors tour the yards.

When a junkman visits your house to pick up scrap, he has to figure on its condition and the cost of transporting it.

The job of sorting scrap for the mills is complicated because there are about 75 grades. The junkman has to sort the steel from the cast iron and remove other metals that would spoil steel if dumped unknowingly into a furnace.

He must fill government requirements in breaking up the scrap: Cast iron must be broken into 150-pound chunks; steel for the open hearth furnaces must be not more than 5 feet long, 18 inches wide.

The junkman does the sorting and breaking up job with shears, cutting torches, hydraulic presses, magnets.

Even though your old steel hamper is valuable and needed as scrap it is still not as valuable as some of the top grades such as structural steel, automobile frames, ankles and bodies, steel rails, sheet iron or cast iron machinery. They go through the junkyard, too.

Why Few Die at Eye

Why so few die at Eye, England, which calls itself Britain's healthiest town, is being explained variously. It is England's smallest borough and has scores of octogenarians among its 1,700 inhabitants. The medical officer has now reported a quarter free from a single death. A pure water supply, and abundance of milk and green food were given the credit by the doctor in his report. A white-haired farmworker, however, said: "The real reason is that no one in Eye ever worries—and no one retires."

Small Manufacturers Might Get Some Necessary Answers

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Sept. 23—(Wide World)—The men setting up the new Smaller War Plants Corp. hope to provide the answers to a lot of the questions which have been plaguing small manufacturers.

But they concede they won't be able to solve them all nor to help every one of the small plants which are in distress because of their inability so far to get into war production.

We showed Orville S. McPherson, special assistant to Chairman Lou E. Holland of the corporation's board of directors, excerpts from some of the letters we've received from small manufacturers, and he described them as typical of the problems.

For instance, here are some of the things a Pennsylvania glassware manufacturer wrote:

"Did you ever hear of a small businessman who showed his wares over and over to a hundred or more government agencies and all he got for his efforts was 'why do you pick on this item?' and 'why not try something else?'—but no suggestions. x x x

"When we go to Pittsburgh to call on the various agencies, we are told it should be taken up with Washington. When we go to Washington, we are told we should come back to Pittsburgh. We go to Dayton and we are told buying is not done there. When we go to 20 other different places, we are referred to Pittsburgh or elsewhere.

"We solicit business on an item for the airfields that we know we can manufacture just as well or better than it is now being made and at a saving in cost to someone, and we are told that unless we can furnish the item complete with metal that the government cannot buy it from us.

"There are three or four large concerns making the metal parts who will not sell them to us, at least at a price that we could bid on a government contract and hope for any chance of securing it."

These Things Planned

In attempting to meet the problems indicated here, the smaller war plants corp., Mc Pherson said, plans to do these things:

Provide, through assistant regional directors in the various W. P. B. field offices, a place where a manufacturer can take up his problems and get advice.

Through taking prime contracts from government buying agencies and letting subcontracts to small plants to fill the orders, provide a central place from which contracts for small concerns will be forthcoming.

As to materials—and apparently nobody can answer this problem for the small concern at this moment—Mc Pherson said the corporation hopes to get direct allocations for materials along with contracts—"We can't expect a little man to fight a priorities battle."

In another letter, a specialty manufacturer in Virginia pointed out that "the smaller businesses are up against a proposition, due to the fact they do not have engineers, nor do they have specialists to go to Washington, or go and get the work for them to do."

Here, again, the Smaller War Plants Corp. offers a possible solution.

Chairman Holland has announced that government buying agencies have promised "genuine cooperation" in the effort to give small concerns a chance to provide items they can manufacture. Congress gave the corporations power to take contracts for such items and parcel them out in sub-contracts to small plants.

Acts as Super-Salesman

In this way, the new agency will act as a sort of super-salesman for small business.

(Incidentally, the Senate naval affairs committee still is keeping pigeonholed the Vinson bill passed by the House which would ban brokers' fees on government contracts, to which small business men objected as banning what they called legitimate fees for getting contracts.)

On the question of engineering, Holland has stated the policy of having practical engineers in each regional and field office to give small concerns engineering service.

From all sides come reports of plants forced to curtail operations or closing.

The problem is admittedly a tremendous one, and small businessmen who have been unable to make headway under previous governmental plans are anxious to see what the new agency can accomplish for them.

There are people in Washington who tell you that Holland's job is the toughest in town (and that takes in a lot of territory!)

Holland himself has said "no one will question that I was given a difficult assignment." And no one has.

McAndrew to Be Honored By Group of 'Spotters'

A group of 168 men and women "spotters" and 75 reserve "spotters" all in the service of Kingston's observation post will gather to honor their associate chief observer, Raymond A. McAndrew, tomorrow night in the Crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. McAndrew, who is leaving for the army, has been most active in the creation and development of Kingston's observation post and devoted all of his spare time as a volunteer in its service. A vacation granted him recently by the concern he has been associated with has been spent entirely in work envolving the betterment of the post.

The time set for the "spotters" to greet Mr. McAndrew will be from 7 to 9 o'clock at night and "spotters" will be admitted only on presentation of their identification cards.

Chief Observer S. N. Mann and Associate Observer Mrs. George D. Logan as well as the entire directorship of Ulster's Aircraft Warning Service will be on hand to pay their respects and offer Mr. McAndrew the greetings from over 1,500 "spotters" manning the 18 observation posts in Ulster county.

Safety Pin Aids Airmen

It was a safety pin that came to the rescue of three members of the Royal Australian Air Force when food ran low while they were lost in the wilds. A voyage down a crocodile infested river on a raft made of gasoline tanks was among the adventures of the airmen, whose ambulance plane was forced down while they were on the way to pick up a patient. Crocodiles frequently nosed round their raft. When their rations were about exhausted the airmen caught fish with a safety pin tied to a parachute, they told Sydney interviewers.

Bennett to Begin His State Campaign In G.O.P. Bailiwick

Gubernatorial Candidate to Begin Speeches October 13; Dewey Begins Week Earlier

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Democrat John J. Bennett, Jr., opens his campaign for governor October 13 at a normally Republican western New York city—Jamestown, fitting his party's political pattern of the last few weeks in consistently claiming loss of G.O.P. upstate strength.

The attorney general's first major speech at a Jamestown rally, Democratic campaign headquarters at New York city announced last night, will inaugurate a 10-day upstate tour. It will be followed by appearances in New York city where State Republican Chairman Edwin F. Jaeckle has predicted a Democratic defection.

Jaeckle spoke Tuesday of Democratic "troubles in New York city" as reason for their intensive claims of increased upstate strength.

Jamestown gave the G.O.P. candidate for governor, Thomas E. Dewey, a 2,800 plurality in 1938 when Democratic Governor Lehman was re-elected.

Democratic State Chairman James A. Farley has predicted Dewey's upstate margin November 3 will be reduced from the 617,000 of 1938—when he lost to Lehman by 64,000—to less than 250,000 against Bennett. Jaeckle sees Dewey's upstate margin "as much or more" than four years ago.

Democratic county chairmen have reported regularly to state headquarters that Dewey will lose some counties (Franklin and Rensselaer) he carried in 1938 and suffer substantial plurality reductions in others (Rockland, Suffolk, Monroe, Onondaga, Schenectady, Seneca, Westchester and Orange).

Democratic Campaign Manager Vincent Dailey's estimate last night was that in the 10 canvassed counties Dewey will run about 118,000 votes under his 1938 total.

This indicates, Dailey said, that Farley's prediction of a Dewey upstate margin of less than 250,000 "will be found conservative on Election Day."

Thomas J. V. Cullen, Orange county Democratic chairman, said Dewey's 1938 county pluralty of 15,521 votes would be pared by more than 8,000.

There was no Democratic statement on Jaeckle's predicted Bennett defection in New York, where Tammany Hall and National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx has pledged full support to Bennett. They opposed him at the nominating convention in favor of U. S. Senator James M. Mead.

Dewey's campaign will open Monday, October 5, in the first of his statewide radio broadcasts to be delivered every Monday until Election Day. Republican women's organizations have designated October 5 "Dewey Day."

Jaeckle, after conferring with third and fourth judicial district county leaders at Albany yesterday, holds another regional conference today at Syracuse, followed by similar strategy discussions Friday at Rochester, Saturday at Buffalo and Monday at New York city.

Dean Alfange, the American Labor Party nominee on an upstate swing leading to his second major campaign talk Monday at Utica, said last night at Gloversville:

"The President of the United States has specified that the next governor of New York should be a liberal who supported the foreign and domestic policies of his administration before Pearl Harbor.

"I am the only candidate for governor who meets that test," he said, adding:

"Bennett and Dewey . . . do not understand that, if the world of the future is to hold promise and hope for the plain, inconspicuous people, it must be built upon the strong social foundations of the New Deal."

One Person in Thousand Is Free of Malnutrition

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Wide World Science Editor)

State College, Pa., Sept. 24—Only one person in a thousand escapes malnutrition—that is the conclusion of a survey published today by the Ellen H. Richards Institute at the Pennsylvania State College.

The survey took six years, and is one of the most thorough ever made. It included both adults and children. The report is made in the college's chemistry leaflet, by Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of the institute, and her associates.

The study covered 2,511 Pennsylvanians. Just two rated high in all tests. The others were deficient, the poor worse off than the rich, but both classes below the best rating.

Only eight were free of tooth decay, a trouble generally ascribed partly to deficient diets. The majority were deficient not just in one nutrition test, but in several. In fact the survey indicates that if one diet deficiency exists, other essentials are likely to be low.

There were many long-time lacks of adequate vitamins, proteins and minerals. The weight of 17 per cent was under par. Sixty per cent of growing children were more than six months retarded in skeletal growth. The bones of a large majority, both adult and children, were not satisfactorily mineralized.

The bone defects are linked with deficiencies in proteins, calcium, phosphorus, vitamin D and other vitamins and minerals.

More than half were below the desirable standard in hemoglobin, or red blood content. This is evidence of under par protein and iron intake. Many were low in vitamin A ratings.

"These findings," said the report, "are considered significant in suggesting conditions which may be expected to prevail in other states, many of them less prosperous than Pennsylvania."

In one city where depression had been acute, one child out of every three examined gave evidence of having had rickets, the under-nutrition bone trouble. Twenty-five per cent had gingivitis, inflammation of the gums which is a forerunner of scurvey and due to lack of vitamin C. More than half had iron and protein deficiencies, which resulted in anemia.

Only 7.1 per cent of these children had good vitamin A ratings.

In all communities, regardless of economic status, the average diets of children were far below the daily intake levels recommended by the National Research Council for protein, vitamins and minerals. The adult diets were no better than the childrens'.

Most of the people in the study were not aware of any actual illness due to food deficiencies.

"The borderline deficiencies," said the report, "are nevertheless serious because prolonged deficiencies, small though they may be, build up into major disorders in later years. As science applies new and more refined methods for detecting the obscure signs of deficiencies, it becomes apparent that undernutrition in some degree is almost universal."

Prices of Antiques Up

Prices of antiques are up as much as 100 per cent in London. Many persons consider antiques a sound investment. Dealers and auctioneers report that the public is rushing to buy old furniture, rugs, porcelain, Jewelry, books and manuscripts. Philip Robinson, a dealer in rare books, states that the government encourages American business because of the money it brings to the Treasury. Among the luckiest are those who have Victorian furniture to sell. They get prices that in pre-war days would have been considered fantastic.

Sleek, but Rugged Douglas A-20, Wins Highest Praise Of Pilots; It Is Swift, Well-Armored, Hard Hitting

By WILLIAM F. BONI
(Wide World Military Editor)

Los Angeles, Sept. 23—The blond young lieutenant-colonel, whose wisp of a mustache actually didn't add to the severity of his appearance, spoke in a tone of ill-used patience.

"The next man who comes in to this field with branches on his wings," he told the pilots gathered about him, "is going to have hell to pay with me."

The young lieutenant-colonel commands a light bombardment group at a California desert base, in a region where there are no tree branches more than 10 feet above the ground. But since his men are flying Douglas A-20 light bombers, the same warning might be issued in England, Egypt or Australia.

The A-20 is that kind of plane.

It is, in fact, the pilot's pet—fast, hard-hitting, wellarmored, and a joy to handle. That holds true whether the plane is being flown by Americans or by British pilots, for, like the bombing Boston by day and the night-fighting havoc after dark, this plane has become one of the best and most frequently-used weapons of the RAF.

Story Is Proof Enough

What's more, for all its sleek appearance, it is one of the most rugged aircraft yet produced. Best proof of that came last July 4 when, in the first AAF attack on Nazi-held Europe, one of a squadron of six came back with this story to tell:

On the return flight from a raid on Holland, the A-20 was flying extremely low. An anti-aircraft battery knocked out one of its motors. The plane dipped and knocked a foot and a half off one wing tip. Before the pilot could get her squared away, she hit the ground a tremendous whack that ripped off several feet of her fuselage.

Finally level but still limping, the pilot saw a Nazi anti-aircraft tower dead ahead. He lacked the speed to pull away, so he flew right for it. The tower was blasted to blazes, while at the same time the bombardier and the gunner riddled two Nazi machinegun nests with their machineguns. Still on that one motor, the Douglas continued on across the channel and returned to an English base.

Like the Lockhead Hudson, which the British call "Old Boomerang" because it always comes back, there have been no complaints about the A-20 since it went into service. The British have asked for certain modifications between the ones they receive and those which go to the AAF—but fundamentally it is the same plane.

It also is a plane about which you will hear a good deal once our land-fighting army goes into action in force. It is one of the chief striking arms which will be used by the ground-air support command, the air force sub-division whose task it is to work hand-in-glove with the ground troops.

For this type of work the A-20 is suited almost ideally. It packs a heavy enough bomb load to make it effective against fixed defenses or armored concentrations which are holding up an advance, it carries the type of armament that will make it a strafing threat more potent than any the Germans used in France; it is so maneuverable that it is a perfect plane for hedge-hopping, and above all it has so much speed that it is a tough target either for enemy fighters or ground defenses.

U.S. Forces Abroad Will Vote for Men On Congress Ballot

Walsh Says Ramsey Vote Bill Gives No Right to Send Material for State Ballot

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—New York servicemen overseas will receive absentee ballots for congressional elections but, it seemed likely today, will not be able to vote for state candidates.

Secretary of State Michael F. Walsh, after conferring with the State War Ballot Commission yesterday, told reporters nothing in the Ramsey federal soldier-vote law providing for absentee congressional ballots permits him to include state ballots in foreign shipments.

The War and Navy departments previously refused to transport 150,000 state ballots and other voting material overseas.

The State War Ballot Commission, created by the 1942 Legislature, already has completed arrangements for state voting by New York servicemen in continental United States. The federal law provides for congressional voting only by domestic-and foreign-stationed servicemen.

The War Ballot Commission met with Walsh in an effort to "harmonize" their respective administrative duties under the federal and state absentee voting machinery.

Walsh told them the Ramsey Act would be operated through the State Election Bureau and because he alone is responsible the "administration cannot be delegates to the War Ballot Commission as has been suggested." He added he would be "pleased to work and cooperate" with the commission.

The commission sent 400,000 state absentee applications to domestic-stationed servicemen but has not announced how many were returned. It waived application requirements for overseas voters. The federal law requires both home and foreign duty servicemen to apply—on government supplied postcards—for congressional ballots.

The federal ballots, Walsh said, will be supplied to all servicemen who apply by card through the secretary of their home state, to whom the marked ballot must be returned for relay to local boards of election for canvass.

Cold Battle Logic Versus Intuition May Be Crux of War

Even if This Situation Did Not Exist, Red Defense Throws Nazis Out of Line

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

That quarrel between Herr Hitler and the commander-in-chief of his now-or-never offensive against the Caucasus, Field Marshal Fedor von Bock, may prove literally to be the decisive battle of the war.

The basic startegy of the vital Caucasian campaign is said to be involved in this historic argument, which is reported to have resulted in von Bock being relieved of his command. The point at issue is described as this:

Von Bock, who ranks as one of the outstanding generals of our time, wanted to concentrate on the Caucasus and not attack Stalingrad at the same time. He maintained that great industrial city on the Volga would be too costly in casualties. Not that the cold-blooded von Bock ever gave a damn about the lives of his men for their own sakes, but because he badly needed this fresh young man-power for his main show.

It seems that the Nazi all highest, who boasts that he works by intuition, insisted on the siege of Stalingrad. Von Bock bowed his stiff Prussian neck to the yoke, but apparently sulked in his tent as his drive was held up by the grand Red defense, and Nazi casualties strewed the approaches to the city like autumn leaves.

Now for purposes of careful analysis we must make allowance for the possibility that the report of a Hitler-von Bock feud isn't true. But even if the story is apocryphal, we can get ahead with our study, because the fact still remains that the siege of Stalingrad has thrown the calculations of the entire Nazi campaign out of kilter. Obviously this was undertaken at Hitler's order, since he is the master gangster and makes all important decisions. At the same time it's easy to believe that a soldier of von Bock's caliber would oppose such a risky experiment.

Intuition Fails Hitler

Looking at the position today, as the Russians still continue to throw back the invaders from Premier Stalin's proud namesake-city, I'm afraid we have to say that the infallible Hitler's intuition has failed him at the crucial moment. We must give von Bock a rest. At the same time, I believe we must recognize that the two men approached the problem from different viewpoints—Hitler from that of political strategy and his captain solely from the military angle.

It's not difficult to see the workings of the two minds. Von Bock, every inch the expert soldier from the soles of his polished boots to the crown of his Prussian bullet-head, saw only that the outcome of the war likely depended on Germany's ability to break into the oil-bearing Caucasus and the strategic middle east this year, and in the process annihilate Red Marshal Timoshenko's armies of the south. If that could be accomplished Germany would have a victory-grip which would be hard to break. Stalingrad was a side-issue to von Bock.

One cannot doubt that Hitler also saw it was imperative to conquer the Caucasus and the middle east, for his other operations indicate this. Probably at the outset of the great drive he was in complete agreement with von Bock. However, as time went on and the Russian resistance became menacing, Hitler developed a new scheme to secure help.

He saw the political value of the capture of the city which is the apple of the Communist leader's eye. Stalingrad stands as a symbol of Russian strength, and the Nazi chief wanted to crack it for the moral effect at home and abroad.

Most of all he wanted to influence Japan to attack Russia from the rear. The capture of Stalingrad might turn the trick. So one of the greatest gamblers of all time took another chance. He bet the gods of war that he could take Stalingrad without missing stride on the march into the Caucasus and middle east.

But not even Hitler can guess right all the time. We need to see the outcome of the next month of fighting, but the indications now are that military history will say he threw away his chances of winning the war when he forced von Bock to embark on what probably has been the costliest siege ever undertaken.

Movie Finds Fiancee

Ivan Tishkevich, who had been fighting for five months as a guerrilla on the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, found his missing fiancee by means of a moving picture. He obtained permission to visit the city to search for dark-eyed Katinka Baidukov, a singing waitress. Ivan was disheartened after a long and futile search and went to a movie for relaxation. In a Soviet war news reel he saw Katinka at work on a drilling machine in a munition factory. Through the medium of the film producer he made contact with Katinka and now she is Mrs. Tish-

Best Fuel Woods On State's Woodlands

Ithaca, N. Y. — The best fuel-woods in the United States are in farm woodlands.

In a recent government publication, nine woods are listed as having heating qualities in which one seasoned cord equals one ton of anthracite coal. Seven out of the nine woods mentioned are abundant in New York state. They are oak, beech, black birch, yellow birch, hickory, hard maple, and black locust.

To have this coal equivalent, says Prof. J. A. Cope of the New York State College of Agriculture, the wood must be seasoned, which involves at least three months of good seasoning weather. But in an emergency, and that is what is likely to develop, these woods may be burned green. For instance, seasoned beech rates 99, if coal is 100, while green beech fresh from the woodlot rates 79. In other words, it takes about 20 units of the heat to drive off that excess moisture but there are still 80 left for the room, he explains.

For the most heat from wood, whether in stove or furnace, use body wood, split rather than round, and of the largest size that can be put through the door. Prof. Cope suggests that if the fire box is close-packed, good combustion and uniformly-maintained heat is obtained. A mixture of wood coal in the furnace is another possibility that merits consideration in the emergency. From 25 per cent to 50 per cent of coal can be saved in this way.

Many other suggestions and helpful hints are to be found in a new bulletin just off the press in Washington. Write directly to your congressman for Farmers' bulletin 1912, "Wood Fuel in War Time."

Better Farm Pastures Forecast in State

Ithaca, N. Y. — One third of the milk produced under normal conditions in New York state is derived from pasture. During war-time, it is highly desirable to produce an even higher proportion from pasture, by proper attention to pasture improvement and grazing management. This not only reduces costs of production but also lessens the need for purchased feeds which require transportation. These are the findings of Prof. D. B. Johnstone-Wallace at the New York State College of Agriculture.

An investigation by the pasture expert showed that comparatively poor pastures in New York produce each 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients at a cost of 50 cents, whereas the same amount of nutrients in hay cost $1, and in concentrates, $1.50. Costs of production have risen under wartime conditions, but the margin of difference between the cost of nutrients in improved pastures compared with those in hay and concentrates, is greater than ever before, he points out.

Good grazing management in the fall, Prof. Johnstone-Wallace continued, involves heavy stocking of improved pastures in early September, to make full use of favorable growing conditions. The rate of herbage growth, however, decreases rapidly during this month. Pastures which are producing about 50 pounds of dry matter an acre a day, may be producing less than ten pounds an acre a day by the end of the month; so this is one time of year when the pastures should not be closely grazed, he indicates.

Grazing management experiments which have been in progress at Cornell for several years clear up many problems that face stock-men, Prof. Johnstone-Wallace declared. Establishment of new pastures from fall seedings is seldom successful under New York conditions. Fall seeded grasses do well, however, if seeded before September 15.

Church Service Club To Hold Fall Meeting

The Service Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will hold its first meeting after the summer vacation Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ethel Heiselman, on West Chestnut street. Albert Kurdt of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, will be the guest speaker. His subject will be "Defense Foods." The program for the coming season and other important business will be considered at the business meeting. Members of the club are invited to bring a guest with them to this opening meeting.

MOUSE STOPS BROADCAST

Just as engineers switched on the broadcasting apparatus and the announcer cleared his throat for action in a small country station near Sydney, Australia, a mouse stopped everything. The current shot through the mouse, causing a short circuit and burning out the high tension transformer. After several hours the engineers found what remained of the mouse.

All Gardens Will Need Fall Weed Harvesting

Ithaca, N. Y. — Harvest of the bountiful crop of weeds now before they can go to seed will save the gardener or vegetable grower many hours of work next spring and summer, as well as in other growing seasons.

According to R. D. Sweet of the New York State College of Agriculture, the moist weather of this summer has fostered weed growth, so that control of the unwanted plants is particularly important.

Most growers like to blame the weather, or weed seeds from manure or from flood water as the source of the perennial growth of weeds on their cultivated land. But whatever precautions a home gardener or a commercial grower takes, says Sweet, none has ever waged a successful war on weeds without an intensive cleanup campaign in the fall.

A home gardener should not wait until October to have a neighboring farmer come in to disk the weeds into the soil, as by that time the weed seeds will have ripened and spread. Weeds pulled now can be placed on the compost pile to provide fertilizer instead of competition for the crop plants of next year.

To cover the soil for winter, and to provide a growth to plow under next spring as a source of humus, rye may be planted as soon as the weeds are removed, either in the entire area where crops have been harvested, or between the rows of late growing crops. Rye grass or legumes like ladino clover should not be planted late in September or October, as they will not grow fast enough to protect the soil for winter.

Men in 3-A Asked To Volunteer for Officers' School

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Men classified 3-A by the selective service were asked by the Anti-Aircraft Command today to volunteer as officer candidates at the Anti-Aircraft School, Camp Davis, N. C.

Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Green, commanding general of the Anti-Aircraft Command, said a nation-wide quota of 500 volunteer officer candidates for the school offered an opportunity "to those Americans who earnestly seek a way to serve their country but who heretofore have been deterred by responsibilities to dependents."

Volunteer officer candidates undergo a 90-day basic military training course, followed by 12 weeks of instruction in school. Those who fail of appointments as a second lieutenant are permitted to return to civilian life.

Men who have completed high school algebra and trigonometry have the necessary mathematical training for anti-aircraft, Green said, and "opportunities for advancement are as good here as anywhere in the armed services."

Applications should be filed through local draft boards.

Simon Lake Foresees Sub Raids in East River

Philadelphia, Sept. 23 (AP)—Simon Lake, designer who built the world's first big submarine, says he is prepared for the time when enemy submarines will venture up the East river in New York, torpedo docks and shipping and "lie unseen on the river bed for months—if necessary—until they can get away."

"I know of a secret process for manufacturing air by which the ships could remain submerged for a year and not even impair the crew's health," he told a luncheon club without disclosing who developed the technique.

The white-haired, 76-year-old inventor also said that one giant "underseas freighter," of the type he proposed to the Senate military affairs committee August 3, would be "worth 38 of the mammoth super-cargo planes" envisioned by Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser.

Lake testified before the committee that similar super-submarines were used by Germany for troop movements. He told the Philadelphia Optimist Club he had suggested building such ships here and added "the navy just couldn't see things my way."

Miss Dorothy Ashton Is Wed To Ensign Charlton Schoeffler

New Paltz, Sept. 24—Miss Dorothy Ina Ashton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ashton of New Paltz became the bride of Ensign Charlton George Schoeffler, U. S. N. R., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schoeffler of Albany, Saturday night, September 19. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, Albany. Mrs. Ralph Winslow, church organist, played, "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin made with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a short train. Her veil was arranged from a tiara of studded seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses and swansonia. Miss Evelyn Ashton of New Paltz attended her sister as maid of honor. She was gowned in blue taffeta with white accessories and a Juliet cap of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Ernest Schoeffler of Albany attended his brother as best man.

There was a reception after the ceremony at the blue room of Jack's Restaurant, Albany. Ensign and Mrs. Schoeffler left there for Boston, where they plan to stay two weeks. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue suit with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Schoeffler was graduated from New Paltz Central High School and the Krissler Commercial School in Poughkeepsie. Ensign Schoeffler was graduated from the New York State College for Teachers at Albany.

Worthy Matron Is Honored at Shower

On Friday evening, September 18, a surprise bridal shower was given in honor of Mrs. James Seymour, worthy matron of Kingston Chapter O. E. S. at the Masonic Temple by the officers. During the meeting a bridal degree was given with each officer presenting their congratulations and best wishes.

Sister Beatrice Stroble presented a bridal bouquet of white roses to the worthy matron from the chapter. The associate matron, Mina Monos, presented the matron bride with many pieces of Cambridge glassware from the officers and also brought greetings from the chapter friends and subjects. Sister Jessie Wolfersteig sang a solo, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Sister Pansy Hudler at the piano.

After the meeting the members, officers and friends adjourned to the dining room where refreshments were served. The room was decorated with white streamers and wedding bells and a large wedding cake made by Sister Mary Reis was placed in the center of the table. The favors were little bridal couples. Sister Pansy Hudler played the wedding march as the worthy matron, accompanied by the worthy patron, Pearl H. Carey, entered the dining room.

Those taking part in the degree were right worthy sister, Gertrude Cater, and Sisters Mina Manos, Beatrice Spiegel, Edna Hardwick, Elizabeth Potter, Jean Hudler, Anna Hermance, Sadie Feldman, Dorothy Smith, Beatrice Stroble, Minnie Neebe, Mary Reis, Kitty Buddington, Elizabeth Rundle, Gertrude Ertel, Ora Schneider, Sophie Miller and Worthy Patron Pearl H. Carey.

Teachers' Association Will Meet For Dinner and Broadcast

The Kingston Teachers' Association will meet at the Kingston High School cafeteria September 28, for a meeting in cooperation with the National Educational Association. Dinner will be served at 5:45 o'clock after which the group will listen to a nation-wide broadcast of "Education in Wadtime."

Since in many states the teachers conferences are being omitted the National Education Association is using this method to contact the teachers in regard to problems arising in their profession during the war. There will also be a program arranged by the local group. Following the broadcast, three-minute speeches will be given by the superintendent, a principal, a member of the board of education and teachers. This will be followed by general discussion.

Arrangements are being made by Miss Ethel M. Hull, president of Kingston Teachers' Association, and the executive committee. Dinner plans are being made by Miss Margaret Schuetz and Mrs. Cure.

Flack-Nails

Highland, Sept. 24—The wedding of Miss Helen Nails, daughter of John Nails and the late Mrs. Nails, to Sergeant John E. Flack of Upper Sandusky, O., took place in that city September 16. Sgt. Flack is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., and upon his return to army life, Mrs. Flack will come to her home here for the duration. She attended Highland High School and will be employed in the Empire Market.

Sterber-Nails

Highland, Sept. 24—On Saturday, September 19, the wedding of Miss Pamela Nails, daughter of John Nails and the late Mrs. Nails, to Edwin Sterber of Albany, took place in Liberty where Mr. Sterber is manager of the Empire Market. Mr. Sterber will be called to active service in the army soon. Mrs. Sterber will then return to her home here. She attended the local school and is employed in the White Swan uniform shop.

Library Group Meets At Stone Ridge

The annual meeting of the Stone Ridge Library Association was held Friday evening at the library. The following officers were elected: Ross K. Osterhoudt, president; Lester Roosa, vice president; Mrs. William Hasbrouck, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Ira Hoyt and Lester Roosa, representatives to Library Board.

Plans were discussed for the membership drive which will take place in about a week. Association members were reminded that the library is now opened Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. At the same time the charming and interesting museum over the library rooms is open to the public.

At the meeting acknowledgments of several gifts to the library were made. The library is especially indebted to Judge Van Vechten Veeder of Hurley for some excellent books on art and history and a picture of Governor Clinton by the artist Van Meer. Of special local interest is a book by the late Mrs. A. E. P. Searing entitled "The Land of Rip Van Winkle." Judge Veeder also gave the library copies of the church records of the Shawangunk Dutch Reformed Church and Mrs. Veeder has given copies of the records of the Old Dutch Reformed Church in Kingston. This was presented to the library in memory of Mrs. Veeder's mother, Mrs. Sarah Lounsberry DeWitt, who was born in 1837 in the building which is now the library.

It was also reported that the library had been given some books by the Cragsmoor Library and had been presented with others from the estate of the late Miss Maria Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge.

Sixth Birthday Party

On Wednesday afternoon, September 23, a birthday party was held in honor of Edward Cherny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cherny of 245 East Strand. The guest of honor was celebrating his sixth birthday and he received many gifts.

Those present were Joseph Cherny, Charles Cherney, Andrew Cherny, Bruce Wally of Kingston; Eugene DeWitt, Everett DeWitt, Kenneth DeWitt and Mrs. Morris DeWitt and John Struber of Rosendale.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personally of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

AVOIDING AWKWARD SITUATION ON FAST DAYS

It's curious how often one who goes to live in a new neighborhood gets the idea that new neighbors will be less understanding than those one has known at home. This is in answer to the following letter I received this morning:

"Since I am now living in a town where I am making new friends, many of whom are not of my religious faith, what shall I do when I am invited to dinner on a fast day. At home of course everyone either knew my beliefs, and if I went to the house and didn't eat what was offered to the others, the hostess did not feel hurt. Here where I am a stranger I need some help."

You really don't need any help. I am sure you will find your new friends just as understanding as were those at home. At no table is it necessary to take some of every dish passed you. Just say, "No thank you,"—and don't talk about it!

Family Servant at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) Would it be possible to have our maid, who has been with us for many years, come to church to see my wedding? (2) May she appear in church in her uniform? She is going to my sister's house immediately after the ceremony to assist in serving at the reception there.

Answer: (1) Certainly. (2) Certainly not. She should appear like any other guest in the prettiest dress and hat she has. If she is to serve at the reception she should change her dress at your sister's house.

Furnishing Down to the Details

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it not right to conform even in details to the fashion of a certain period in furnishing a room? I have early American dining-room furniture and there is a corner cupboard with glass doors. On each shelf I have a lace doily hanging down over the edge because I was told that was the way the shelves were done in those days. An aunt now tells me doilies used like that are no longer fashionable, but isn't the fashion right for my dining-room, and isn't that what really counts?

Answer: I can't remember ever having seen lace doilies draping the shelves of a cabinet! However, the only thing that counts in your house is that you shall like what you have in it. If you are doing your house perfectly in period, then you are right to follow it strictly—at the same time I must add that draped doilies may have been Victorian, but certainly not best examples of Georgian American.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to have ushers to seat fifty wedding guests in church?

Answer: No, but it is perfectly proper to have them if you want to. Also it is easier for the family to give a list to the ushers than to send word to even as few as 20 different persons.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men), that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Cudney Honored at Shower

Last evening the members of the Sewing Club entertained at a bridal surprise shower in honor of Mrs. Kenneth Cudney, the former Miss Violet Britt. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Ostrander, 54 Hurley avenue. Gifts were attached to streamers falling from a sprinkling can and decorations were done in pink and white.

Those attending were Mrs. Arthur Britt, Mrs. Herbert Ostrander, Mrs. Benjamin Storms, Mrs. Mary Smedes, Mrs. Leonard Hinkley, Mrs. George Myers, Mrs. Joseph Vacca, Mrs. William Hutton, Mrs. Adelbert Kinkade, Mrs. Joseph Naccarato, Mrs. Frank Fiore, Mrs. Elmer King, Mrs. Norwood Ostrander, Mrs. Joseph Cornelske, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Mrs. George Holsopple, Mrs. Joseph Hughes and the Misses Irene Strubel and Edna Davis. Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were the Misses Hilda Jane Davis, Myrtle Pine and Mrs. LeRoy Webber.

Business Man (to a newspaper reporter)—Please get this straight . . . you reporters ball up everything so much. A man named White—I can't remember his first name—he lives somewhere in Illinois, or maybe in Indiana, and will get married this Fall or next Spring to a woman who lives in Washington or California. White was in some kind of business here 10 or 15 years ago; I think he was in the pop business or was it pop corn?

Junior—Mother, I wish you would not call me your "little lamb" when people are around.

Mother—Why not?

Junior—It makes me feel sheepish.

Teacher (to her class)—I want each of you children to draw a picture showing what you wish to be when you grow up.

The youngsters diligently applied themselves to their tasks, and soon began displaying crude pictures of soldiers, aviators, cowboys, G-men, ball players, dancers, nurses, and other characters dear to the juvenile heart. But one little girl down front seemed unable to carry out the assignment. With pencil poised in her hand she sat regarding the blank sheet before her with an air of doubt and uncertainty.

Teacher—Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up, Anna?

Anna—Yes, but I don't know how to draw it.

Teacher—What do you want to be?

Anna—Married.

If you will add the letter p to luck, you will have solved most of life's problems.

Voice (on telephone) — My son has a severe cold and he won't be able to come to school today.

Teacher—Very well, sir. Who is this speaking, please?

Voice—This is my father, sir.

Give this a thought: Buy War Bonds now or take orders from Hitler later.

A newly married doctor was taking his young wife out walking one afternoon when a pretty girl smiled and bowed to him:

Wife (scenting an earlier love affair)—Who's the lady, dear?

Doctor (nonchalantly)—Oh, just a girl I have met once or twice professionally.

Wife (meowing)—No doubt, but who's profession . . . yours or hers?

There is no one quite so foolish as an educated fool.

Two men at a "talkie" were sitting just in front of two women, whose continuous chatter they stood as long as they would. One turned and said to the woman:

Man—Pardon me, madam, but my friends and I can't hear.

Of Course

"I killed five flies, three male, two female,"
She said, loud enough so everyone could hear her.
"How do I know? The three were on beer bottles,
The other two on a mirror."

Mrs. Jones (reproving maid)—This chair is just covered with dust.

Maid—And why shouldn't it be, ma'am? It's so uncomfortable nobody ever sits on it.

Barnum said a fool was born every minute and the fact has never been disputed.

Any man can become notorious, but he will have to do something really worthwhile in order to become famous.

Keep our boys tiptop by putting the U. S. O. drive over the top.

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

First Gas Tractor

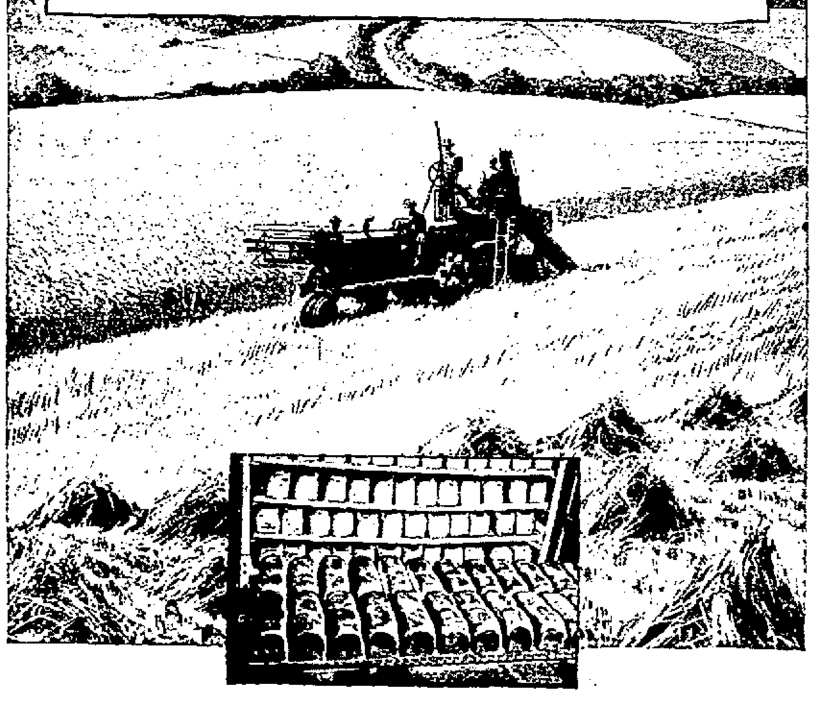
Froelich, Ia. (AP)—Just 50 years ago this summer, the first gasoline tractor was learning to walk. There was no boisterous celebration when John Froelich coaxed two miles an hour out of the contraption at his village blacksmith shop, but the two score people in this northeastern Iowa hamlet haven't forgotten the occasion. In quiet fashion they are observing the golden anniversary. After numerous adjustments the vertical, one-cylinder engine, built largely of steam engine parts, was shipped to South Dakota in the fall of '92 and was used successfully to operate a threshing machine at Lanford.

Jam Maker In a Jam

W. H. Scott, licensed jam maker of Belfast, Northern Ireland, was in something of a jam when he apeared in court. He was fined $20 on each of four counts—failing to furnish returns on fruit delivered to him; inaccurate records, selling unlabeled jam, and selling jam for household use.

FOOD AND TELEPHONES

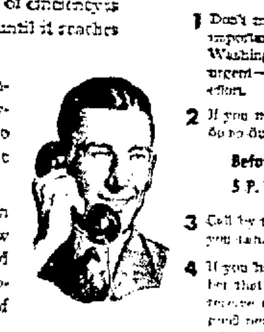
Two of the Nation's Vital Needs



AMERICA is not only the arsenal of Democracy—it is also the food bin. To produce, process and distribute food for our armed forces, our civilian population and our allies is a task of tremendous magnitude. Since so much of the food is perishable, a high degree of efficiency is needed all along the line until it reaches the consumer.

This need for speed in handling food has caused everyone concerned with it to turn more and more to the telephone.

That is one more reason why telephone traffic is now breaking all records, and why you will want to co-operate in your own use of the telephone.



Your Use of the Telephone in War Time

You can help us serve both you and the war effort if you will keep in mind these simple suggestions:

1 Don't make Long Distance telephone calls to important war-activity centers, particularly Washington and Chicago, unless your call is urgent—and directly connected with the war effort.

2 If you must make Long Distance calls, please do so during these least-busy hours—

Before 10 A. M. 12 Noon to 2 P. M.
5 P. M. to 7 P. M. After 9 P. M.

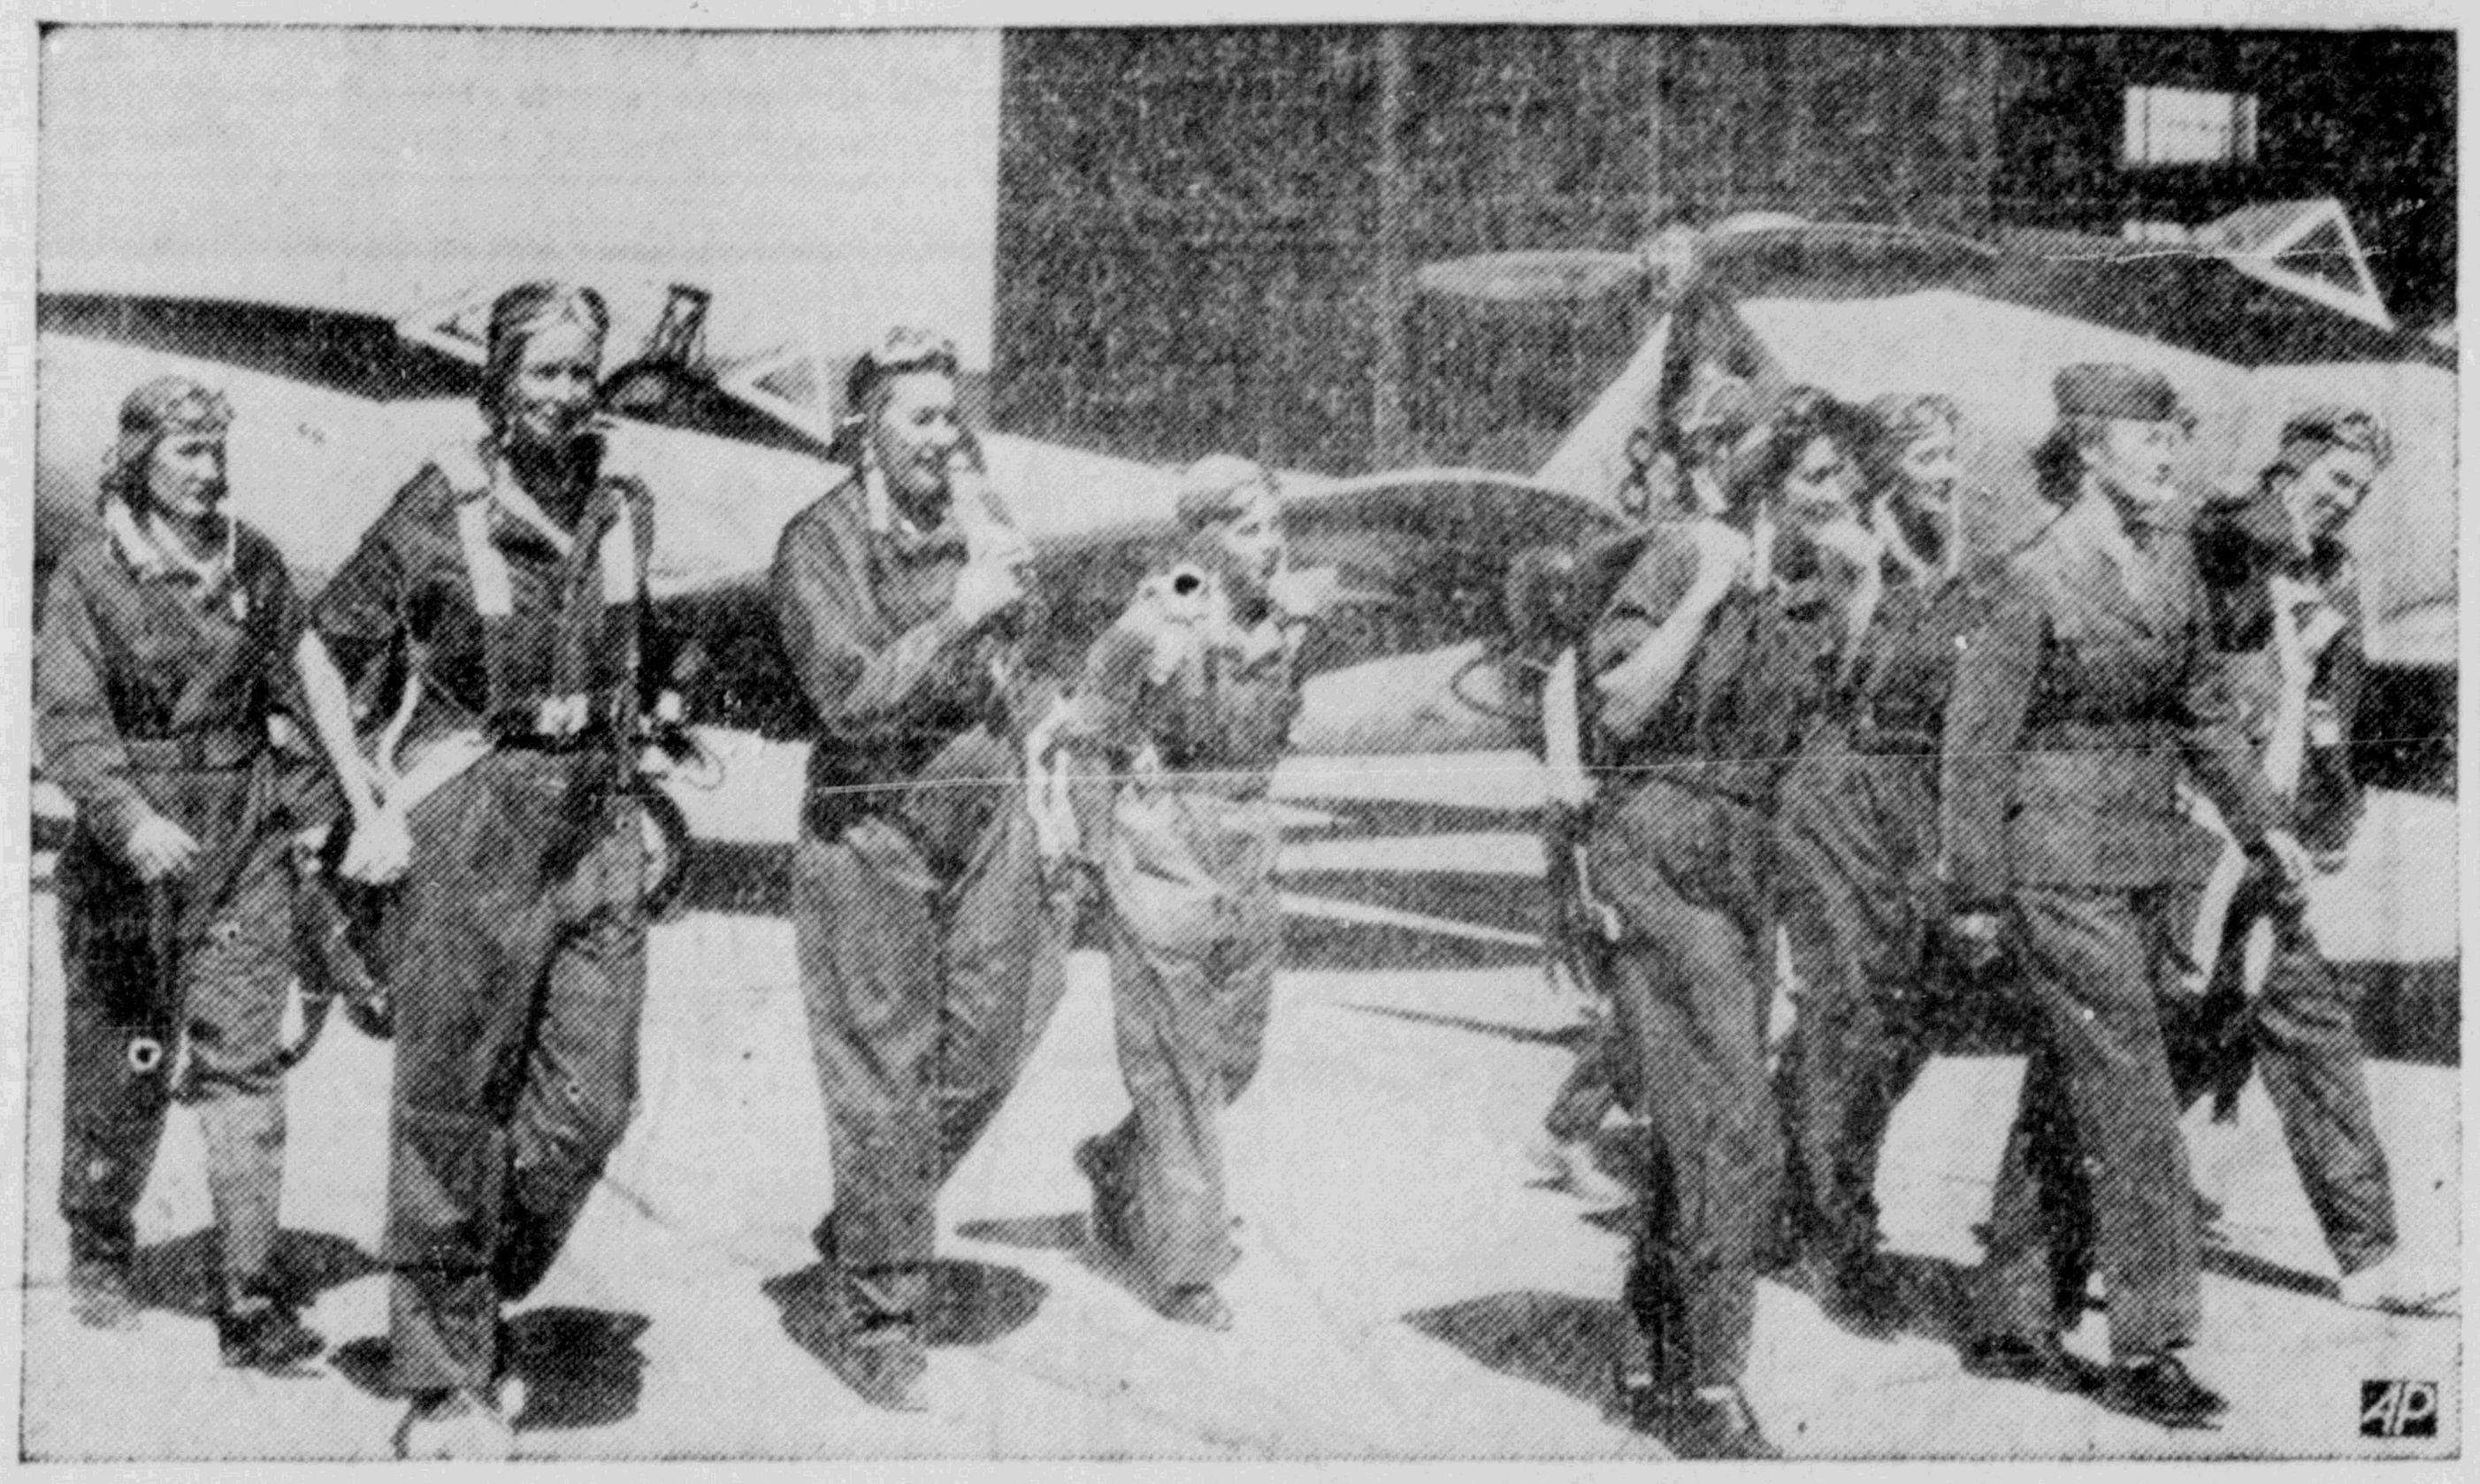
WAFS GO TO WORK FOR THE ARMY



Mrs. Nancy H. Love (second from right in uniform) leads the first contingent of women pilots in the Women's Auxiliary Ferry Squadron out to the flight line at their training base at New Castle, Del., for the first flights in their new job of ferrying planes from factories to air bases for the Army Air Force Transport Command. Aline Rhonie (fourth from the right), New York artist, and Mrs. Betty Huyler Gillies (fourth from the left) of Syosset, Long Island, New York, are among the group.

WHAT IT MEANS

CLEANING UP BLACK MARKETS

By JOHN GROVER

Only a babe in the price woods argues that black markets don't exist in the U. S. But Uncle Sam is brewing some potent legal poison for future violators.

The black market mess "just growed." Loose administration of vital raw materials, failure to fix source prices while putting ceilings on processed products (as in meat), eye-winking subterfuges and plain chiseling all contributed.

A generally well-meaning but haphazard paste-patches-and-baling-wire policy resulted in confusion and uncertainty. Smarties took advantage of it, industrialists philosophically made the best of it. Result were so-called "black markets"—although there is no general agreement on the strict definition of that term.

The farm bloc prevented a ceiling on livestock prices. Ceilings were fixed on the packers and retailers of meat. As livestock prices went inexorably up, they were economically squashed against their ceilings.

The government, in a series of injunction suits, alleges they sought to evade the squeeze by "upgrading." Meats were labeled "choice" when they should have been graded "good," and "choice" prices were charged. Others invented new cuts of meat, for which there had been no pre-ceiling prices, charged what they pleased.

Loose and inexcusable handling of available steel supplies built that black market. It largely centered in steel warehouses.

Steel warehouses in normal times perform legitimate middlemen's functions, distributing less-than-carload lots to small steel users the big mills are unwilling to bother to supply direct. For their services, they properly get higher per-ton prices than mill quotations. In the steel ceiling prices, this was taken into account, and warehouse ceilings higher than at-the-mill figures.

Somehow, in the dewy-eyed period that characterized the clubby little madhouse that was steel, the warehouses suddenly turned up holding most of the steel available.

Shipbuilders like Henry Kaiser, the production wizard, found themselves short of steel. The only sources available were the warehouses, which would sell less-than-carload lots at their higher prices.

"We only did what everybody else did," one of Kaiser's deputies explained. What "everybody" else did was buy LCL lots, and lots of them. They paid the higher price to keep their steel-hungry plants rolling.

The industrialists simply adapted themselves to conditions. Something was sour in a supply system that let vital quantities of steel get into the warehouses for higher price re-sale.

There were numerous instances of just plain crooked chiseling in other lines. Reducing the quality was a favorite dodge. Sellers charged the ceiling fixed for good quality goods, and substituted shoddy.

Happily, there's plenty of evidence that the black market is going to be bleached.

President Roosevelt's crackdown on Congress, demanding farm price ceilings that mean something, should end the squeeze of wholesalers and retailers and remove the main incentive to chiseling.

The War Production Board overhaul of allocations, the resignation of the steel division chiefs, indicates Donald Nelson really means business in devising a workable flow of available materials to manufacturers.

In this connection, there's a lot of informed discussion in the capital about the probability of "vertical" control of all raw materials. It's intensified since the appointment of William Jeffers as rubber czar.

Vertical control means that one expert would be charged with all responsibility for one material. In copper, for example, a copper boss would handle production, price, allocations and all other problems, instead of splitting up these functions between price boards, production boards and other responsibility-splitters.

Finally, the creation of the O. P. A. standards division, under Dexter M. Keezer, former president of Reed College, Portland, pressages some violent headaches for the deliberate chiselers-on-quality.

Keezer has been handed several tough assignments in the past, and has won through with distinction. No body who knows the young, able economist would bet a nickel on the chances of the quality chiselers to evade prosecution.

It's taken a long time, and in the confusion the black market had a picnic, but under stress of hard facts, the government is catching up. Best guess in Washington is that the major sore spots will be cleaned up in six months, and the petty chiselers slapped down as they appear after that.

PILLSBURY'S DINNER-IN-A-ROLL

... wrapped in tenderest, flakiest biscuit, thanks to that dependable all-purpose flour, Pillsbury's Best!

MAKE YOUR MEAT GO FARTHER WITH

... a savory way to satisfy six hungry people ... for about 11c a serving.

TEMPERATURE: 400° F. TIME: about 1 hour and 10 min.

- 1½ cups (¾ lb.) ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup chopped celery, or carrots
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 1 cup (1 medium) cooked, mashed, sweet potato (or Irish potato)

(The enrichment of Pillsbury's Best with two B-vitamins and iron in no way changes its creamy-white color, its mellow, wheaty flavor ... or the perfect way it works for everything you bake)

1. Combine meat, salt, pepper, onion, celery or carrots, 2 tablespoons butter, and egg; mix well. Use as directed in Step 8 below.

2. Add ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, green pepper to potatoes; mix well. Shape into roll as in Step 6 below.

The Perfect Pillsbury Biscuit

- 2 cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder (or 2 teaspoons double-acting)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional)
- ⅓ cup shortening
- ¾ cup milk

When you see the tender flakiness of this Pillsbury biscuit, don't be so delighted that you forget something just as important—that you get this same glorious success with everything you bake with Pillsbury's Best! For Pillsbury's Best is a truly all-purpose flour—perfect for cakes, biscuits, cookies, pastry, or bread. And it's truly dependable, too. It's BAKE-PROVED to protect your baking—pre-tested by actual baking tests made 4 to 6 times a day during milling. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back!

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder, salt, and poultry seasoning (optional); sift again. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk; mix until flour is dampened. 4. Knead gently on floured board a few seconds. 5. Roll out to 15x10-inch rectangle. 6. Shape potato mixture into roll, about 1 inch shorter than width of dough. 7. Place on dough; roll as for jelly roll, but only enough to enclose potatoes in dough. 8. Spread meat mixture evenly over remainder of dough; continue rolling. Seal edges. 9. Place roll in well-greased 9x4-inch loaf pan. Brush top with milk. Gash top. 10. Bake in hot oven. 11. Serve hot with a tomato sauce. Garnish with parsley and pimiento, if desired, or with cooked carrot or beet strips.

Get a bag of Pillsbury's Best—and try this savory, succulent one-dish dinner! It's fairly bursting with vitamins —with rare, rich goodness and flavor! Tonight's the night for Pillsbury's Dinner-In-A-Roll!

Think of it!—Solid silver for a portion of what you'd expect to pay! A bargain you wouldn't expect in times like these! Real sterling—not plate, but solid silver, or regular sterling weight and quality, in the simple, graceful, distinctive Betrothal* pattern (shown in picture above). It's only one of the fine premiums you can get with Pillsbury Thrift Stars, which come with Pillsbury's Best and other Pillsbury products. For details, see recipe folder in your Pillsbury's Best bag, or write Pillsbury Flour Mills, Dept. 43, Minneapolis, for new free catalog. (*REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.)

YOUR FOOD—AND NUTRITION

Besides combining foods into well-balanced menus, the homemaker who wants to feed her family well should remember that essential foods must be served every day and in sufficient quantities to furnish energy and body building materials.

Even quick meals should be adequate in food value as well as satisfying to the appetite. They can fit into the pattern of good nutrition and supply their share of the daily need for meat, leafy vegetables, fruit, milk and cereals.

Meat, served in a salad, contributes just as high food value as a hot meat dish, and tasty cubes of cold veal, lamb, pork or beef combine deliciously with lettuce, tomatoes, celery and other vegetables which add their share to the day's food requirements.

New problems face the homemaker these days. In many cases, there is less time for meal preparation, just when good, nourishing food is more important than ever before. It is never wise to skimp on the food value of the meals, nor to skip meals. And it is quite possible to work out a system of quick and easy meal preparation, without sacrificing appetizing qualities or food value.

Among the good main dishes for meals which must be prepared in a hurry are meat salads. These are by no means limited to summer meals. They can be served throughout the year, with quickly prepared hot foods, such as soups, and canned vegetables which can be quickly heated. One hot dish should always be included in the menu.

Use Any Left-Overs

A meat salad is an excellent way of using the remnants of any roast, beef, veal, pork or lamb. A large enough roast can be selected to allow for a generous left-over portion. Veal is especially popular for use in salad.

Left-over roast may be supplemented by ready-to-serve meat from the market, such as cooked ham, if desired.

eMat for salad can be cut into cubes and placed in French dressing or an oil and vinegar mixture in the refrigerator. Then it may be combined with the freshly cut vegetables and the dressing added just before it is served.

Here are suggestions for tasty combinations:

Veal and Ham Salad

1 cup diced cooked veal
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 cup mayonnaise or boiled dressing
Ripe olives

Combine veal, ham, celery, and tomatoes, draining all possible juice from the latter. Season rather highly, moisten with half the dressing, chill and serve in beds of lettuce, garnishing with olives, and the rest of the dressing.

Royal Lamb Salad

2 cups diced cooked lamb
1 cup diced celery
1 cup Bing cherries
4 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
Salad greens

Combine meat with celery, pitted cherries, diced eggs, pecans and salt. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, add mayonnaise and toss lightly. Pile on salad greens and garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs and Bing cherries.

A meat salad is appetizing and very nutritious. It is a good way to combine meat and vegetables in a tasty dish. Any cooked meat can be used in salad. Veal is especially popular because its delicate flavor blends well with vegetables and fruits.

Had Luck in Green Tie

That his prison sentence was not merely the result of stealing a gold watch but was due mostly to the fact that the victim was a man whose green tie was hidden by a scarf, was the assertion of a pickpocket in Belfast, Northern Ireland. He explained that pickpockets believe that it means seven years bad luck to pick the pockets of a red-haired woman or rob anyone wearing green. Pickpockets should carry a date stone, and burglars a piece of coal for good luck, he added.

PARENTHOOD TAUGHT

Schools in Britain are now giving girls of 16 and upwards a special course in "Parenthood." The idea sprang from a conference of doctors, teachers, nurses and welfare workers. At Kensington High School, London, a classroom poster reads: "Why is your child naughty? Because you let him be master of the house." The drawing is entitled "My Lord and His Slaves." All subjects relating to children are dealt with.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Sept. 24—The Dorcas Society met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Clark Bonesteel, Miss Anna Wolf and Miss Mary Polhemus serving as hostesses for the social hour. Plans were made by the second birthday group for raising funds. A novel cloth "apple tree" is to be passed around among the members and friends, on which each one is to sew a red "apple" or green "leaf" patch under which is to be placed a donation. This is to be in charge of Mrs. Walter Schussler and Miss Mary Polhemus. Miss Florence Kruse is to have charge of the sale of Christmas cards as another project of this group. The next meeting is to be held following a pot luck supper October 13. Miss Louise Van Aken, Mrs. Phoebe Ostrander, Miss Florence Kruse and Mrs. David Harris were appointed on the supper committee.

The Port Ewen Cemetery Association reminds the public that all flower jars they wish to save, must be removed from the cemetery by October 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril G. Small are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Duane William, Wednesday at the Kingston Hospital.

Corporal Wallace (Buddy) Jump, a former resident of this place, is stationed at Luke Field, Phoenix, Ariz. He has received a certificate of proficiency as a graduate of Mechanics School in Aircraft Maintenance.

Eddie Maines, Jr., is ill at his home on Bayard street.

Many first aid workers from Port Ewen attended the refresher class at the M. J. M. School Tuesday evening.

Corporal Walter Clark, who is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., spent a short leave this week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clark, of Schryver street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beichert were in Albany Sunday visiting their daughter, Marilyn, who is a student in St. Rose College.

The following schedule has been released for candlepin bowling matches at the Port Ewen Reformed Church tonight.

Temple Emanuel Services

Succoth services will be held in Temple Emanuel Friday evening, September 25, at 7:45 o'clock. Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, "Thou Shalt Dwell in Booths." Saturday morning service will be held at 10 o'clock. The morning service is especially designed for the young people. The regular session of the religious school will begin Sunday morning, September 27, at 10 o'clock. All children are expected to be present to begin work. Those who have not registered may register at this time. All those interested in a high school study group are to be present in the Temple on Sunday morning to determine the time and place of such a group. Everyone interested in an adult study group conducted by Rabbi Bloom on the theme, "Minorities in the Post War World," should contact Rabbi Bloom at his home, 93 Orchard street. Registration for the adult study group must be completed soon. No tuition is to be charged.

UMBRELLA GOES FISHING

Fishermen in North Brazil are doing their best to step up food production, it is revealed in Rio de Janeiro. There the angler uses a taraffa, a net about 15 feet across, and weighted round the edges with stones or lead. It has to be thrown in such a manner that it lands flat and fully extended on the water. As the weights cause it to sink, it closes and entraps the fish.

Boy "Commandos" Fail

When two Edinburgh, Scotland, boys of 12 set out to outshine the commandos they had a thrilling experience. Thomas Wright and George Allan tried to climb the cliffs of Edinburgh Castle Rock without ropes or ladders. They stuck on a perilous patch 100 feet from the bottom. While holiday makers and dancers in the gardens shouted advice, Allan slipped and hurtled down, but escaped with a cut eye and bruised hip. Soldiers rescued his companion.

Look Out for Wartime Constipation!
Lack of "bulk" one of common causes
Don't be surprised if you feel all bogged down these war days! Look at how you live! Longer hours, harder work, irregular meals—your whole way of living's been upset. Specially eating habits. Meals are apt to be hurried, improperly balanced—and the important matter of bulk neglected.
And lack of "bulk" is one of the common causes of constipation! Medicinal laxatives give only temporary relief because they don't get at the cause.
The answer to this kind of trouble is drinking plenty of water and eating a crisp, golden cereal — KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. For this delicious breakfast food supplies the needed "bulk," corrects the cause. Why not start eating ALL-BRAN yourself? Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

FLAKO PIE CRUST
LIGHT. It's the crust that "makes" the pie and it's Flako that "makes" the crust! Flako assures light and flaky crusts—top and bottom—because the ingredients are the same good ones you use. And Flako assures delicious results at every baking because these ingredients are precision-mixed! Just add water, roll and bake.

Social Workers Say Delinquency Increases

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Unprecedentedly high wages paid inexperienced youngsters and abnormal home life occasioned by the war have stepped up the rate of juvenile delinquency, social workers contended today.

In noting a 14 per cent increase in cases handled by the children's court in the first six months of this year, the Children's Aid Society said in a statement that jobs paying high wages to untrained boys and girls now exceeded the number of applicants. It added that this increase in demand and jump in pay gave youngsters an exaggerated sense of their own importance.

As a solution, the report commended England's wartime increase of the educational budget, as opposed to the cut in funds in New York and the larger class load forced upon teachers.

Dr. Alexander Reid Martin, consulting psychiatrist, asserted also that the wartime atmosphere had brought about a restlessness, insecurity and emotional instability.

"It is not so much new problems connected with broken homes, absence of older brothers and fathers, the sudden increase of responsibilities and demands upon unprepared younger children, especially with more children left at home alone with mothers, and fathers away."

Farmers Grow More Cows To Produce More Milk

Ithaca, N. Y. — Dairy farmers busy with production of milk to meet record demands of today are already planning for better cows that will give more milk.

To maintain present dairy production, the dairy cows must produce calves, and according to Irvine Elliott of the New York State College of Agriculture, farmers are using proved bulls as herd sires, so that heifer calves of 1943 will grow up to be better milkers than their mothers now performing at the milk pail.

The typical cow in a New York dairy herd now produces only about 6,000 pounds of milk a year. This is not enough to maintain an efficient dairy business.

A few farmers have proved bulls as herd sires; animals that have daughters that have proved their worth. Other farmers have bulls that come from high-producing families, with sisters that are good milk producers.

Thousands of other farmers in more than half the agricultural counties of the state can have part or all of their cows bred to proved bulls through artificial breeding associations. Four county associations, together with the New York Artificial Breeders' Cooperative, which has 21 local associations, service dairy herds in 35 counties.

Blood Typing Momes On

Blood typing of 70,000 men by an army mobile laboratory in Australia has been completed. The units traveled 12,000 miles in New South Wales and the whole of the army strength in that state with the exception of a few men at the Showground, Sydney, have had their blood types fixed.

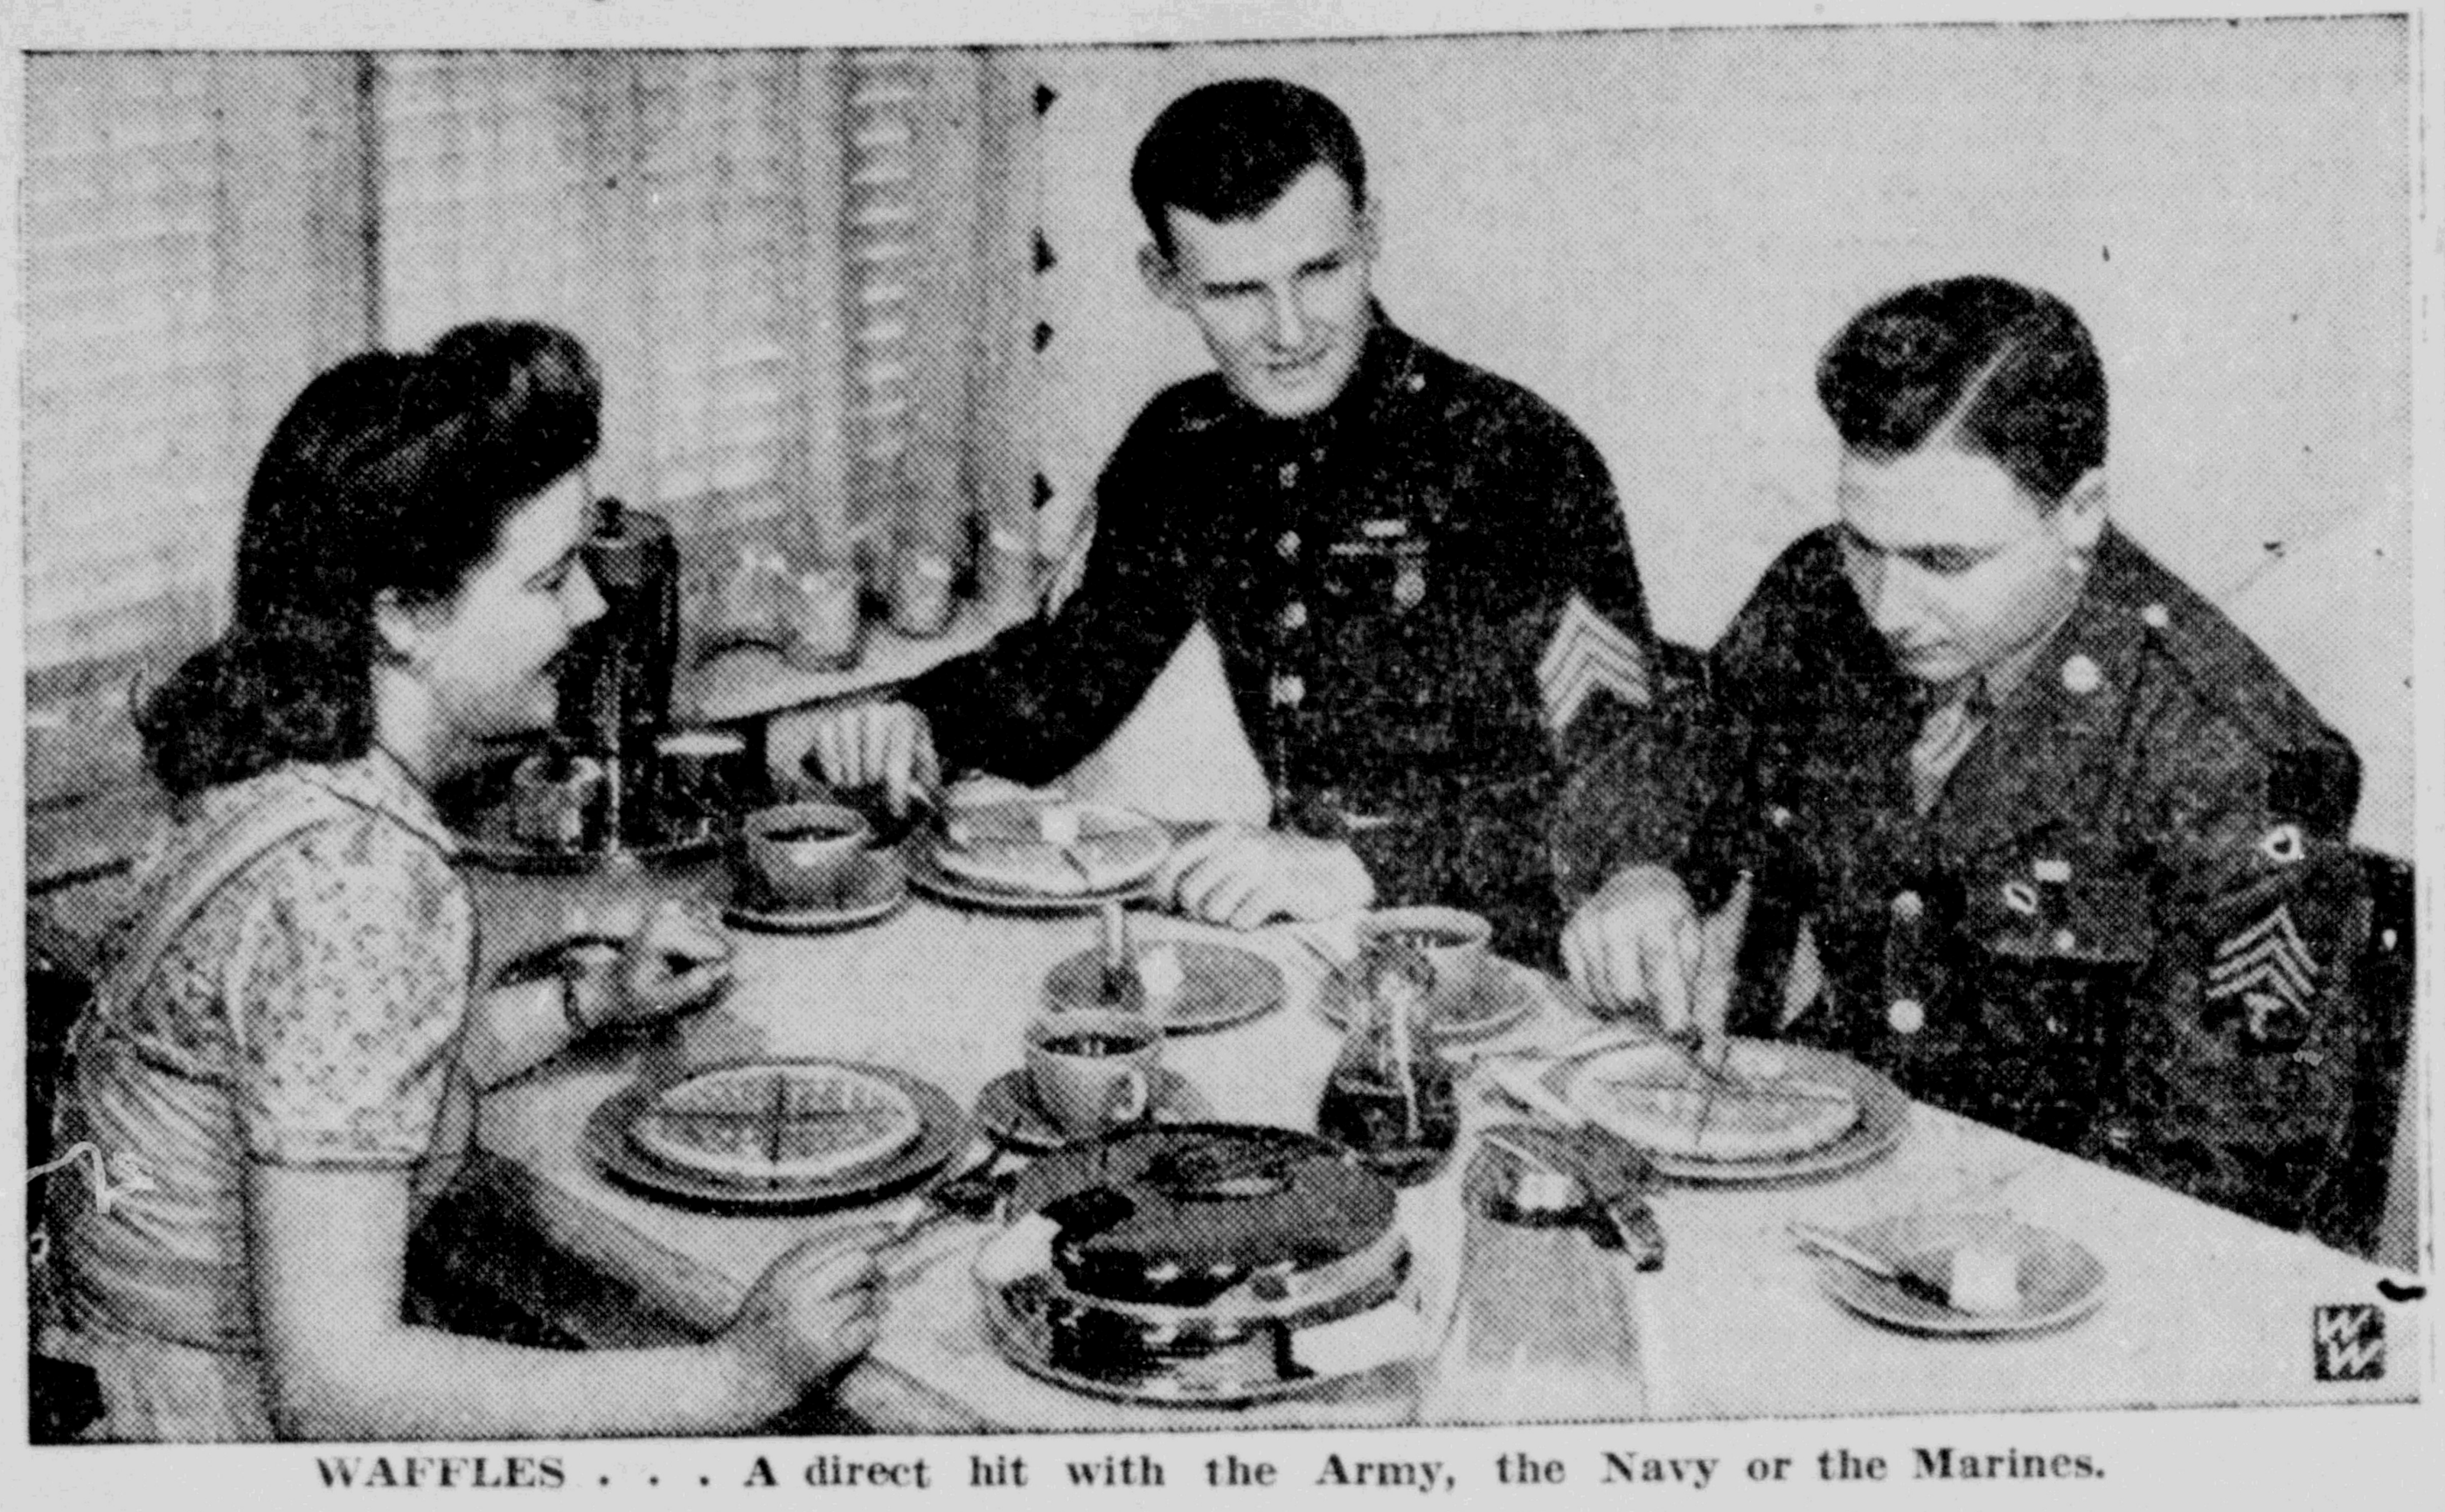
FOOD

The Way to a Soldier's Heart—



WAFFLES . . . A direct hit with the Army, the Navy or the Marines.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(Wide World Food Editor)

When the family gets word that Johnny is marching home on leave, it's time to go into a quick huddle and plan foods he will like to eat.

While soldier and sailor boys get good substantial chow, they have a hankering for dishes with those distinctive home touches and for such specialties as spiced peaches, strawberry preserves and pie like only mother can make.

MOTHER'S PEACH ROLL will receive a hearty welcome. It is truly scrumptious when topped by vanilla ice cream or whipped cream. Mix together 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cut in 1/3 cup fat, add a beaten egg and enough milk to make a soft dough. Pat out the dough on a floured board until dough is about 2/3 inch thick. Spread with soft butter and 3 tablespoons sugar blended with ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cover with sliced fresh peaches (canned or frozen ones will do) and sprinkle with 3 tablespoons honey and 4 tablespoons sugar (brown if you have it). Roll up quickly and fit into buttered loaf or round pan. Brush top with 3 tablespoons honey mixed with 2 tablespoons butter and bake 35 minutes in moderate oven.

CHICKEN SHORTCAKE is another family favorite. Cut out large biscuits from rich biscuit dough. Bake, split and add chicken filling, made this way: Cook a cut-up stewing chicken in salted water until very tender. Cool and chill. Remove the chicken and let the fat collect on top of stock. Mix together ½ cup chicken fat (eased out with butter if the fat measures a little shy) with 2/3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each white pepper, paprika and celery seed. Add 1½ cups chicken stock and 1 cup milk. Cook slowly until thick and creamy. Cut the chicken, thoroughly chilled, into pieces no smaller than an inch in size—larger pieces are all right. Add chicken to sauce and cook 5 minutes over low heat. If a little too thick add ½ cup more stock or milk or cream. If the boy is a cornbread fan let it replace the biscuits and you have Dixie Shortcake, which is a real treat.

GREEN SALAD, icy cold, appeals to most boys and especially when it is made by mixing ¼ cup crumbled Roquefort cheese into each 2/3 cup tart French dressing.

For dessert nothing tastes better than BLUEBERRY PIE. And BLUEBERRY MUFFINS make delicious eating for breakfast or luncheon.

Waffles

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
5 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
3 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks and milk; add gradually to flour, beating only until smooth. Add shortening. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with butter and maple-flavored syrup. Makes four or five 4-section waffles.

Safety First on Farms to Save Help

Ithaca, N. Y. — It is within the power of New York state farm families not to have casualties on the home front. Today accidents are unpatriotic, according to Prof. F. B. Wright of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Under wartime conditions, farmers must face an increase in their accident problems. Due to the labor shortages many young people and city folks are at work in the fields. Most of these are not familiar with farm hazards.

Farm accidents take about 4,500 lives a year and seriously injure many thousands of persons. The major cause of farm accidents are falls. Other causes are machinery, tools, burns, and animals.

Check the farm for hazards, suggests Prof. Wright. Faulty flues in the chimneys, wobbly ladders, broken machinery guards, unprotected gasoline or oil containers, unsafe bull pens, and other causes of accidents can be removed or repaired.

Today it is more important than ever that farmers remain at top efficiency, he says. They feed and clothe the nation; their contribution to the victory effort is vital. The United States can not afford to lose their services.

Plenty of Underwear Is on Hand, America

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Stop worrying, America—it may be a long, tough winter, but there's plenty of long underwear to go around.

Roy A. Cheney, president of the Underwear Institute, had this happy announcement today:

"This winter the chances of living in overheated homes and offices will be out for the duration and heavier underclothing will be in."

The big men of the long underwear business admit that there will be plenty of us itching about the situation, because most city dwellers aren't used to it.

"Much of the heavy underwear will be heavier and coarser cotton garments," Cheney said, "because the armed forces are using the entire domestic wool clip as well as the combed yarn and finer carded yarns.

"And you might tell the girls they're going back to draw-string top drawers, whether they like it or not, because the government is taking all the rubber we used for elastic tops."

Cheney said that the underwear industry had sufficient capacity to take care of all needs of the armed forces and civilians, with the only bottleneck in the production of yarn.

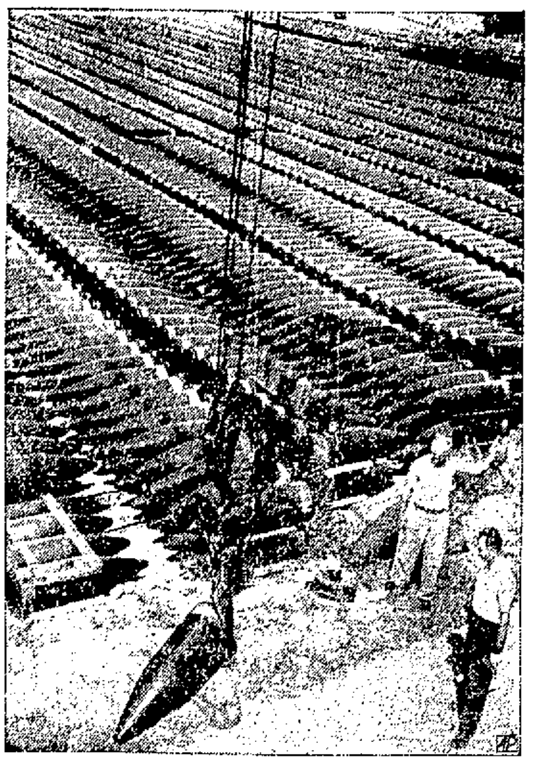
SPEAKING OF SCRAP METAL



Real scrap metal are these obsolete 16-inch shells which salvage workers are reclaiming to meet present war needs. The shells, originally intended to put the finishing touches on the Kaiser's war machine in 1918 have lain in neat rows since then in a corner of the Picatinny Arsenal at Dover, N. J. There are 3,000 shells in all, each weighing a ton.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Sept. 23 — Mrs. Stowell took her sister, who has been stopping here, to Mt. Vernon Tuesday.

The Poletti shop which has been open during the summer discontinued operations for the season Monday.

A missionary meeting will be held at the Reformed Church parsonage on Thursday at 2:30 p. m. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Charles Palmer, representing the missionary union of the Classis of Ulster.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a Red Cross meeting at the home of Mrs. Martin Comeau. Towar Boggs will speak on the activities of the Red Cross among the armed forces.

Sunshine Cottage has been closed and the owners have returned to their home in New Jersey. They may return later in the season for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Scheld are expected to return to their home in Zena at the end of this week.

The ruined tree has been removed from the village green and preparations are being made to plant the new one.

Davy Jones Serves Rum

Cognac, caviar, and other choice foods and drink have been salvaged from a small steamer that capsized three years ago in the roadstead at La Havre, France. Operations continue for the recovery of all the undamaged part of the cargo.

Gardeners Are Making Plant Food at Home

Ithaca, N. Y. — The home garden compost pile may have to take the place of many commercial fertilizers cut off by wartime needs.

Kitchen waste, coal ashes, and plant tops from the garden are among the materials that can be made into compost to help relieve the shortage, says Prof. Hans Platenius of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Home lawn owners, owners of golf greens, parks, and cemeteries will not be able to purchase most types of nitrogen fertilizer next year. Even farmers, who are producing much-needed food crops, will be able to get only about 80 per cent of the amount of nitrogen fertilizer they used in 1942.

Phosphoric acid, potash, lime, and other fertilizer elements needed by plants to grow will be more plentiful than nitrogen.

Composts made through the rotting of leaves, roots, weeds, fruit peelings, and coal ashes, mixed with whatever fertilizer and manure is available, provide an excellent home-made fertilizer. Main cost of this material is a little work in the fall piling the refuse with alternate layers of soil and manure, followed by the turning over of the material later in the year to speed its decay.

Hidden under a postage stamp, the photograph of a South African soldier was discovered by Mrs. E. J. Cato, adjutant of a women's army auxiliary in Klerksdorp. When she opened a [illegible] envelope the stamp dropped off, revealing the photograph. Army authorities are investigating.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Rails and industrials kept in front of a further stock market advance today but the move was restricted more or less by light profit cashing on the upswing.

The news still was bullish marketwise, with sentiment buoyed by mild inflation psychology emanating from action of the House in refusing to stem farm parities. In addition, revived dividend hopes, coupled with fierce Russian counter-offensives at Stalingrad, served as a trend prop.

Volume expanded briskly at the start, aided by sizable blocks of low-priced issues. Gains of fractions to around a point subsequently were reduced here and there and activity slackened near the fourth hour.

Bonds were selectively higher. Commodities exhibited firmness.

Among stocks making new year's tops were Erie, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Western Union. Modest plus signs were recorded for Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Steel, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Anaconda, du Pont and Douglas Aircraft.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 50 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Streamlining Is Disclosed

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—A further streamlining of the war production board was disclosed today when it became known that war plant sites will be selected hereafter by a single, small committee instead of the present two groups. The new, quick-action committee will be composed of one officer each from the army, army air force, navy and maritime commission, under an order signed but not yet announced. The action was confirmed by Col. Gordon E. Textor, a regular army officer loaned to W. P. B. by the Corps of Engineers, who has been chosen executive director of the new "facility clearance board."

Haight Pleads Innocent

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Edward Haight, 17-year-old youth of North Stamford, Conn., pleaded innocent today when he was arraigned on charges of kidnaping and murdering Helen Lynch, 8, and Margaret Lynch, 7, sisters, of Bedford Center, N. Y. Haight appeared indifferent as he stood manacled before Westchester County Judge Frank H. Coyne while District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher read the four indictments against him. No date was set for the trial.

Powers Arraigned In Supreme Court, Murder 2nd Degree

Patrick Powers, charged with the murder of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Neff, at New Hurley, on August 28, was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick in Supreme Court this afternoon at the court house.

Powers, who was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, is charged with murder in the second degree. He entered a plea of not guilty.

The aged man was arrested following a gun battle at the Neff farm house.

Teachers' College News

More than 120 freshmen, who constitute the class of '46 at State Teachers College in New Paltz, were treated royally by their hosts the faculty and upperclassmen during their first week at College.

Wilbur Wiesler of Rosendale and Mildred William of Baldwin, members of the sophomore class served as co-chairmen of freshman week. Throughout the week there was a series of events. Tuesday evening was the time set aside of the girls' dance and the men's smoker. Refreshments and well planned entertainments marked the evening programs. Kay Van Keuren of Ellenville had general charge of the girls' dance while George Maybury was the master of ceremonies for the smoker. These parties served as "get-acquainted" night of the freshmen, who were introduced to the members of the faculty and to many of the upperclassmen by their "Big Sisters" and "Big Brothers." Both the "Big Sisters" and "Big Brothers" played an important role in the life of each freshman not only during the first week of college but during the weeks preceding registration.

In past years the Saturday of freshman week was the scene of the traditional Lake Mohonk trip by the entire student body. Due to transportation difficulties the outing was cancelled.

When the sun set over the crest of the Shawangunk Mountains Thursday evening, the last faculty picnic for the present senior class was terminated. Miss Maud S. Richards of the college faculty directed the affair while Howard Hoffman and his college band supplied the music. The entire faculty assisted in making the picnic a success and to carry on this tradition with its fond memories that all New Paltz alumni students, and faculty so reverently possess. This picnic was held on a section of land that overlooks the Wallkill valley and mountains.

Says Four Shots Fired

Belmont, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Testimony that Luigi Vicchiano, 64-year-old Birmingham, Ala., grocer fired four shots at Constable Norman Chalker, the man he is accused of slaying 32 years ago, was in the record today as Vicchiano's first degree murder trial proceeded in Allegany county Supreme Court. The evidence was offered yesterday by the defendant's brother-in-law, Fred DeCapua, 62, of Buffalo, who denied on cross-examination he had revealed to New York state police that Vicchiano was living in Birmingham under the name of Louis Bakane prior to his arrest last June.

Argentina has established control over non-American firms.

Nelson Urges All to Assist In Scrap Drive

Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, stresses the urgency of the salvage campaign in a communication to The Freeman, which in part reads as follows:

If we are to maintain and increase production of the planes, tanks, and ships needed by our fighting men and fighting Allies, we must get in every pound of scrap in this country—from the homes, from the farms, and from industry.

A successful fall campaign conducted by the American newspapers, in cooperation with state and local salvage committees, will avert a serious decline in steel production and will add to our stores of other scarce materials.

As chairman of the War Production Board, I call upon every citizen of the United States to make this campaign a success, by gathering and turning in all the scrap metals, rubber, and rags that can possibly be spared.

Let towering victory stockpiles in every community in the nation stand as symbols of America's defiance to the Axis.

Promoted

Quarrel Between Hitler, Von Bock May Be Decisive One of War

There Is No Point In Getting Sore at Junkman, U.S. Says

This Man's Job Is So Vital He Is Given Award of Merit When He Meets Needs

By HUDSON PHILLIPS

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Wait a minute before you get sore at the junkman for not coming around for your 25 pounds of scrap or not giving you the price you thought it was worth.

Maybe the sight of scrap piled high in his yard discouraged you from realizing fully that there was a real and serious shortage.

Maybe the junkman would have good answers to your wondering. If you don't know the answers or don't understand them and therefore stop collecting scrap, the war job suffers.

Because the junkman is doing important work in the war, the government is taking the trouble to set public thinking straight about the role he's playing.

More than ever he'll be valuable in the next three weeks as American Newspapers spearhead scrap collection for the mills which are producing 5 million tons less steel than they should because of scrap lack.

More than 1,400 newspapers are in the drive which officially runs from September 28 to October 17, but in some states already is under way.

The War Production Board warned this week that unless there is an "exceptional job" of iron and steel scrap collection this fall the country's blast furnices would have to cut down steel output this winter.

You may dump your scrap—anything from old lawnmowers to iron pots—in the town square's collection bin, but eventually it will move to the mills through the junkman who buys it.

On Subject of Prices

On the subject of jungman's prices, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel says: "Figuring his various expenses, the junkman can't afford to pay more than $9 a ton for the best scrap."

The price the mills pay him varies from $13 to $20 a ton, depending on the location. It costs him from 55 cents to $5 a ton to move it to the mills. It costs him from $3.50 to $4.50 a ton to prepare it before it moves.

The W. P. B. considers the junkman's job so important that now it gives him an award of merit—similar to the Army-Navy award for outstanding jobs by industrial plants—when he fills certain requirements which include:

Delivering to the mills tonnage of scrap 33½ per cent greater than his monthly average in the first six months of 1942.

This is the answer Donald Nelson, W. P. B. chief, gives to critics of the junkman:

Only the junkman has the experience and equipment to do the right job of sorting, grading, preparing, packing and accumulating scrap in lots large enough to be shipped efficiently to the mills.

Because the government has put a limit on the price he can charge the mills for the scrap, he can't hope for a better deal by holding back his stock.

There is always a certain amount of scrap piled up in a well-run junk yard. An empty yard produces no scrap. If a junkman tries to hoard scrap, the government will requisition it because federal inspectors tour the yards.

When a junkman visits your house to pick up scrap, he has to figure on its condition and the cost of transporting it.

The job of sorting scrap for the mills is complicated because there are about 75 grades. The junkman has to sort the steel from the cast iron and remove other metals that would spoil steel if dumped unknowingly into a furnace.

He must fill government requirements in breaking up the scrap: Cast iron must be broken into 150-pound chunks; steel for the open hearth furnaces must be not more than 5 feet long, 18 inches wide.

The junkman does the sorting and breaking up job with shears, cutting torches, hydraulic presses, magnets.

Even though your old steel [illegible] is valuable and needed as scrap it is still not as valuable as some of the top grades such as structural steel, automobile frames, axles and bodies, steel [illegible] sheet iron or cast iron machinery. They go through the junkyard, too.

Why Few Die at Eye

Why so few die at Eye, England, which calls itself Britain's healthiest town, is being explained variously. It is England's smallest borough and has scores of octogenarians among its 1,700 inhabitants. The medical officer has now reported a quarter free from [illegible] death. A pure water supply, and abundance of milk and [illegible] food were given the credit by the doctor in his report. A white-haired farmworker, however, said: "The real reason is that no one in Eye ever worries and no one retires."

Germany is planning increased use of electrically-operated motor vehicles to conserve liquid fuels, the Department of Commerce reports.

Long Distance Proposal

When Miss Bettie Greenway, 20, of Philadelphia Pa., telephoned Corp. Rolin Bacher, stationed in Honolulu, to wish him a happy birthday, he said: "I was just about to call you—to ask you to marry me." She said yes—right beside a picture of the Cleveland soldier. They met at a USO dance in Philadelphia.

Small Manufacturers Might Get Some Necessary Answers

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Sept. 23—(Wide World)—The men setting up the new Smaller War Plants Corp. hope to provide the answers to a lot of the questions which have been plaguing small manufacturers.

But they concede they won't be able to solve them all nor to help every one of the small plants which are in distress because of their inability so far to get into war production.

We showed Orville S. McPherson, special assistant to Chairman Lou E. Holland of the corporation's board of directors, excerpts from some of the letters we've received from small manufacturers, and he described them as typical of the problems.

For instance, here are some of the things a Pennsylvania glassware manufacturer wrote:

"Did you ever hear of a small businessman who showed his wares over and over to a hundred or more government agencies and all he got for his efforts was 'why do you pick on this item?' and 'why not try something else?'—but no suggestions. x x x

"When we go to Pittsburgh to call on the various agencies, we are told it should be taken up with Washington. When we go to Washington, we are told we should come back to Pittsburgh. We go to Dayton and we are told buying is not done there. When we go to 20 other different places, we are referred to Pittsburgh or elsewhere.

"We solicit business on an item for the airfields that we know we can manufacture just as well or better than it is now being made and at a saving in cost to someone, and we are told that unless we can furnish the item complete with metal that the government cannot buy it from us.

"There are three or four large concerns making the metal parts who will not sell them to us, at least at a price that we could bid on a government contract and hope for any chance of securing it."

These Things Planned

In attempting to meet the problems indicated here, the smaller war plants corp., Mc Pherson said, plans to do these things:

Provide, through assistant regional directors in the various W. P. B. field offices, a place where a manufacturer can take up his problems and get advice.

Through taking prime contracts from government buying agencies and letting subcontracts to small plants to fill the orders, provide a central place from which contracts for small concerns will be forthcoming.

As to materials—and apparently nobody can answer this problem for the small concern at this moment—Mc Pherson said the corporation hopes to get direct allocations for materials along with contracts—"We can't expect a little man to fight a priorities battle."

In another letter, a specialty manufacturer in Virginia pointed out that "the smaller businesses are up against a proposition due to the fact they do not have engineers, nor do they have specialists to go to Washington, or go and get the work for them to do."

Here, again, the Smaller War Plants Corp. offers a possible solution.

Chairman Holland has announced that government buying agencies have promised "genuine cooperation" in the effort to give small concerns a chance to provide items they can manufacture. Congress gave the corporations power to take contracts for such items and parcel them out in sub-contracts to small plants.

Acts as Super-Salesman

In this way, the new agency will act as a sort of super-salesman for small business.

(Incidentally, the Senate naval affairs committee still is keeping pigeonholed the Vinson bill passed by the House which would ban brokers' fees on government contracts, to which small business men objected as banning what they called legitimate fees for getting contracts.)

On the question of engineering, Holland has stated the policy of having practical engineers in each regional and field office to give small concerns engineering service.

From all sides come reports of plants forced to curtail operations or closing.

The problem is admittedly a tremendous one, and small businessmen who have been unable to make headway under previous governmental plans are anxious to see what the new agency can accomplish for them.

There are people in Washington who tell you that Holland's job is the toughest in town (and that takes in a lot of territory!)

Holland himself has said "no one will question that I was given a difficult assignment." And no one has.

McAndrew to Be Honored By Group of 'Spotters'

A group of 168 men and women "spotters" and 75 reserve "spotters" all in the service of Kingston's observation post will gather to honor their associate chief observer, Raymond A. McAndrew, tomorrow night in the Crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. McAndrew, who is leaving for the army, has been most active in the creation and development of Kingston's observation post and devoted all of his spare time as a volunteer in its service. A vacation granted him recently by the concern he has been associated with has been spent entirely in work envolving the betterment of the post.

The time set for the "spotters" to greet Mr. McAndrew will be from 7 to 9 o'clock at night and "spotters" will be admitted only on presentation of their identification cards.

Chief Observer S. N. Mann and Associate Observer Mrs. George D. Logan as well as the entire directorship of Ulster's Aircraft Warning Service will be on hand to pay their respects and offer Mr. McAndrew the greetings from over 1,500 "spotters" manning the 18 observation posts in Ulster county.

Safety Pin Aids Airmen

It was a safety pin that came to the rescue of three members of the Royal Australian Air Force when food ran low while they were lost in the wilds. A voyage down a crocodile infested river on a raft made of gasoline tanks was among the adventures of the airmen, whose ambulance plane was forced down while they were on the way to pick up a patient. Crocodiles frequently nosed round their raft. When their rations were about exhausted the airmen caught fish with a safety pin tied to a parachute, they told Sydney interviewers.

Bennett to Begin His State Campaign In G.O.P. Bailiwick

Gubernatorial Candidate to Begin Speeches October 13; Dewey Begins Week Earlier

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Democrat John J. Bennett, Jr., opens his campaign for governor October 13 at a normally Republican western New York city—Jamestown, fitting his party's political pattern of the last few weeks in consistently claiming loss of G.O.P. upstate strength.

The attorney general's first major speech at a Jamestown rally, Democratic campaign headquarters at New York city announced last night, will inaugurate a 10-day upstate tour. It will be followed by appearances in New York city where State Republican Chairman Edwin F. Jaeckle has predicted a Democratic defection.

Jaeckle spoke Tuesday of Democratic "troubles in New York city" as reason for their intensive claims of increased upstate strength.

Jamestown gave the G.O.P. candidate for governor, Thomas E. Dewey, a 2,800 pluralty in 1938 when Democratic Governor Lehman was re-elected.

Democratic State Chairman James A. Farley has predicted Dewey's upstate margin November 3 will be reduced from the 617,000 of 1938—when he lost to Lehman by 64,000—to less than 250,000 against Bennett. Jaeckle sees Dewey's upstate margin "as much or more" than four years ago.

Democratic county chairmen have reported regularly to state headquarters that Dewey will lose some counties (Franklin and Rensselaer) he carried in 1938 and suffer substantial plurality reductions in others (Rockland, Suffolk, Monroe, Onondaga, Schenectady, Seneca, Westchester and Orange).

Democratic Campaign Manager Vincent Dailey's estimate last night was that in the 10 canvassed counties Dewey will run about 118,000 votes under his 1938 total.

This indicates, Dailey said, that Farley's prediction of a Dewey upstate margin of less than 250,000 "will be found conservative on Election Day."

Thomas J. V. Cullen, Orange county Democratic chairman, said Dewey's 1938 county plurality of 15,521 votes would be pared by more than 8,000.

There was no Democratic statement on Jaeckle's predicted Bennett defection in New York, where Tammany Hall and National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx has pledged full support to Bennett. They opposed him at the nominating convention in favor of U. S. Senator James M. Mead.

Dewey's campaign will open Monday, October 5, in the first of his statewide radio broadcasts to be delivered every Monday until Election Day. Republican women's organizations have designated October 5 "Dewey Day."

Jaeckle, after conferring with third and fourth judicial district county leaders at Albany yesterday, holds another regional conference today at Syracuse, followed by similar strategy discussions Friday at Rochester, Saturday at Buffalo and Monday at New York city.

Dean Alfange, the American Labor Party nominee on an upstate swing leading to his second major campaign talk Monday at Utica, said last night at Gloversville:

"The President of the United States has specified that the next governor of New York should be a liberal who supported the foreign and domestic policies of his administration before Pearl Harbor.

"I am the only candidate for governor who meets that test," he said, adding:

"Bennett and Dewey . . . do not understand that, if the world of the future is to hold promise and hope for the plain, inconspicuous people, it must be built upon the strong social foundations of the New Deal."

One Person in Thousand Is Free of Malnutrition

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Wide World Science Editor)

State College, Pa., Sept. 24—Only one person in a thousand escapes malnutrition—that is the conclusion of a survey published today by the Ellen H. Richards Institute at the Pennsylvania State College.

The survey took six years, and is one of the most thorough ever made. It included both adults and children. The report is made in the college's chemistry leaflet, by Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of the institute, and her associates.

The study covered 2,511 Pennsylvanians. Just two rated high in all tests. The others were deficient, the poor worse off than the rich, but both classes below the best rating.

Only eight were free of tooth decay, a trouble generally ascribed partly to deficient diets. The majority were deficient not just in one nutrition test, but in several. In fact the survey indicates that if one diet deficiency exists, other essentials are likely to be low.

There were many long-time lacks of adequate vitamins, proteins and minerals. The weight of 17 per cent was under par. Sixty per cent of growing children were more than six months retarded in skeletal growth. The bones of a large majority, both adult and children, were not satisfactorily mineralized.

The bone defects are linked with deficiencies in proteins, calcium, phosphorus, vitamin D and other vitamins and minerals.

More than half were below the desirable standard in hemoglobin, or red blood content. This is evidence of under par protein and iron intake. Many were low in vitamin A ratings.

"These findings," said the report, "are considered significant in suggesting conditions which may be expected to prevail in other states, many of them less prosperous than Pennsylvania."

In one city where depression had been acute, one child out of every three examined gave evidence of having had rickets, the under-nutrition bone trouble. Twenty-five per cent had gingivitis, inflammation of the gums which is a forerunner of scurvey and due to lack of vitamin C. More than half had iron and protein deficiencies, which resulted in anemia.

Only 7.1 per cent of these children had good vitamin A ratings.

In all communities, regardless of economic status, the average diets of children were far below the daily intake levels recommended by the National Research Council for protein, vitamins and minerals. The adult diets were no better than the childrens'.

Most of the people in the study were not aware of any actual illness due to food deficiencies.

"The borderline deficiencies," said the report, "are nevertheless serious because prolonged deficiencies, small though they may be, build up into major disorders in later years. As science applies new and more refined methods for detecting the obscure signs of deficiencies, it becomes apparent that undernutrition in some degree is almost universal."

Prices of Antiques Up

Prices of antiques are up as much as 100 per cent in London. Many persons consider antiques a sound investment. Dealers and auctioneers report that the public is rushing to buy old furniture, rugs, porcelain, Jewelry, books and manuscripts. Philip Robinson, a dealer in rare books, states that the government encourages American business because of the money it brings to the Treasury. Among the luckiest are those who have Victorian furniture to sell. They get prices that in pre-war days would have been considered fantastic.

Parachute Inspectors

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—A vital activity of the country's wartime aviation goes on unobtrusively here as classes of men and women learn to inspect, repair and pack parachutes. They are civilians who are paid $75 a month during a four-week training course and then given regular jobs. The importance of each individual act in their work is accented by slogans such as this: "A mistake in a parachute is murder."

Sleek, but Rugged Douglas A-20, Wins Highest Praise Of Pilots; It Is Swift, Well-Armored, Hard Hitting

By WILLIAM F. BONI
(Wide World Military Editor)

Los Angeles, Sept. 23—The blond young lieutenant-colonel, whose wisp of a mustache actually didn't add to the severity of his appearance, spoke in a tone of ill-used patience.

"The next man who comes in to this field with branches on his wings," he told the pilots gathered about him, "is going to have hell to pay with me."

The young lieutenant-colonel commands a light bombardment group at a California desert base, in a region where there are no tree branches more than 10 feet above the ground. But since his men are flying Douglas A-20 light bombers, the same warning might be issued in England, Egypt or Australia.

The A-20 is that kind of plane.

It is, in fact, the pilot's pet—fast, hard-hitting, wellarmored, and a joy to handle. That holds true whether the plane is being flown by Americans or by British pilots, for, like the bombing Boston by day and the night-fighting havoc after dark, this plane has become one of the best and most frequently-used weapons of the RAF.

Story Is Proof Enough

What's more, for all its sleek appearance, it is one of the most rugged aircraft yet produced. Best proof of that came last July 4 when, in the first AAF attack on Nazi-held Europe, one of a squadron of six came back with this story to tell:

On the return flight from a raid on Holland, the A-20 was flying extremely low. An anti-aircraft battery knocked out one of its motors. The plane dipped and knocked a foot and a half off one wing tip. Before the pilot could get her squared away, she hit the ground a tremendous whack that ripped off several feet of her fuselage.

Finally level but still limping, the pilot saw a Nazi anti-aircraft tower dead ahead. He lacked the speed to pull away, so he flew right for it. The tower was blasted to blazes, while at the same time the bombardier and the gunner riddled two Nazi machinegun nests with their machineguns. Still on that one motor, the Douglas continued on across the channel and returned to an English base.

Like the Lockhead Hudson, which the British call "Old Boomerang" because it always comes back, there have been no complaints about the A-20 since it went into service. The British have asked for certain modifications between the ones they receive and those which go to the AAF—but fundamentally it is the same plane.

It also is a plane about which you will hear a good deal once our land-fighting army goes into action in force. It is one of the chief striking arms which will be used by the ground-air support command, the air force sub-division whose task it is to work hand-in-glove with the ground troops.

For this type of work the A-20 is suited almost ideally. It packs a heavy enough bomb load to make it effective against fixed defenses or armored concentrations which are holding up an advance. It carries the type of armament that will make it a strafing threat more potent than any the Germans used in France; it is so maneuverable that it is a perfect plane for hedge-hopping, and above all it has so much speed that it is a tough target either for enemy fighters or ground defenses.

U.S. Forces Abroad Will Vote for Men On Congress Ballot

Walsh Says Ramsey Vote Bill Gives No Right to Send Material for State Ballot

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—New York servicemen overseas will receive absentee ballots for congressional elections but, it seemed likely today, will not be able to vote for state candidates.

Secretary of State Michael F. Walsh, after conferring with the State War Ballot Commission yesterday, told reporters nothing in the Ramsey federal soldier-vote law providing for absentee congressional ballots permits him to include state ballots in foreign shipments.

The War and Navy departments previously refused to transport 150,000 state ballots and other voting material overseas.

The State War Ballot Commission, created by the 1942 Legislature, already has completed arrangements for state voting by New York servicemen in continental United States. The federal law provides for congressional voting only by domestic-and foreign-stationed servicemen.

The War Ballot Commission met with Walsh in an effort to "harmonize" their respective administrative duties under the federal and state absentee voting machinery.

Walsh told them the Ramsey Act would be operated through the State Election Bureau and because he alone is responsible the "administration cannot be delegates to the War Ballot Commission as has been suggested." He added he would be "pleased to work and cooperate" with the commission.

The commission sent 400,000 state absentee applications to domestic-stationed servicemen but has not announced how many were returned. It waived application requirements for overseas voters. The federal law requires both home and foreign duty servicemen to apply—on government supplied postcards—for congressional ballots.

The federal ballots, Walsh said, will be supplied to all servicemen who apply by card through the secretary of their home state, to whom the marked ballot must be returned for relay to local boards of election for canvass.

ACCORD

Accord, Sept. 23—Mr. and Mrs. Golden Lyons are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter born to them at the Kingston Hospital on Friday, September 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Cohen and daughter, Ruth, spent the week-end in New York.

The 4-S will hold a food sale in the old post office building on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The proceeds of this sale will be used to finance a service flag for the members in service.

Word has been received that Private Stephen Meyer, who was recently inducted into the United States Army, is in the hospital at his post in Miami, Fla.

Sgt. Pierce Palmer, who has recently been on desert maneuvers, has been transferred to Camp Beale, Cal.

Taxes for School District No. 2 are payable at one per cent at Block's store for 30 days following September 22. Five per cent will be added after October 22.

A U. S. O. card party will be held in the Accord Roller Rink Thursday evening, September 24, at 8 o'clock.

Finland now has 2,500 tractors equipped with gas generators.

Cold Battle Logic Versus Intuition May Be Crux of War

(Wide World War Analyst)

That quarrel between Herr Hitler and the commander-in-chief of his now-or-never offensive against the Caucasus, Field Marshal Fedor von Bock, may prove literally to be the decisive battle of the war.

The basic startegy of the vital Caucasian campaign is said to be involved in this historic argument, which is reported to have resulted in von Bock being relieved of his command. The point at issue is described as this:

Von Bock, who ranks as one of the outstanding generals of our time, wanted to concentrate on the Caucasus and not attack Stalingrad at the same time. He maintained that great industrial city on the Volga would be too costly in casualties. Not that the cold-blooded von Bock ever gave a damn about the lives of his men for their own sakes, but because he badly needed this fresh young man-power for his main show.

It seems that the Nazi all highest, who boasts that he works by intuition, insisted on the siege of Stalingrad. Von Bock bowed his stiff Prussian neck to the yoke, but apparently sulked in his tent as his drive was held up by the grand Red defense, and Nazi casualties strewed the approaches to the city like autumn leaves.

Now for purposes of careful analysis we must make allowance for the possibility that the report of a Hitler-von Bock feud isn't true. But even if the story is apocryphal, we can get ahead with our study, because the fact still remains that the siege of Stalingrad has thrown the calculations of the entire Nazi campaign out of kilter. Obviously this was undertaken at Hitler's order, since he is the master gangster and makes all important decisions. At the same time it's easy to believe that a soldier of von Bock's caliber would oppose such a risky experiment.

Intuition Fails Hitler

Looking at the position today, as the Russians still continue to throw back the invaders from Premier Stalin's proud namesake-city, I'm afraid we have to say that the infallible Hitler's intuition has failed him at the crucial moment. We must give von Bock a rest. At the same time, I believe we must recognize that the two men approached the problem from different viewpoints—Hitler from that of political strategy and his captain solely from the military angle.

It's not difficult to see the workings of the two minds. Von Bock, every inch the expert soldier from the soles of his polished boots to the crown of his Prussian bullet-head, saw only that the outcome of the war likely depended on Germany's ability to break into the oil-bearing Caucasus and the strategic middle east this year, and in the process annihilate Red Marshal Timoshenko's armies of the south. If that could be accomplished Germany would have a victory-grip which would be hard to break. Stalingrad was a side-issue to von Bock.

One cannot doubt that Hitler also saw it was imperative to conquer the Caucasus and the middle east, for his other operations indicate this. Probably at the outset of the great drive he was in complete agreement with von Bock. However, as time went on and the Russian resistance became menacing, Hitler developed a new scheme to secure help.

He saw the political value of the capture of the city which is the apple of the Communist leader's eye. Stalingrad stands as a symbol of Russian strength, and the Nazi chief wanted to crack it for the moral effect at home and abroad.

Most of all he wanted to influence Japan to attack Russia from the rear. The capture of Stalingrad might turn the trick. So one of the greatest gamblers of all time took another chance. He bet the gods of war that he could take Stalingrad without missing stride on the march into the Caucasus and middle east.

But not even Hitler can guess right all the time. We need to see the outcome of the next month of fighting, but the indications now are that military history will say he threw away his chances of winning the war when he forced von Bock to embark on what probably has been the costliest siege ever undertaken.

Movie Finds Fiancee

Ivan Tishkevich, who had been fighting for five months as a guerrilla on the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, found his missing fiancee by means of a moving picture. He obtained permission to visit the city to search for dark-eyed Katinka Baidukov, a singing waitress. Ivan was disheartened after a long and futile search and went to a movie for relaxation. In a Soviet war news reel he saw Katinka at work on a drilling machine in a munition factory. Through the medium of the film producer he made contact with Katinka and now she is Mrs. Tish-

GARDINER

Gardiner, Sept. 24—The work of remodeling the local Borden's plant is nearing completion. The building is now a practically new one. The outside after some changes, including many new windows, has been covered with asbestos shingles, also a new roof. The addition added for the parking of the milk truck is made of concrete blocks. Here the truck is loaded with milk to be taken to New York.

On the inside, it has been redecorated with wallboard and concrete floors. It is equipped with modern labor-saving machinery.

The office has been changed, redecorated and refurnished. The carpenter work has been directed by Albert Ellis of Sydney, and the plumbing by Mr. Seabolt of Unionville. The electrical work by Frank Tarp of New Paltz and the painting by Mr. Freer of Gardiner. Local help employed included Charles Wells, Lewis Jayne, Sr., John McElhenny, Lansing Hoffman and Emil Ellison, Jr. Asa Barton is superintendent of the plant with Arthur Wood his assistant.

Miss Marion DuBois, teacher at Summers spent the week-end at her home here.

Miss Josena Hoffman left Sunday for Syracuse where she will resume her studies at the college of Fine Arts at Syracuse University.

The Misses Nellie and Belle Edwards and Mrs. Donald Craver of Montour Falls spent the week-end with Mrs. Gussie Miller.

Jack O'Neil of Brockton, Mass., and Mrs. Jennie Morehead of Marlborough were callers at the home of Mrs. George Everts, Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Coon of Poughkeepsie spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Anderson.

Daniel O'Neil, Sr., of Newburgh was a Sunday guest of Mrs. Anna O'Neil and family.

An inspiring service was held at the Reformed Church on last Sunday. Dr. Shea preached a fine sermon on "Seeking the Lost." Edwin Hulse of Montgomery was soloist and impressively sang during the offertory; "The Stranger of Galilee," and at the close of the service, "Alone." Dr. Shea will again be in charge next Sunday morning and Mr. Hulse has promised to come again some time soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schoonmaker of New Paltz were Monday evening guests of her sister, Mrs. Stella Woolsey.

Mrs. George Everts and her daughter, Mrs. Lawson Upright were in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Mrs. George Halwick of Marlborough spent part of the last week with her sister, Mrs. Lorella Klyne. On Saturday, Mrs. Halwick and Mrs. Klyne were supper guests of Mrs. Gussie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hansen of Sheepshead Bay spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Mary Smith.

Miss Loretta Nilon of New York was a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Moran, Monday.

Miss Muriel Ward of New York spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Esther Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. John Metzler and son, Edward and Mrs. Culhane and daughter, Patty, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tieken of Woodstock. Mrs. Tieken is ill at her home there.

William Denton of Kingston was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Denton.

Joseph Castellana of Springtown was a guest of Frank Jayne, Friday.

Miss Jane Otis was employed at Lake Minnewaska for the week-end.

Francis Stern Montagny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stern-Montagny, left Sunday for Cornell University, where he will be a freshman.

Miss Dorothy George of Poughkeepsie spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James George.

Alaskan Highway Will Be Ready Dec. 1

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Alaska highway will be ready for use about December 1, Secretary Stimson announced today, and traffic is expected to move steadily over its 1,600 miles until spring thaws make it impassable in April and May.

Not only is the highway being completed months ahead of schedule, Stimson said, but instead of the contemplated rough "pioneer" road, the "Alcan Highway, as it is now being constructed by the corps of engineers is a well-drained truck road for practically its entire length and will afford two-way traffic over many long stretches."

Sheriff Receives Notice On New Speed Regulation

Sheriff Howard C. Anderson received notice today from Governor Herbert Lehman directing that the law enforcement officials in his jurisdiction immediately enforce the new 35 mile an hour speed limit which has been suggested by the New York State War Council following a report of a federal committee appointed to investigate the rubber situation.

It has been recommended that all motor vehicles reduce their speed from the 40 mile limit prescribed by the New York State Legislature to a 35 mile an hour rate in order to conserve gas and tires.

The telegram from Governor Lehman reads:

"State War Council has adopted an order making it unlawful for motor vehicles to travel at a speed of more than 35 miles per hour for a distance of ¼ of a mile. Please see to it that this order is enforced by the law enforcement officers in your jurisdiction. Herbert H. Lehman."

Has Furlough

dren, or vegetarians in the home—none of whom would normally consume 2½ pounds of meat a week—the housewife should reduce her purchases accordingly, Wickard declared.

In actual operation, he predicted, the over-all 21 per cent statistical cut in civilian meat supplies probably would not be as great since adjustments will be made when necessary to allow for chances in distribution patterns and wartime food requirements.

As evidence of the increasing Army, Navy and lend-lease needs, Wickard said estimated requirements have climbed 500,000,000 pounds since the 6,000,000,000-pound forecast made by the committee three weeks ago.

The total demand for meat is 27,500,000,000 pounds, against a supply of 24,000,000,000, he added.

"Under the wartime meat program, civilians will have a supply that would usually be regarded as normal," he explained. "But now, the demand is abnormal because of high buying power, coupled with a decreasing supply of most things to buy. The result is a very high demand for meat.

"If each of us with middle or high incomes tries to get all the meat he wants, some of us who are in war work or for other reasons can't get to the meat counters early in the day will have to go without. That is not fair."

BIRDS INVITED TO AID

Esthonia is going back to the birds in its effort to protect its fruit trees, it is reported in Berne, Switzerland. The trees were badly damaged by the intense cold of last winter and many were destroyed. Bird-houses are being erected or reconditioned to attract birds which are needed to help fight insect pests.

Yanks Also Top Cards in Respective Outfields for Series

Slaughter Is Only Redbird With Edge On Stadium Player

DiMaggio and Keller Hold Offensive Margin Over Musial and T. Moore; Speed About Same

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—The presence of Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller, two of the most dangerous clutch hitters in baseball, in the Yankee outfield is sufficient to guarantee the American League champions an important edge over their prospective World Series rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, in the gardening department.

Only in right field, where Enos (Country) Slaughter with his .316 batting average and 13 homeruns stacks up against Roy Cullenbine, Yankee replacement for the departed Tommy Henrich, can the Cardinals be figured to hold an advantage over the '41 world champions.

Cullenbine Shines

And even these the statistics might not offer a thorough comparison. Cullenbine, a moody fellow, has been regarded for several years as potentially one of the best outfielders in the game. The main rap against him as he drifted from one club to another in both leagues was that he seldom bore down.

He looks and acts like a brand-new ball player since he joined the Yankees. He has become acquainted with his teammates and has been pounding the ball at a more valuable rate than his most recent official average of .274 would indicate. Players have a habit of doing that when they join the Yanks, and the Cards will be well advised not to regard Cullenbine as a soft spot in their rivals' armor.

In center field the great DiMaggio, who has made a notable comeback after an amazingly poor start this season, will be paired against Terry Moore, captain of the Cardinals and one of the game's outstanding defensive outfielders. Joe, with even his deflated sticking average of .307 and his comparatively poor record of 20 homers for the year, far overshadows the valiant Card leader as a hitter.

Comparison of the two left fielders offers a more ticklish problem if one is influenced by the figures. They show, for a fact, that Stan Musial, the Cardinals' wonderful rookie, is hitting a lusty .310 as against Keller's .292, and that his fielding average is better than "King Kong's," too. But the writer has a suspicion that if 10 pitchers were picked at random and asked which player they would rather face with two out and the winning run on second, that the answer would be an almost unanimous "don't be silly!"

Keller, like DiMaggio, has not had a particularly good year. Yet both of them have knocked in well over 100 runs—a feat not approached either by Musial or Moore. Keller has blasted 26 homeruns to Musial's 10. Musial and Moore, while fitting perfectly into the Cardinals' hair-raising style of play, simply are not the power punchers that the two big Yankees are.

One of the best samples of the havoc DiMaggio and Keller can create in a given situation was supplied in the famous fourth game of the '41 series—the one where Mickey Owen dropped what should have been the game-ending strike and four Yankee runs poured across to beat the Dodgers, 7 to 4.

Better Card Reserves

Everyone remembers that Owen muffed the ball and that Tommy Henrich reached first. But that still would have been forgotten quickly if DiMaggio, next up, had not slashed a single and Keller had not driven them both in with a terrific double off the right field wall. That's an illustration why DiMaggio and Keller will have to be rated above any combination they might face.

In the matter of speed afoot the Cardinal trio might hold a slight advantage, but not enough to matter. Both Keller and DiMaggio are much faster than is generally realized.

The Cards, with young Harry Walker and Coaker Triplett to call on, probably would be less weakened by injury to one of their regular gardeners than the Yankees would. Walker, in particular, has looked good as replacement for Moore in recent games. The Yanks haven't much to fall back on in the veteran George Selkirk and Tuck Stainback.

Shreveport Wins Title

Shreveport, La., Sept. 24 (AP)—Shreveport baseball fans waited 23 years. But they finally have another Texas League pennant. Gordon Maltzberger took the mound last night and pitched a two-hitter for Shreveport as Beaumont, leader throughout the regular season, was being put down, 4-0. It was the seventh and deciding game in their playoff series. Shreveport's last title came in 1919 when Fort Worth was defeated in the playoffs.

Musial Paces Cardinals To 4 to 2 Win Over Reds

Beazley Captures 20th Win; Walters Loses; Club Needs Two to Clinch Flag

(By The Associated Press)

In 65 years the National League, the oldest organization in the the world, has had one season in which winning 100 games was not sufficient to win the pennant—until this year.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won their 100th game yesterday and it didn't move them even one wisp closer to the championship. That's why the St. Louis Cardinals, with 103 already in the bag, are making preparations to face the New York Yankees in the world series opening next Wednesday.

The Dodgers reached the 100 victory mark last year on the last day of the season. It was the occasion for a lot of whoop-la because the Dodgers, in all their years in the senior circuit, never had won that many games before. But winning a hundred this year didn't mean a thing.

French in One-Hitter

Brooklyn bagged No. 100 yesterday as old lefty Larry French marked up one of the finest pitching performances of all times. He pitched a one-hitter, and a single by Nick Van Etten that got past Shortstop Peewee Reese not only kept the veteran southpaw from a no-hitter but also from a perfect game. The laughing boy never walked a man, never let anyone get to first base except Etten, who was erased in a double play, and altogether pitched to the minimum of 27 batters.

The remarkable outing brought the Dodgers a 6-0 triumph over the Phils, but it didn't save them from imminent elimination in the furious National League pennant fight because the Cardinals also triumphed in a night game against Cincinnati, 4-2.

This made it possible for the Cardinals to clinch the pennant today if they win again from the Reds and the Dodgers lost to the Boston Braves.

The Cardinals came from behind last night to down the Reds, who scored both their runs in the first inning on a walk, an error, a wild pitch and a single. After the first frame Cincinnati made only one hit—a total of two for the game—off rookie Johnny Beazley as he attained his 20th triumph of the season.

St. Louis smacked Bucky Walters for nine safeties, three of them by Stan Musial, and won handily with three runs in the third and another in the seventh.

This reduced the Cardinals' combination to any two St. Louis victories, or Dodger defeats, or one of each, to take the World Series to the banks of the Mississippi for the first time since 1934. Even though the Dodgers remained 2½ games behind the lead by winning yesterday, they can do no better than tie if St. Louis wins one of its remaining three games.

Bonham Wins 21st

While the National League squabble was continuing unabated the New York Yankees, secure with their sixth American League championship in seven years, trimmed the Washington Senators, 4-1, on the five-hit hurling of big Ernie Bonham.

The ace of the champions' staff had a no-hitter for five innings and after the spell was broken coasted to his 21st triumph against five setbacks this season.

His teammates were held to seven safeties, but they scored three times in the fourth with the help of three walks.

This closed the Yanks' home season and left them with only one game, at Boston Sunday, to play before they enter the World Series next Wednesday.

No other games were scheduled in the major leagues yesterday.

Hurls One-Hitter

LARRY FRENCH

Laughing Larry French, one of the pitching veterans of the Brooklyn Dodger mound staff, came close to hurling a perfect ball game at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon when he allowed the hapless Philadelphia Phils one lone single. Nick Etten, first baseman of the Phils, slapped out a feeble base hit in the second inning but was quickly rubbed out on a double-play from Pee Wee Reese to Dolph Camilli.

MacPhail Resigns Post as Brooklyn Dodger President

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Help wanted: One experienced baseball executive with colorful personality capable of taking charge front-running baseball club and keeping it there. Salary up to $75,000. Address Board of Directors Brooklyn Baseball Club.

This advertisement properly should appear in the classified columns of this newspaper, but it missed the deadline because Leland Stanford (Larry) MacPhail, after all the weeks of rumors about his joining the army, did not formally resign until last night.

The task of severing his connection with the Dodgers was attended to at a special meeting of the Dodgers' directors, who accepted with regret and said no successor had been decided upon.

Afterward MacPhail disclosed that he expected to be commissioned in the field artillery Sunday, the day the major league season closes, although the fact that his beloved Bums are close to being squeezed out of the National League pennant had no bearing on his action.

MacPhail, who was a captain in the first World War and took part in the effort of a handful of the A.E.F. to kidnap the Kaiser after the armistice, has been striving to return to uniform ever since the United States became involved in this war.

It was with tears in his eyes last night that he said his farewell.

"I'm not figuring on coming back to baseball," he said. "I've resigned my connection with the Dodgers and from now on it's up to somebody else. The directors haven't decided on a successor. They're going to interview applicants. They may make some changes in the organization. I don't know. From now on I'm out."

MacPhail was interrupted by an inquiry as to whether he thought a change was needed in the Dodgers' lineup—whether he would make one if he were staying—and he replied emphatically:

"Yes! You bet your life some changes are needed."

Ingalls Captures GolfChampionship At Wiltwyck Club

In a race to the finish, Wilson Ingalls captured the intermediate championship in the annual golf club tournament at the Wiltwyck course Wednesday with a one-up triumph over Steve Breitfeller in an 18-hole play-off. Both golfers posted scores of 90, but Ingalls finally came through with the close victory.

Breitfeller was two up at the turn and the two halved the next four holes. Ingalls opened his rally by taking the 14th hole. Meanwhile, Breitfeller's game temporarily fell down on the 15th which Ingalls won. The new champ went on to take the lead with a 16th hole win for the margin of victory. They halved the last two holes.

In the initial nine holes in the opener, they halved. Ingalls took the second while Breitfeller came on with the third and fourth while Ingalls came back to take the fifth. After the sixth and seventh holes were halved to square the match, Breitfeller went two up by copping the eighth and ninth. His lead was retained until Ingalls' irons turned the tide midway down the stretch.

Final Game Tonight

Oneonta, N. Y. Sept. 24 (AP)—The champion Amsterdam Rugmakers and fourth-place Oneonta Indians, who won both the pennant and playoffs last season, collide tonight in the seventh and deciding game of their class C Canadian-American League final playoff series. The Indians, behind Tommy Fine's four-hit, 15-strikeout pitching, evened the series at three games last night, 4-1. Big Carl Derose, the champions' ace righthander, faced only 19 Indians in the first six innings and had a 1-0 lead going into the seventh when he blew up and yielded four runs. It was Derose's second failure in the final series.

Miss Dorothy Ashton Is Wed To Ensign Charlton Schoeffler

New Paltz, Sept. 24—Miss Dorothy Ina Ashton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ashton of New Paltz became the bride of Ensign Charlton George Schoeffler, U. S. N. R., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schoeffler of Albany, Saturday night, September 19. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, Albany. Mrs. Ralph Winslow, church organist, played, "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin made with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a short train. Her veil was arranged from a tiara of studded seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses and swansonia. Miss Evelyn Ashton of New Paltz attended her sister as maid of honor. She was gowned in blue taffeta with white accessories and a Juliet cap of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Ernest Schoeffler of Albany attended his brother as best man.

There was a reception after the ceremony at the blue room of Jack's Restaurant, Albany. Ensign and Mrs. Schoeffler left there for Boston, where they plan to stay two weeks. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue suit with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Schoeffler was graduated from New Paltz Central High School and the Krissler Commercial School in Poughkeepsie. Ensign Schoeffler was graduated from the New York State College for Teachers at Albany.

Worthy Matron Is Honored at Shower

On Friday evening, September 18, a surprise bridal shower was given in honor of Mrs. James Seymour, worthy matron of Kingston Chapter O. E. S. at the Masonic Temple by the officers. During the meeting a bridal degree was given with each officer presenting their congratulations and best wishes.

Sister Beatrice Stroble presented a bridal bouquet of white roses to the worthy matron from the chapter. The associate matron, Mina Monos, presented the matron bride with many pieces of Cambridge glassware from the officers and also brought greetings from the chapter friends and subjects. Sister Jessie Wolfersteig sang a solo, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Sister Pansy Hudler at the piano.

After the meeting the members, officers and friends adjourned to the dining room, where refreshments were served. The room was decorated with white streamers and wedding bells and a large wedding cake made by Sister Mary Reis was placed in the center of the table. The favors were little bridal couples. Sister Pansy Hudler played the wedding march as the worthy matron, accompanied by the worthy patron, Pearl H. Carey, entered the dining room.

Those taking part in the degree were right worthy sister, Gertrude Cater, and Sisters Mina Manos, Beatrice Spiegel, Edna Hardwick, Elizabeth Potter, Jean Hudler, Anna Hermance, Sadie Feldman, Dorothy Smith, Beatrice Stroble, Minnie Neebe, Mary Reis, Kitty Buddington, Elizabeth Rundle, Gertrude Ertel, Ora Schneider, Sophie Miller and Worthy Patron Pearl H. Carey.

Teachers' Association Will Meet For Dinner and Broadcast

The Kingston Teachers' Association will meet at the Kingston High School cafeteria September 28, for a meeting in cooperation with the National Educational Association. Dinner will be served at 5:45 o'clock after which the group will listen to a nation-wide broadcast of "Education in Wadtime."

Since in many states the teachers conferences are being omitted the National Education Association is using this method to contact the teachers in regard to problems arising in their profession during the war. There will also be a program arranged by the local group. Following the broadcast, three-minute speeches will be given by the superintendent, a principal, a member of the board of education and teachers. This will be followed by general discussion.

Arrangements are being made by Miss Ethel M. Hull, president of Kingston Teachers' Association, and the executive committee. Dinner plans are being made by Miss Margaret Schuetz and Mrs. Cure.

Library Group Meets At Stone Ridge

The annual meeting of the Stone Ridge Library Association was held Friday evening at the library. The following officers were elected: Ross K. Osterhoudt, president; Lester Roosa, vice president; Mrs. William Hasbrouck, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Ira Hoyt and Lester Roosa, representatives to Library Board.

Plans were discussed for the membership drive which will take place in about a week. Association members were reminded that the library is now opened Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. At the same time the charming and interesting museum over the library rooms is open to the public.

At the meeting acknowledgments of several gifts to the library were made. The library is especially indebted to Judge Van Vechten Veeder of Hurley for some excellent books on art and history and a picture of Governor Clinton by the artist Van Meer. Of special local interest is a book by the late Mrs. A. E. P. Searing entitled "The Land of Rip Van Winkle." Judge Veeder also gave the library copies of the church records of the Shawangunk Dutch Reformed Church and Mrs. Veeder has given copies of the records of the Old Dutch Reformed Church in Kingston. This was presented to the library in memory of Mrs. Veeder's mother, Mrs. Sarah Lounsberry DeWitt, who was born in 1837 in the building which is now the library.

It was also reported that the library had been given some books by the Cragsmoor Library and had been presented with others from the estate of the late Miss Maria Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

AVOIDING AWKWARD SITUATION ON FAST DAYS

It's curious how often one who goes to live in a new neighborhood gets the idea that new neighbors will be less understanding than those one has known at home. This is in answer to the following letter I received this morning:

"Since I am now living in a town where I am making new friends, many of whom are not of my religious faith, what shall I do when I am invited to dinner on a fast day. At home of course everyone either knew my beliefs, and if I went to the house and didn't eat what was offered to the others, the hostess did not feel hurt. Here where I am a stranger I need some help."

You really don't need any help. I am sure you will find your new friends just as understanding as were those at home. At no table is it necessary to take some of every dish passed you. Just say, "No thank you,"—and don't talk about it!

Family Servant at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) Would it be possible to have our maid, who has been with us for many years, come to church to see my wedding? (2) May she appear in church in her uniform? She is going to my sister's house immediately after the ceremony to assist in serving at the reception there.

Answer: (1) Certainly. (2) Certainly not. She should appear like any other guest in the prettiest dress and hat she has. If she is to serve at the reception she should change her dress at your sister's house.

Furnishing Down to the Details

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it not right to conform even in details to the fashion of a certain period in furnishing a room? I have early American dining-room furniture and there is a corner cupboard with glass doors. On each shelf I have a lace doily hanging down over the edge because I was told that was the way the shelves were done in those days. An aunt now tells me doilies used like that are no longer fashionable, but isn't the fashion right for my dining-room, and isn't that what really counts?

Answer: I can't remember ever having seen lace doilies draping the shelves of a cabinet! However, the only thing that counts in your house is that you shall like what you have in it. If you are doing your house perfectly in period, then you are right to follow it strictly—at the same time I must add that draped doilies may have been Victorian, but certainly not best examples of Georgian American.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to have ushers to seat fifty wedding guests in church?

Answer: No, but it is perfectly proper to have them if you want to. Also it is easier for the family to give a list to the ushers than to send word to even as few as 20 different persons.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men), that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Wards don't expect all women who wear Size 34, for instance, to be the same height! No—some are tall, some short, some average. Wards know, too, that the "short 34" girl isn't proportioned as the "tall 34." Her slips should have a higher waist and hips—and that's exactly what she'll get in a Ward 3-length Beautislip—for they're proportioned in bust, waist, and hips as well as in length. Beautifully made, too, with rip-proof seams; double fabric front and back yokes for long wear! In finest quality crepe back satin. Ask for a 3-length Beautislip!

Color Does It

BOWLING NEWS

Mercantiles to Meet

The following teams have entered the Y. M. C. A. Mercantile Bowling League for the coming season:

Pontiacs, Ballantines, Kingston Trust, Canfield No. 1, Canfield No. 2, Blue Moon Farms, F. B. Matthews, Treadwells, Sears Roebuck, "Y" Couples, Ertels, Wonderlys, Freeman No. 1, Freeman No. 2, Knitting Mills, Elstons, Clarifiers and the Electrols.

There is still room for a few more teams. Representatives of the above teams as well as any other teams who wish to enter the Mercantile League are requested to be present at a meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. It is requested that team rosters be handed in at this time to the secretary so that the schedule may be arranged. There are to be three divisions, bowling on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. It is expected that the league will start operations October 14.

The league is one of the largest in the city this year and officials plan for another successful season. The "Y" alleys have been placed in excellent condition for the coming season.

Nocando League Results

At Homer Emerick's Recreation alleys last night Jack Martin, anchor for the Standards, pushed his teammates into a two-way tie for first place when he grabbed the two high marks of the night with a 541 triple and a 203 single game as the Standards took three games from Scholls.

Martin began his bombardment in the first game with a 180 and followed up with 203 and then 158. Bill Mohr, leadoff for the team, spiked out 522 while J. Lowe posted a 502. Standards finished with a 2404 triple. H. Svirsky had 498 for the losers.

The Norton bowlers also made their way into first place by sweeping three games from Fredericks. Jim Norton paced his own club with a 503 three game series while Julius Rudolph had a high 194 single of the match. Rudolph had a 491 series. Lacey Burger posted 458 for the Fredericks.

Ken Van Etten unloaded his first good triple of the season last night of 537 which helped the Mack team to take all three from the Eichlers. As a result the Macks clamped on third place while the Eichlers dropped from first to last in the league standings. Van Etten posted scores of 174, 192 and 171. His 192 was high single of the match. Walt LaPine had a 506 series for the winners. M. Cole had 479 for the Eichlers.

In the only other match last night at Emericks, Barney Rosinski's team took two matches from Emericks. Homer Emerick shot a 505 triple for the losers and a high 180 single but these two high marks failed to bring the club up to the Rosinskis. A. Struble poured out a 479 series for the winners. His two 176 scores were high marks for the team.

The standings to date:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Nortons	5	1	.833
Standards	5	1	.833
Macks	4	2	.667
Rosinskis	3	3	.500
Fredericks	2	4	.333
Emericks	2	4	.333
Scholls	2	4	.333
Eichlers	1	5	.166

Emerick's Ladies' Jottings

. . . Rudy's Alpine bowlers took the spotlight in the Emerick's Ladies' League matches at Homer Emerick's Recreation alleys Tuesday night. As has been stated before, this is one of the strongest teams in the loop and it will pay the other clubs well to watch them as the season progresses. They rolled a 2284 team triple. Etta Ginder took high honors with a nice 203 single and a combination of a 506 three-game series to her credit. . . . Evelyn Dolson had a real set-up in the 5-7-10. But she failed to make it. Better luck the next time Evelyn. . . . The Alpines took two out of three from the Mayorettes, losing the second game by only four pins. . . . Evelyn Jones of the Mayorettes made several nice splits including the 4-5-7 and 1-3-5-10 which is good in any league. The rest of the team must have been waiting for the return of Madeline Schline who is vacationing these two weeks in the deep south. Perhaps the artistry of Madeline's shooting will help the Mayorettes to get out of their slump and incidentally, last place. . . . The Minasians took three from Kingston Coal as Elsie Relyea, anchor for her team, came through with a nifty 477. Gert Breitfeller, high for the losers, pounded out a cool 154 in her last game. . . . Phelan and Cahill took two games from the Bliss team. Phil Gehringer came through with a swell shot on the 5-7-9 split while Mrs. Trowbridge struck out for her first game. Yet, the Bliss bowlers won the initial game. . . . Rosemary Weigand made the 7-9 split, a rare oddity and finished up with a 404 series while Mathilda Bruck spared on the 5-7-9 split. . . . A welcome mat is out to Dot Williams, who, observers opine, will do the Emerick's Ladies' League credit before the season is very old. Dot displayed her worth to her team Tuesday night by spilling the 5-10 split. Rose Chamberland made the 5-10, too. M. Reinas bowlers took three games from the Ertels, the newcomer to the league family. Alyce Riseley, Helen Smart and Tillie Clearwater made some nifty shots in this match. The decision for the three games cannot be decided until after Thursday night's roll-off for the Ertels and Kingston Coal will meet to decide the handicap. . . . It looks very much like the Reinas have scooped all three in their victory. . . . Gert Ertel and Mary Callahan made swell splits. Jane Holcomb is rolling nicely in this early season which is his first year in the sport. Although the Ertels dropped three games Thursday night it is the opinion of the Emerick's Ladies' League veterans that this team will soon hit its stride. . . . Williams Lake made their debut in new uniforms and there's no doubt about it that the gals look pretty smart. . . . Evelyn Provenzano ran true to form with a cool triple of 504 and a new high single for this year of 204. The season is young yet, Evelyn. There's plenty of time to be rapping out those coveted high triples and high singles. . . . Phyllis Roosa of the Williams Lake squad is doing acceptably well to date as is Sally Kuehn. The team rolled a nice 2241 triple. . . . Becks, sparked by Adelaide Ashley, took two games. Carrie Mohr came through with a 180 single while Chris Wilson poured out a 422 triple. . . . Elstons took two games from Schwenks. K. Williams posted a 464 series to lead the winners. She also took a high single of 175. . . . Marge Williams is coming along steadily, her 451 triple bearing this out in no uncertain terms. Dot Holmes also is coming along nicely as her 143 single score illustrates. . . . Lillian Buswell had a nice 178 for Schwenks and a triple of 467. Mrs. Hayes made the 6-10 split and is beginning to look like herself as of last year's style and it won't be long before she will be rolling up the high scores as her friends expect. A. Markle crushed the 6-10 split. Keep it up girls. It's up to you to keep this grand sport alive while our fellows take a personal sock at Adolph and the Japs. . . . Although the 1942-43 season is very young, the bowlers of Emerick's Ladies' League realize what good fortune is theirs by the splendid work of President Wetzel. She's here and there and all around, one word for this bowler and a compliment for the next one. The high interest in this year's league fully shows the work which she has put into this organization. . . . Next week's games include the following:

7:15 p. m.

Elstons vs. Phelan & Cahill.
Kingston Coal vs. Williams Lake.
Schwenks vs. Ertels.
Bliss vs. Becks.

9 p. m.

Reinas vs. Mayorettes.
Minasians vs. Alpines.

The standings to date:

Grahamsville Club To Sponsor Shoot

Event Is Scheduled for Coming Sunday

The Chestnut Valley Rod and Gun Club of Grahamsville will hold its annual trap and rifle shoot Sunday, September 27. This is expected to be the greatest shoot the club has ever sponsored.

There will be many feature shoots added this year, and War Savings Stamps have been added to the list of prizes to be awarded for best marksmanship.

The shoot will be held all day at the new club range on the Bruce Denman Farm, between Curry and Grahamsville.

Burt Van Deusen Is in Army Hospital

Burton Van Deusen, who is a member of the 20th Technical School at Lowry Field, Col., on Monday entered the army hospital there to undergo an operation, according to word received today by his father, Herbert T. Van Deusen, plumbing contractor of Hasbrouck avenue.

Mr. Van Deusen at the time he entered the U. S. Army was serving as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Princeton, N. J. He is a graduate of the Kingston High School, and after finishing high school he took up Y. M. C. A. work, and was graduated from Springfield College.

Donald Van Deusen, another son of H. T. Van Deusen, is a member of the U. S. Air Corps. He was a student at the New Paltz Teachers College when he enlisted in the air corps.

GREAT SPORTS EVENTS covered by a GREAT SPORTS STAFF

It takes the country's greatest sports staff to cover the country's greatest sports events for hundreds of America's newspapers. The Associated Press, and its affiliate Wide World, have that staff.

Right now it's swinging into action on the 1942 World Series, fall football from coast to coast, and the Louis-Conn fight.

Millions of American fans will follow these events with such experts of AP and Wide World as AP Sports Editor Herb Barker, Wide World Sports Editor Dillon Graham, columnists Whitney Martin, Hugh Fullerton, Jr., sports cartoonist Tom Paprocki, and AP sports writers Sid Feder, Judson Bailey, Gayle Talbot, Harold Claassen, Austin Bealmear and Orlo Robertson.

At the same time AP's Wirephoto and Telemat services provide the play by play pictorial story.

It's a sports coverage without parallel, because—

AP has full time sports writers in Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles, Columbus, Des Moines, Denver, Kansas City, Detroit and Philadelphia in addition to its large general staff in New York and more than 200 special correspondents.

AP operates six football wires throughout the gridiron season, providing at least 100,000 unduplicated words every Saturday, exclusive of state coverage.

AP delivers the picture with the story and in addition through Wide World a complete feature sports service.

WALLKILL

Wallkill, Sept. 24—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woessner accompanied their son, Albert to Brooklyn Wednesday where he was sworn in for duty in the U. S. Navy.

Robert H. Terwilliger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Terwilliger has enlisted in the U. S. Army Signal Corps Enlisted Reserve. He will be given a 16-week's course in Fundamentals of Radio through the war training program of Rutger's University. After completion of the course he will enter active duty and be sent to a Signal Corps replacement training center for 13 weeks of basic training.

Michael Kane, sorn of Mr. and Mrs. George Kane of Highland, formerly of Wallkill, visited friends here one day the past week. Mr. Kane is now a third machinist mate in the Navy Air Corps.

Corporal Russell Hammesfahr of Plattsburg is spending a seven-day furlough with his brother's family, Mr. and Mrs. George Hammesfahr.

Hubert G. Masten, who has been spending a 12-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burt G. Masten, has left for San Antonio, Tex. While here he received word that he had been promoted to the rank of technical sergeant in the air corps.

Mrs. John Lawrence and family moved Monday to Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richter spent a few days this week with relatives in Bloomfield, N. J.

Mrs. Jane R. Van Wyck and daughter, Helen of West Nyack, spent the week-end with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Crawford left by train Saturday for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clemons and children of Fort Myers, Fla., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack.

William Titus and daughter, Mrs. Wesley Thomas and her son, Billy of Lansing, Mich., are visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nellie Roosa.

Miss Phyllis Chase returned from Syracuse Sunday, where she has been taking a summer course at Syracuse University. She is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Chase after which she will leave for Los Angeles, Cal., where she expects to be married to Raymond Prescott, the first week in October.

Miss Ruth Hoos, a former member of Wallkill Central School's faculty, now of Saugerties, was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hammesfahr.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meehan and family moved Tuesday to Dannemora, where he has been transferred to the Clinton State Prison for guard duty.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Lampart and daughter, Jean, returned home Tuesday night from a week's vacation spent at Maxwell, Canada. While there they attended the wedding of her brother, Archie Munro.

Miss Margaret Edsall returned this week Thursday to Ithaca, where she entered her sophomore year in a Home Economics course in Cornell.

Miss Clara Crossley, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Crossley, from Kingston Hospital, and is much improved.

George Case is visiting his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Case in Connecticut.

Mrs. J. M. Chase entertained a few close friends of her daughter, Phyllis, at a birthday dinner Wednesday evening. She was 18 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Mack entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McLean, Miss Audrey Coswell, at a birthday supper last Thursday evening, to celebrate their daughter Mona's 14th birthday.

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a card party in the Legion rooms Friday evening, October 2, at 8 o'clock. Pinochle, auction and contract bridge, will be played and refreshments served.

Miss Margaret Edsall was hostess Monday evening for a surprise personal and linen shower for Miss Phyllis Chase, in honor of her approaching marriage to Raymond Prescott of Los Angeles, Cal. A prettily decorated umbrella of white crepe paper ruffles was in one end of the living room, covering many pretty and useful gifts. After the gifts were opened, refreshments were served. Guests present were: Mrs. George Crist, Mrs. George Parliamen, Mrs. Claude Decker, Mrs. F. R. Bosch, Mrs. C. E. Caswell, Mrs. Harry Morehouse, Mrs. George Hammesfahr, Mrs. William Earle, Mrs. J. M. Chase, Mrs. L. C. Edsall, Miss Iris Morehouse, and the Misses Jane Smedes and Charlotte Stryker of Walden. Unable to be present but sending a gift was Miss Louise Stryker of Walden.

WAFS GO TO WORK FOR THE ARMY

Mrs. Nancy H. Love (second from right in uniform) leads the first contingent of women pilots in the Women's Auxiliary Ferry Squadron out to the flight line at their training base at New Castle, Del., for the first flights in their new job of ferrying planes from factories to air bases for the Army Air Force Transport Command. Aline Rhonie (fourth from the right), New York artist, and Mrs. Betty Huyler Gillies (fourth from the left) of Syosset, Long Island, New York, are among the group.

WHAT IT MEANS

By JOHN GROVER

Only a babe in the price woods argues that black markets don't exist in the U. S. But Uncle Sam is brewing some potent legal poison for future violators.

The black market mess "just growed." Loose administration of vital raw materials, failure to fix source prices while putting ceilings on processed products (as in meat), eye-winking subterfuges and plain chiseling all contributed.

A generally well-meaning but haphazard paste-patches-and-baling-wire policy resulted in confusion and uncertainty. Smarties took advantage of it, industrialists philosophically made the best of it. Result were so-called "black markets"—although there is no general agreement on the strict definition of that term.

The farm bloc prevented a ceiling on livestock prices. Ceilings were fixed on the packers and retailers of meat. As livestock prices went inexorably up, they were economically squashed against their ceilings.

The government, in a series of injunction suits, alleges they sought to evade the squeeze by "upgrading." Meats were labeled "choice" when they should have been graded "good," and "choice" prices were charged. Others invented new cuts of meat, for which there had been no pre-ceiling prices, charged what they pleased.

Loose and inexcusable handling of available steel supplies built that black market. It largely centered in steel warehouses.

Steel warehouses in normal times perform legitimate middlemen's functions, distributing less-than-carload lots to small steel users the big mills are unwilling to bother to supply direct. For their services, they properly get higher per-ton prices than mill quotations. In the steel ceiling prices, this was taken into account, and warehouse ceilings higher than at-the-mill figures.

Somehow, in the dewy-eyed period that characterized the clubby little madhouse that was steel, the warehouses suddenly turned up holding most of the steel available.

Shipbuilders like Henry Kaiser, the production wizard, found themselves short of steel. The only sources available were the warehouses, which would sell less-than-carload lots at their higher prices.

"We only did what everybody else did," one of Kaiser's deputies explained. What "everybody" else did was buy LCL lots, and lots of them. They paid the higher price to keep their steel-hungry plants rolling.

The industrialists simply adapted themselves to conditions. Something was sour in a supply system, that let vital quantities of steel get into the warehouses for higher price re-sale.

There were numerous instances of just plain crooked chiseling in other lines. Reducing the quality was a favorite dodge. Sellers charged the ceiling fixed for good quality goods, and substituted shoddy.

Happily, there's plenty of evidence that the black market is going to be bleached.

President Roosevelt's crackdown on Congress, demanding farm price ceilings that mean something, should end the squeeze of wholesalers and retailers and remove the main incentive to chiseling.

The War Production Board overhaul of allocations, the resignation of the steel division chiefs, indicates Donald Nelson really means business in devising a workable flow of available materials to manufacturers.

In this connection, there's a lot of informed discussion in the capital about the probability of "vertical" control of all raw materials. It's intensified since the appointment of William Jeffers as rubber czar.

Vertical control means that one expert would be charged with all responsibility for, one material. In copper, for example, a copper boss would handle production, price, allocations and all other problems, instead of splitting up these functions between price boards, production boards and other responsibility-splitters.

Finally, the creation of the O. P. A. standards division, under Dexter M. Keezer, former president of Reed College, Portland, pressages some violent headaches for the deliberate chiselers-on-quality.

Keezer has been handed several tough assignments in the past, and has won through with distinction. No body who knows the young, able economist would bet a nickel on the chances of the quality chiselers to evade prosecution.

It's taken a long time, and in the confusion the black market had a picnic, but under stress of hard facts, the government is catching up. Best guess in Washington is that the major sore spots will be cleaned up in six months, and the petty chiselers slapped down as they appear after that.

LYONSVILLE

Lyonsville, Sept. 24—Mr. and Mrs. Charley Smith entertained relatives over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and family were in Ellenville, Saturday.

Mrs. Tracy Barley of Stone Ridge spent Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Davis and family, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Davis' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Van Demark and grandmother, Mrs. Van Demark of Kerhonkson Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley were in Ellenville, Tuesday evening.

Curler Hides Message

Before France capitulated, a Swiss woman hairdresser employed by the Germans attempted to cross the frontier with a message etched on a pair of curling tongs—part of her stock in trade, it is revealed in Vichy. The writing was invisible until treated with chemicals.

Indian Gain

Norman, Okla. (AP)—John Collier United States commissioner of Indian affairs, says in a book published by the University of Oklahoma press that the Indian population of the United States has increased 34 per cent since 1890. He estimates there now are 350,397 Indians in this nation.

Stimson to Probe Louis-Conn Bout; Says He's Shocked

of this war by permitting the fight and called for a congressional investigation to determine whether favoritism was being shown some members of the armed forces.

"Any member of the armed forces who at the time of his induction or enlistment owed money to any individual may now obtain leave and return to his former civilian occupation for the purpose of raising funds to pay this indebtedness," O'Toole contended, was a new army policy.

"What a mockery we are making of our army and of charity," he added. "The United States Army is being used for the first time to guarantee obligations that are owed to a fight promoter."

In New York, Jacobs, promoter of the fight, had this to say:

"War Boxing Incorporated and the War Department asked me to promote this fight to raise a large sum of money for Army Emergency Relief.

"The plans for the fight were approved by the War Department and War Boxing, Inc. If Mr. Stimson thinks an investigation is necessary, it's all right with me.

"A representative of the War Department saw Louis at Fort Riley before the fight was arranged. Louis told him that he had certain obligations which he would like to have met if he was going to fight. So far as I'm concerned, whatever money Joe owes me he can owe me for as long as he wants."

War Boxing, Inc., is the corporate name of the sports writers committee.

Man Confesses He Slew His Parents

argument, and then struck his father.

"I know the penalty for my crime and I'm willing to pay it," Nash told reporters at a press conference held after the police announced he had admitted the slayings.

"Are you sorry?" he was asked.

"Of course, I'm sorry," Nash replied.

Nash's version of the murder, as told by authorities, related how, after he had grabbed a hand ax and killed his father, his mother, frantic with fear and grief, cried: "Now look what you've done."

Her hands wildly clutched at her son as he turned in anger, struck her with his fist, then again took up the bloody weapon and slashed her repeatedly.

"I hit her on the head, shoulders and back," Nash said. "I placed his body in the trunk and then I threw her body on the floor."

His confession detailed how he drove to the Nash home, changed his bloody clothes and began motoring to Illinois. About 30 miles east of East St. Louis, Ill., Nash said, he tossed out his bundle of clothes.

The stolid electrician told how he abandoned the car north of Springfield because of a second flat tire and went to that city in search of a new tire.

It was then he hitch-hiked a ride with James McCue, a coal hauler, who officers said, identified Nash last night in a police show-up and provided authorities with what they said was the first real break in the case.

Failing to obtain a tire, Nash said, he ate breakfast in a Springfield restaurant and then hitch-hiked to St. Louis.

In addition to McCue, C. E. Sutton, a Springfield garage owner, viewed Nash and police said he identified him as the man who sought to buy a tire at his garage, but this Nash continued to deny even after admitting all other details.

Before announcing Nash's confession, Acting Chief of Police Andrew Aylward, had said that young Nash a few days ago had admitted mailing a premium on a $2,000 insurance policy on the life of his father.

Some hours prior to his full confession, police disclosed, Nash admitted driving the bodies of his parents into Illinois, but he denied the double killing. Aylward, however, on the strength of that admission ordered the youth booked for murder and made plans to seek a murder warrant today.

Officers found the amputated ring finger of the mother near their car, but throughout the grilling the son continued to deny he had cut off the finger and asserted he did not know how that happened.

Order on Speed Limit Does Not Apply to City

An order from the State War Council received by Mayor William F. Edelmuth this morning fixing the speed limit of all motor vehicles not to exceed 35 miles an hour, does not apply to the city of Kingston where the speed limit is fixed by city ordinance at 25 miles an hour.

Mayor Edelmuth turned the telegram he had received from the State War Council over to the police department. The ordinance prohibiting speed in excess of 25 miles an hour in the city will be strictly enforced.

The telegram to the mayor reads as follows: "The State War Council has adopted an order making it unlawful for motor vehicles to travel at a speed of more than 35 miles per hour for a distance of one quarter of a mile. Please see to it that this order is enforced by the law enforcement authorities under your jurisdiction."

to do very much about the economic problems of either and also hoped that "the Russians will whip the Nazi but not be too unreasonable about spreading their uncomfortable doctrines outside Russia."

He called for a return to the "standard of Democratic idealism, which means tolerance, humility, sacrifice and understanding of the meaning of human dignity."

"It is a standard fashioned for us long ago, in suffering and hardship, by our forefathers," he added. "We put it away and took instead the billboards which proclaimed us the strongest, greatest and most superlative people that ever put in two and got out five.

"We are still flexing our imaginary muscles and shouting: 'Wait till I catch that lug who hit me when I wasn't looking!'"

Farewell Gifts for Men

After Friday evening's service at the Temple Emanuel Kingston's B'nai B'rith Lodge will present farewell gifts to the following Jewish men who will leave this city soon for Camp Upton and active service in the United States Army. The boys are Emanuel Yallum, Schall Alcon, Louis Lehner, Isidore Friedman and Jerome Leher. An interesting program has been arranged for this occasion and everyone is invited to attend the services.

Social Workers Say Delinquency Increases

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Unprecedentedly high wages paid inexperienced youngsters and abnormal home life occasioned by the war have stepped up the rate of juvenile delinquency, social workers contended today.

In noting a 14 per cent increase in cases handled by the children's court in the first six months of this year, the Children's Aid Society said in a statement that jobs paying high wages to untrained boys and girls now exceeded the number of applicants. It added that this increase in demand and jump in pay gave youngsters an exaggerated sense of their own importance.

As a solution, the report commended England's wartime increase of the educational budget, as opposed to the cut in funds in New York and the larger class load forced upon teachers.

Dr. Alexander Reid Martin, consulting psychiatrist, asserted also that the wartime atmosphere had brought about a restlessness, insecurity and emotional instability.

"It is not so much new problems connected with broken homes, absence of older brothers and fathers, the sudden increase of responsibilities and demands upon unprepared younger children, especially with more children left at home alone with mothers, and fathers away."

Farmers Grow More Cows To Produce More Milk

Ithaca, N. Y. — Dairy farmers busy with production of milk to meet record demands of today are already planning for better cows that will give more milk.

To maintain present dairy production, the dairy cows must produce calves, and according to Irvine Elliott of the New York State College of Agriculture, farmers are using proved bulls as herd sires, so that heifer calves of 1943 will grow up to be better milkers than their mothers now performing at the milk pail.

The typical cow in a New York dairy herd now produces only about 6,000 pounds of milk a year. This is not enough to maintain an efficient dairy business.

A few farmers have proved bulls as herd sires; animals that have daughters that have proved their worth. Other farmers have bulls that come from high-producing families, with sisters that are good milk producers.

Thousands of other farmers in more than half the agricultural counties of the state can have part or all of their cows bred to proved bulls through artificial breeding associations. Four county associations, together with the New York Artificial Breeders' Cooperative, which has 21 local associations, service dairy herds in 35 counties.

Blood Typing Moves On

Blood typing of 70,000 men by an army mobile laboratory in Australia has been completed. The units traveled 12,000 miles in New South Wales and the whole of the army strength in that state with the exception of a few men at the Showground, Sydney, have had their blood types fixed.

FOOD

The Way to a Soldier's Heart—

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(Wide World Food Editor)

When the family gets word that Johnny is marching home on leave, it's time to go into a quick huddle and plan foods he will like to eat.

While soldier and sailor boys get good substantial chow, they have a hankering for dishes with those distinctive home touches and for such specialties as spiced peaches, strawberry preserves and pie like only mother can make.

MOTHER'S PEACH ROLL will receive a hearty welcome. It is truly scrumptious when topped by vanilla ice cream or whipped cream. Mix together 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cut in 1/3 cup fat, add a beaten egg and enough milk to make a soft dough. Pat out the dough on a floured board until dough is about 2/3 inch thick. Spread with soft butter and 3 tablespoons sugar blended with ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Cover with sliced fresh peaches (canned or frozen ones will do) and sprinkle with 3 tablespoons honey and 4 tablespoons sugar (brown if you have it). Roll up quickly and fit into buttered loaf or round pan. Brush top with 3 tablespoons honey mixed with 2 tablespoons butter and bake 35 minutes in moderate oven.

CHICKEN SHORTCAKE is another family favorite. Cut out large biscuits from rich biscuit dough. Bake, split and add chicken filling, made this way: Cook a cut-up stewing chicken in salted water until very tender. Cool and chill. Remove the chicken and let the fat collect on top of stock. Mix together ½ cup chicken fat (eased out with butter if the fat measures a little shy) with 2/3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each white pepper, paprika and celery seed. Add 1½ cups chicken stock and 1 cup milk. Cook slowly until thick and creamy. Cut the chicken, thoroughly chilled, into pieces no smaller than an inch in size—larger pieces are all right. Add chicken to sauce and cook 5 minutes over low heat. If a little too thick add ½ cup more stock or milk or cream. If the boy is a cornbread fan let it replace the biscuits and you have Dixie Shortcake, which is a real treat.

GREEN SALAD, icy cold, appeals to most boys and especially when it is made by mixing ¼ cup crumbled Roquefort cheese into each 2/3 cup tart French dressing.

For dessert nothing tastes better than BLUEBERRY PIE. And BLUEBERRY MUFFINS make delicious eating for breakfast or luncheon.

Waffles

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1½ cups milk
- 5 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
- 3 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks and milk; add gradually to flour, beating only until smooth. Add shortening. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with butter and maple-flavored syrup. Makes four or five 4-section waffles.

Safety First on Farms to Save Help

Ithaca, N. Y. — It is within the power of New York state farm families not to have casualties on the home front. Today accidents are unpatriotic, according to Prof. F. B. Wright of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Under wartime conditions, farmers must face an increase in their accident problems. Due to the labor shortages many young people and city folks are at work in the fields. Most of these are not familiar with farm hazards.

Farm accidents take about 4,500 lives a year and seriously injure many thousands of persons. The major cause of farm accidents are falls. Other causes are machinery, tools, burns, and animals.

Check the farm for hazards, suggests Prof. Wright. Faulty flues in the chimneys, wobbly ladders, broken machinery guards, unprotected gasoline or oil containers, unsafe bull pens, and other causes of accidents can be removed or repaired.

Today it is more important than ever that farmers remain at top efficiency, he says. They feed and clothe the nation; their contribution to the victory effort is vital. The United States can not afford to lose their services.

Ulster School Children Will Take Active Part In County Scrap Harvest

October 1 Is Opening Date for Collection of Junk to Help War Effort

School children of Ulster county are going to be asked to take an active part in the Ulster County Scrap Harvest which opens on October 1.

Every citizen of the county will embark on a campaign to salvage every possible pound of scrap iron and rubber which is now idle on farms and in homes throughout the county. This scrap will be started on its way to the mills where it is needed so vitally to keep war production at peak speed during the winter months.

The part the school children will be asked to play in the drive is an important one. Not only will the school children be asked to search out scrap at home but they will be asked to make a canvass of abandoned mills, search out scrap from creeks and ponds where it had been buried for years, but they will be asked to lok about for any possible source of scrap during their travels about their communities and report such junk to their teacher who in turn can report this scrap to the town superintendent of highways of the town who will have the junk gathered up and transported to the community junk depository.

Albert Cashdollar, chairman of the Ulster County War Council, has arranged with the district superintendents of schools to have the message of the Scrap Harvest spread directly in the schools where an appeal will be made to all children to aid in the campaign. "Children circulate pretty freely about their home communities and often spot sources of junk which an adult never would see," said Mr. Cashdollar in announcing the part the children would be asked to play in the campaign.

Only One Action Tried at Present Session of Court

The present term of Supreme Court being held by Justice Harry E. Schirick during the month of September has thus far established a rather unusual record. In session now over two weeks there has been but one trial which has reached the jury for decision, all of the remaining cases which have been disposed of have been settled during the progress of the trial.

Again on Wednesday five actions were moved for trial and a jury taken but the issues were agreed upon and a settlement reached without submitting the question to the jurors. These actions were negligence cases brought by Tony Monforte, Evelyn Rutiglino, Josephine Monforte, Rose Monforte and Carlo Rutiglino against Charles Harvey Agnew of Newburgh to recover damages for injuries suffered in an accident near West Park on the evening of November 30, 1940, when the cars of Tony Monforte and the car of Agnew collided.

A jury was taken at the opening of court Wednesday and then a recess was called. Later all five cases were announced settled. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for the plaintiffs and Judge Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant.

The only trial which required the decision of a jury this term was the actions for personal injuries brought by Edwin Thomas and Burton A. Markle against Seaboard Freight Lines. A no cause verdict resulted. Since then eight cases have been taken up for trial but settled before submission to the jury. A number of other cases have been moved to the day calendar and announced settled before the actual trial was started and many cases were marked settled on the original call of the calendar.

Woman Taken to Hospital After Consuming Iodine

Mrs. Nellie Kouhout, wife of Frank Kouhout, of 50 Hunter street, who according to the police, drank the contents of a bottle of iodine in her home yesterday afternoon, was expected to be discharged from the Kingston Hospital where she was taken today.

The police department received a telephone call from a neighbor stating that a woman had drunk iodine and Officers Guernsey Burger and Gerald Every were rushed to the house in one of the police radio cars.

The officers administered first aid in the form of starch, the white of eggs and milk to the woman, and then she was rushed to the hospital in the Conner ambulance.

Four Children Do Not Know Why Father Dies

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—There are four children in New York today who do not understand why their father is dead and why their mother is in jail charged with homicide.

For death yesterday ended the tribulations of Alman Harrington, 23-year-old electrician whose last moments of life were brightened by the presence of the children despite his wife's refusal to let him see them for weeks.

Three months ago Harrington was shot in the spine by his wife, Anna, who had been free in $2,500 bail on a felonious assault charge. Half an hour after Harrington's death, the Bronx district attorney's office ordered her arrest on a homicide charge.

She was not present when her husband died. Three weeks ago the State Supreme Court ruled that the children be placed in custody of their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence Kelly, the court deciding that "the most important thing at present is that the children be with the father. . ."

The children, Carol Ann, 5; Alman, Jr., 4; Anthony, 2, and Allen, 1, have seen their father daily since then.

Saturday night Harrington lapsed into a coma. The children were with him chattering with each other when he died—but he did not recognize them.

No Use for British Breed

Cheltenham, England, Sept. 24 (AP)—Lady Astor told an audience here yesterday that Russia's great enemy in Britain is the British Communist. "I would not mind sitting on the platform with a Russian Communist," the American-born member of Parliament said, "but I would not be seen dead with a British Communist."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Rails and industrials kept in front of a further stock market advance today but the move was restricted more or less by light profit cashing on the upswing.

The news still was bullish marketwise, with sentiment buoyed by mild inflation psychology emanating from action of the House in refusing to stem farm parities. In addition, revived dividend hopes, coupled with fierce Russian counter-offensives at Stalingrad, served as a trend prop.

Volume expanded briskly at the start, aided by sizable blocks of low-priced issues. Gains of fractions to around a point subsequently were reduced here and there and activity slackened near the fourth hour.

Bonds were selectively higher. Commodities exhibited firmness.

Among stocks making new year's tops were Erie, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Western Union. Modest plus signs were recorded for Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Steel, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Anaconda, du Pont and Douglas Aircraft.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 50 Beaver street, New York city, branch office, 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Streamlining Is Disclosed

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—A further streamlining of the war production board was disclosed today when it became known that war plant sites will be selected hereafter by a single, small committee instead of the present two groups. The new, quick-action committee will be composed of one officer each from the army, army air force, navy and maritime commission, under an order signed but not yet announced. The action was confirmed by Col. Gordon E. Textor, a regular army officer loaned to W. P. B. by the Corps of Engineers, who has been chosen executive director of the new "facility clearance board."

Powers Arraigned In Supreme Court, Murder 2nd Degree

Patrick Powers, charged with the murder of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Neff, at New Hurley, on August 28, was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick in Supreme Court this afternoon at the court house.

Powers, who was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, is charged with murder in the second degree. He entered a plea of not guilty.

The aged man was arrested following a gun battle at the Neff farm house.

Teachers' College News

More than 120 freshmen, who constitute the class of '46 at State Teachers College in New Paltz, were treated royally by their hosts the faculty and upperclassmen during their first week at College.

Wilbur Wiesler of Rosendale and Mildred William of Baldwin, members of the sophomore class served as co-chairmen of freshman week. Throughout the week there was a series of events. Tuesday evening was the time set aside of the girls' dance and the men's smoker. Refreshments and well planned entertainments marked the evening programs. Kay Van Keuren of Ellenville had general charge of the girls' dance while George Maybury was the master of ceremonies for the smoker. These parties served as "get-acquainted" night of the freshmen, who were introduced to the members of the faculty and to many of the upperclassmen by their "Big Sisters" and "Big Brothers." Both the "Big Sisters" and "Big Brothers" played an important role in the life of each freshman not only during the first week of college but during the weeks preceding registration.

In past years the Saturday of freshman week was the scene of the traditional Lake Mohonk trip by the entire student body. Due to transportation difficulties the outing was cancelled.

When the sun set over the crest of the Shawangunk Mountains Thursday evening, the last faculty picnic for the present senior class was terminated. Miss Maud S. Richards of the college faculty directed the affair while Howard Hoffman and his college band supplied the music. The entire faculty assisted in making the picnic a success and to carry on this tradition with its fond memories that all New Paltz alumni students, and faculty so reverently possess. This picnic was held on a section of land that overlooks the Wallkill valley and mountains.

Says Four Shots Fired

Belmont, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Testimony that Luigi Vicchiano, 64-year-old Birmingham, Ala., grocer fired four shots at Constable Norman Chalker, the man he is accused of slaying 32 years ago, was in the record today as Vicchiano's first degree murder trial proceeded in Allegany county Supreme Court. The evidence was offered yesterday by the defendant's brother-in-law, Fred DeCapua, 62, of Buffalo, who denied on cross-examination he had revealed to New York state police that Vicchiano was living in Birmingham under the name of Louis Bakane prior to his arrest last June.

Following the business session there will be a social hour and refreshments will be served. All members of the Eastern Star and Master Masons are invited.

Goes to Texas

Technician Peter Kellerhouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kellerhouse of 35 Taylor street, who has been stationed at Pine Camp, has been transferred to Texas. He has been in the service two years, having enlisted in 1940.

Argentina has established control over non-American firms.

Nelson Urges All to Assist In Scrap Drive

Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, stresses the urgency of the salvage campaign in a communication to The Freeman, which in part reads as follows:

If we are to maintain and increase production of the planes, tanks, and ships needed by our fighting men and fighting Allies, we must get in every pound of scrap in this country—from the homes, from the farms, and from industry.

A successful fall campaign conducted by the American newspapers, in cooperation with state and local salvage committees, will avert a serious decline in steel production and will add to our stores of other scarce materials.

As chairman of the War Production Board, I call upon every citizen of the United States to make this campaign a success, by gathering and turning in all the scrap metals, rubber, and rags that can possibly be spared.

Let towering victory stockpiles in every community in the nation stand as symbols of America's defiance to the Axis.

Promoted

Fire Department Honors Three Men Who Go in Army

Wednesday evening the members of the Kingston fire department met at the Central Fire Station and presented Commissioner James R. Murphy, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and Firemen Edwin Van Etten and Edward Murphy with wallets containing a sum of money.

The three men are members of the contingent who leave for Camp Upton Monday morning, all three having been inducted in the U. S. Army, and are home on a 14-day furlough after passing their physical examination at an army induction center in Albany.

Following the presentation the three men were guests of honor at a farewell banquet served in Schoentag's Hotel. Among the speakers at the banquet were: Mayor William F. Edelmuth and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford was toastmaster.

Councilmen Give Dinner to Gilday

Wrist Watch Is Presented to Local Alderman

Alderman Andrew T. Gilday, who has been inducted into the U. S. Army and leaves soon with the contingent for Camp Upton, was tendered a farewell dinner Wednesday by his fellow members of the Common Council. The aldermen presented their colleague with a wrist watch.

The dinner was served in the private dining room at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and the only absentee was Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk who sent a telegram expressing his regret at being unable to attend since he had been called out of town on business.

Alderman Paul Black, Democratic minority leader, presided as master of ceremonies, and brief addresses were made by the aldermen present.

Case Is Settled

An action for misappropriation of money which was opened in Supreme Court this morning was settled following the selection of a jury. The action was brought by Magdalena Gustafson against William Fink. Lester C. Ringe appeared for the plaintiff and Peter Harp for the defendant. Court then recessed until 2 o'clock this afternoon when two actions on promissory note were scheduled to be taken up. They are actions brought by Charlotte Baines Naef as executrix, etc., of Thomas Blythe, deceased, against Ethel Greenberg and Edward B. Hughson.

were believed to be Vincent D. Sweeney of Pittsburgh, public relations director of the United Steel Workers, and Phil Curran, member of the union's legal staff. Union officials said they boarded the Washington-bound train this morning at Pittsburgh.

Ambulances and fire engines from nearby towns rushed to the scene, and one fireman said fire fighters were hampered by lack of water. He described the wreck as "a terrible scene."

A hospital train with doctors and nurses sped to Dickerson from Washington.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor of Maryland said all available state police and state police ambulances were sent to the wreck.

All members of the three train crews were reported safe.

The road officials said a flagman had been sent out while the Cleveland train was standing and being repaired, and that he had been recalled as the train started up. An official added that either he neglected to put out a warning torpedo, or that the torpedo had failed to explode.

Investigators were sent out by the safety bureau of the interstate commerce commission.

The first injured were taken to Frederick, Md., about 18 miles north. Others were rushed to Hagerstown, 45 miles northwest, and an emergency hospital at the state penal farm near Hagerstown was made ready to receive still others.

To Dedicate Flag

At 10:30 o'clock on next Sunday morning, September 27, at the regular church service in the Hurley Reformed Church, a special program will be given to dedicate a service flag for all those who have entered the service. Everyone and anyone who has a member of the family or friend in the service is invited. At 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning the Sunday school is planning a rally program to which everyone is invited.

Red Armies Drive Nazis From Forts

now raging with unprecedented savagery, with the Russians doggedly clinging to their defenses in barricaded streets and smoking ruins under shot, shell and bomb.

German warplanes were pounding the city and Volga river traffic in continuous raids, Red Star said. A barge withdrawing refugees was reported smashed.

Large Building Seized

In the streets, Nazi troops seized a large building after violent fighting, the Red army newspaper added. Soviet patrols rushed its approaches, overpowered guards, and blew up the structure while the Germans were inside.

As the struggle continued, amid the first faint signs that the Nazi offensive may have passed its peak, Wendell L. Willkie conferred with Premier Stalin for two hours in Moscow and subsequently declared he would take back to Washington a story of growing Russian disappointment and dissatisfacton over the failure of Britain and the United States to open a second front.

"I feel it and you must," Willkie said, after chatting with Stalin and presenting a personal message from President Roosevelt.

Meanwhile, the British radio declared the allies were preparing to launch an offensive against Germany and appealed to the French people to cooperate by evacuating French coastal areas.

"An offensive of the United Nations is being prepared," the broadcast said. "On the day when we can be assured of attaining our goal—which is nothing less than the annihilation of Hitlerite Germany — this offensive will be launched.

"No one will be warned in advance of the attack or the point at which it will take place, but when the moment comes to call for the cooperation of the French people as a whole, we will keep our promise to let you know in time."

British bombers carried out new attacks on Germany overnight, attacking the Nazi U-boat base at Flensburg and an Axis convoy off the Dutch coast. Ten R.A.F. bombers were listed as missing.

Flensburg is a Baltic port in the Prussian province of Schleswig-Holstein, near the Danish frontier, which has come under increasingly heavy attack in recent weeks.

Australians Hold Firmly

Australian jungle fighters were reported holding firmly today amid a renewal of fighting in the New Guinea mountains, 32 miles from Port Moresby, while allied warplanes strafed Japanese troops and blasted enemy supply bases.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said casualties were suffered on both sides in clashes on the southern slope of the Owen Stanley range, but there was no indication of any further Japanese advance.

Continuous aerial strafing of the enemy communication lines was reported greatly hindering the Japanese in the already difficult task of keeping their forward troops supplied.

A United Nations communique said allied fighters made three sweeps over the key Japanese base at Buna, New Guinea, raking seven enemy barges with cannon and machine-gun fire and blasting supply dumps. Earlier, allied bombers dropped one-ton bombs on the Buna airdrome in a night assault, setting big fires.

In the China campaign, a Chinese army spokesman reported a lull in fighting along the entire front, broken only by minor skirmishes.

The spokesman withheld comment on reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was gathering strength for a Chinese counter-offensive in the spring.

In London, the British announced officially that the French garrison at Tananarive, Madagascar capital, surrendered unconditionally yesterday and British troops occupied the capital just a fortnight after their landing on the west coast in a move to eliminate the 1,000-mile-long island as an Axis base.

Women to Meet

The Women's Missionary Circle of St. James Church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon, September 25th, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren will conduct the devotions and Miss Lenora Drais will present the program, "Youth of Our Church." The hostesses will be Mrs. William Hogan and Miss Marilla Bloom.

Russian Ingenuity Troubles Axis Troops

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Russian ingenuity in the use of concealed bridges for retreat and counter-attack in the battle of the Don bend draws plaintive comment from Il Giornale D'Italia of Rome.

"The Soviets," said the newspaper in a dispatch broadcast today by the Berlin radio, "built several bridges across that river (the Don) which were, however, completely invisible to Italian ground troops and also to the air force because they were laid about a foot and a half below the water's surface."

Moving up or withdrawing, the Russians waded knee-deep across these bridges by night. The dispatch said the trick was discovered when a Russian soldier pursued by Italian infantrymen escaped by striding across one of the spans.

GARDINER

Gardiner, Sept. 24—The work of remodeling the local Borden's plant is nearing completion. The building is now a practically new one. The outside after some changes, including many new windows, has been covered with asbestos shingles, also a new roof. The addition added for the parking of the milk truck is made of concrete blocks. Here the truck is loaded with milk to be taken to New York.

On the inside, it has been redecorated with wallboard and concrete floors. It is equipped with modern labor-saving machinery.

The office has been changed, redecorated and refurnished. The carpenter work has been directed by Albert Ellis of Sydney, and the plumbing by Mr. Seabolt of Unionville. The electrical work by Frank Tarp of New Paltz and the painting by Mr. Freer of Gardiner. Local help employed included Charles Wells, Lewis Jayne, Sr., John McElhenny, Lansing Hoffman and Emil Ellison, Jr. Asa Barton is superintendent of the plant with Arthur Wood his assistant.

Miss Marion DuBois, teacher at Summers spent the week-end at her home here.

Miss Josena Hoffman left Sunday for Syracuse where she will resume her studies at the college of Fine Arts at Syracuse University.

The Misses Nellie and Belle Edwards and Mrs. Donald Craver of Montour Falls spent the week-end with Mrs. Gussie Miller.

Jack O'Neil of Brockton, Mass., and Mrs. Jennie Morehead of Marlborough were callers at the home of Mrs. George Everts, Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Coon of Poughkeepsie spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Anderson.

Daniel O'Neil, Sr., of Newburgh was a Sunday guest of Mrs. Anna O'Neil and family.

An inspiring service was held at the Reformed Church on last Sunday. Dr. Shea preached a fine sermon on "Seeking the Lost." Edwin Hulse of Montgomery was soloist and impressively sang during the offertory; "The Stranger of Galilee." and at the close of the service, "Alone." Dr. Shea will again be in charge next Sunday morning and Mr. Hulse has promised to come again some time soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schoonmaker of New Paltz were Monday evening guests of her sister, Mrs. Stella Woolsey.

Mrs. George Everts and her daughter, Mrs. Lawson Upright were in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Mrs. George Halwick of Marlborough spent part of the last week with her sister, Mrs. Lorella Klyne. On Saturday, Mrs. Halwick and Mrs. Klyne were supper guests of Mrs. Gussie Miller.

Alaskan Highway Will Be Ready Dec. 1

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Alaska highway will be ready for use about December 1, Secretary Stimson announced today, and traffic is expected to move steadily over its 1,600 miles until spring thaws make it impassable in April and May.

Not only is the highway being completed months ahead of schedule, Stimson said, but instead of the contemplated rough "pioneer" road, the "Alcan Highway, as it is now being constructed by the corps of engineers is a well-drained truck road for practically its entire length and will afford two-way traffic over many long stretches."

Sheriff Receives Notice On New Speed Regulation

Sheriff Howard C. Anderson received notice today from Governor Herbert Lehman directing that the law enforcement officials in his jurisdiction immediately enforce the new 35 mile an hour speed limit which has been suggested by the New York State War Council following a report of a federal committee appointed to investigate the rubber situation.

It has been recommended that all motor vehicles reduce their speed from the 40 mile limit prescribed by the New York State Legislature to a 35 mile an hour rate in order to conserve gas and tires.

The telegram from Governor Lehman reads:

"State War Council has adopted an order making it unlawful for motor vehicles to travel at a speed of more than 35 miles per hour for a distance of ¼ of a mile. Please see to it that this order is enforced by the law enforcement officers in your jurisdiction. Herbert H. Lehman."

Wickard Says U. S. Meat Consumption Will Drop to 79 Per Cent of '41 Amounts

dren, or vegetarians in the home—none of whom would normally consume 2½ pounds of meat a week—the housewife should reduce her purchases accordingly, Wickard declared.

In actual operation, he predicted, the over-all 21 per cent statistical cut in civilian meat supplies probably would not be as great since adjustments will be made when necessary to allow for chances in distribution patterns and wartime food requirements.

As evidence of the increasing Army, Navy and lend-lease needs, Wickard said estimated requirements have climbed 500,000,000 pounds since the 6,000,000,000-pound forecast made by the committee three weeks ago.

The total demand for meat is 27,500,000,000 pounds, against a supply of 24,000,000,000, he added.

"Under the wartime meat program, civilians will have a supply that would usually be regarded as normal," he explained. "But now, the demand is abnormal because of high buying power, coupled with a decreasing supply of most things to buy. The result is a very high demand for meat.

"If each of us with middle or high incomes tries to get all the meat he wants, some of us who are in war work or for other reasons can't get to the meat counters early in the day will have to go without. That is not fair."

BIRDS INVITED TO AID

Esthonia is going back to the birds in its effort to protect its fruit trees, it is reported in Berne, Switzerland. The trees were badly damaged by the intense cold of last winter and many were destroyed. Bird-houses are being erected or reconditioned to attract birds which are needed to help fight insect pests.

Yanks Also Top Cards in Respective Outfields for Series

Slaughter Is Only Redbird With Edge On Stadium Player

DiMaggio and Keller Hold Offensive Margin Over Musial and T. Moore; Speed About Same

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—The presence of Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller, two of the most dangerous clutch hitters in baseball, in the Yankee outfield is sufficient to guarantee the American League champions an important edge over their prospective World Series rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, in the gardening department.

Only in right field, where Enos (Country) Slaughter with his .316 batting average and 13 homeruns stacks up against Roy Cullenbine, Yankee replacement for the departed Tommy Henrich, can the Cardinals be figured to hold an advantage over the '41 world champions.

Cullenbine Shines

And even these the statistics might not offer a thorough comparison. Cullenbine, a moody fellow, has been regarded for several years as potentially one of the best outfielders in the game. The main rap against him as he drifted from one club to another in both leagues was that he seldom bore down.

He looks and acts like a brand-new ball player since he joined the Yankees. He has become acquainted with his teammates and has been pounding the ball at a more valuable rate than his most recent official average of .274 would indicate. Players have a habit of doing that when they join the Yanks, and the Cards will be well advised not to regard Cullenbine as a soft spot in their rivals' armor.

In center field the great DiMaggio, who has made a notable comeback after an amazingly poor start this season, will be paired against Terry Moore, captain of the Cardinals and one of the game's outstanding defensive outfielders. Joe, with even his deflated sticking average of .307 and his comparatively poor record of 20 homers for the year, far overshadows the valiant Card leader as a hitter.

Comparison of the two left fielders offers a more ticklish problem if one is influenced by the figures. They show, for a fact, that Stan Musial, the Cardinals' wonderful rookie, is hitting a lusty .310 as against Keller's .292, and that his fielding average is better than "King Kong's," too. But the writer has a suspicion that if 10 pitchers were picked at random and asked which player they would rather face with two out and the winning run on second, that the answer would be an almost unanimous "don't be silly!"

Keller, like DiMaggio, has not had a particularly good year. Yet both of them have knocked in well over 100 runs—a feat not approached either by Musial or Moore. Keller has blasted 26 homeruns to Musial's 10. Musial and Moore, while fitting perfectly into the Cardinals' hair-raising style of play, simply are not the power punchers that the two big Yankees are.

One of the best samples of the havoc DiMaggio and Keller can create in a given situation was supplied in the famous fourth game of the '41 series—the one where Mickey Owen dropped what should have been the game-ending strike and four Yankee runs poured across to beat the Dodgers, 7 to 4.

Better Card Reserves

Everyone remembers that Owen muffed the ball and that Tommy Henrich reached first. But that still would have been forgotten quickly if DiMaggio, next up, had not slashed a single and Keller had not driven them both in with a terrific double off the right field wall. That's an illustration why DiMaggio and Keller will have to be rated above any combination they might face.

In the matter of speed afoot the Cardinal trio might hold a slight advantage, but not enough to matter. Both Keller and DiMaggio are much faster than is generally realized.

The Cards, with young Harry Walker and Coaker Triplett to call on, probably would be less weakened by injury to one of their regular gardeners than the Yankees would. Walker, in particular, has looked good as replacement for Moore in recent games. The Yanks haven't much to fall back on in the veteran George Selkirk and Tuck Stainback.

Shreveport Wins Title

Shreveport, La., Sept. 24 (AP)—Shreveport baseball fans waited 23 years. But they finally have another Texas League pennant. Gordon Maltzberger took the mound last night and pitched a two-hitter for Shreveport as Beaumont, leader throughout the regular season, was being put down, 4-0. It was the seventh and deciding game in their playoff series. Shreveport's last title came in 1919 when Fort Worth was defeated in the playoffs.

Musial Paces Cardinals To 4 to 2 Win Over Reds

Beazley Captures 20th Win; Walters Loses; Club Needs Two to Clinch Flag

(By The Associated Press)

In 65 years the National League, the oldest organization in the the world, has had one season in which winning 100 games was not sufficient to win the pennant—until this year.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won their 100th game yesterday and it didn't move them even one wisp closer to the championship. That's why the St. Louis Cardinals, with 103 already in the bag, are making preparations to face the New York Yankees in the world series opening next Wednesday.

The Dodgers reached the 100 victory mark last year on the last day of the season. It was the occasion for a lot of whoop-la because the Dodgers, in all their years in the senior circuit, never had won that many games before. But winning a hundred this year didn't mean a thing.

French in One-Hitter

Brooklyn bagged No. 100 yesterday as old lefty Larry French marked up one of the finest pitching performances of all times. He pitched a one-hitter, and a single by Nick Van Etten that got past Shortstop Peewee Reese not only kept the veteran southpaw from a no-hitter but also from a perfect game. The laughing boy never walked a man, never let anyone get to first base except Etten, who was erased in a double play, and altogether pitched to the minimum of 27 batters.

The remarkable outing brought the Dodgers a 6-0 triumph over the Phils, but it didn't save them from imminent elimination in the furious National League pennant fight because the Cardinals also triumphed in a night game against Cincinnati, 4-2.

This made it possible for the Cardinals to clinch the pennant today if they win again from the Reds and the Dodgers lost to the Boston Braves.

The Cardinals came from behind last night to down the Reds, who scored both their runs in the first inning on a walk, an error, a wild pitch and a single. After the first frame Cincinnati made only one hit—a total of two for the game off rookie Johnny Beazley as he attained his 20th triumph of the season.

St. Louis smacked Bucky Walters for nine safeties, three of them by Stan Musial, and won handily with three runs in the third and another in the seventh.

This reduced the Cardinals' combination to any two St. Louis victories, or Dodger defeats, or one of each, to take the World Series to the banks of the Mississippi for the first time since 1934. Even though the Dodgers remained 2½ games behind the lead by winning yesterday, they can do no better than tie if St. Louis wins one of its remaining three games.

Bonham Wins 21st

While the National League squabble was continuing unabated the New York Yankees, secure with their sixth American League championship in seven years, trimmed the Washington Senators, 4-1, on the five-hit hurling of big Ernie Bonham.

The ace of the champions' staff had a no-hitter for five innings and after the spell was broken coasted to his 21st triumph against five setbacks this season.

His teammates were held to seven safeties, but they scored three times in the fourth with the help of three walks.

This closed the Yanks' home season and left them with only one game, at Boston Sunday, to play before they enter the World Series next Wednesday.

No other games were scheduled in the major leagues yesterday.

Hurls One-Hitter

LARRY FRENCH

Laughing Larry French, one of the pitching veterans of the Brooklyn Dodger mound staff, came close to hurling a perfect ball game at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon when he allowed the hapless Philadelphia Phils one lone single. Nick Etten, first baseman of the Phils, slapped out a feeble base hit in the second inning but was quickly rubbed out on a double-play from Pee Wee Reese to Dolph Camilli.

MacPhail Resigns Post as Brooklyn Dodger President

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Help wanted: One experienced baseball executive with colorful personality capable of taking charge front-running baseball club and keeping it there. Salary up to $75,000. Address Board of Directors Brooklyn Baseball Club.

This advertisement properly should appear in the classified columns of this newspaper, but it missed the deadline because Leland Stanford (Larry) MacPhail, after all the weeks of rumors about his joining the army, did not formally resign until last night.

The task of severing his connection with the Dodgers was attended to at a special meeting of the Dodgers' directors, who accepted with regret and said no successor had been decided upon.

Afterward MacPhail disclosed that he expected to be commissioned in the field artillery Sunday, the day the major league season closes, although the fact that his beloved Bums are close to being squeezed out of the National League pennant had no bearing on his action.

MacPhail, who was a captain in the first World War and took part in the effort of a handful of the A.E.F. to kidnap the Kaiser after the armistice, has been striving to return to uniform ever since the United States became involved in this war.

It was with tears in his eyes last night that he said his farewell.

"I'm not figuring on coming back to baseball," he said. "I've resigned my connection with the Dodgers and from now on it's up to somebody else. The directors haven't decided on a successor. They're going to interview applicants. They may make some changes in the organization. I don't know. From now on I'm out."

MacPhail was interrupted by an inquiry as to whether he thought a change was needed in the Dodgers' lineup—whether he would make one if he were staying—and he replied emphatically:

"Yes! You bet your life some changes are needed."

Ingalls Captures GolfChampionship At Wiltwyck Club

In a race to the finish, Wilson Ingalls captured the intermediate championship in the annual golf club tournament at the Wiltwyck course Wednesday with a one-up triumph over Steve Breitfeller in an 18-hole play-off. Both golfers posted scores of 90, but Ingalls finally came through with the close victory.

Breitfeller was two up at the turn and the two halved the next four holes. Ingalls opened his rally by taking the 14th hole. Meanwhile, Breitfeller's game temporarily fell down on the 15th which Ingalls won. The new champ went on to take the lead with a 16th hole win for the margin of victory. They halved the last two holes.

In the initial nine holes in the opener, they halved. Ingalls took the second while Breitfeller came on with the third and fourth while Ingalls came back to take the fifth. After the sixth and seventh holes were halved to square the match, Breitfeller went two up by copping the eighth and ninth. His lead was retained until Ingalls' irons turned the tide midway down the stretch.

Final Game Tonight

Oneonta, N. Y. Sept. 24 (AP)—The champion Amsterdam Rugmakers and fourth-place Oneonta Indians, who won both the pennant and playoffs last season, collide tonight in the seventh and deciding game of their class C Canadian-American League final playoff series. The Indians, behind Tommy Fine's four-hit, 15-strikeout pitching, evened the series at three games last night, 4-1. Big Carl Derosa, the champions' ace righthander, faced only 19 Indians in the first six innings and had a 1-0 lead going into the seventh when he blew up and yielded four runs. It was Derose's second failure in the final series.

Katrine Club Will Shoot on Sunday; Officers Elected

Joy Is Elected President of Organization for Year; Program to Start 1:30 P. M.

The Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club held its weekly meeting Tuesday night at the club house. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Chester Joy, president; Gordon Boice, vice president; Leslie Hotaling, secretary; Emerson Mayes, treasurer and recording secretary.

The committee, acting on the annual gun shoot, gave a report on 25 prizes, which have been donated by local merchants to be given away at the shoot. The program will start 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and any person interested may participate.

There will be both rifle and shot guns furnished by the club. Trap and skeet shooting will be held. Results of last Sunday's skeet shoot are as follows: M. Peck, 25-24—49; G. Boice, 22-21—43; C. Joy, 20; A. Mantovani, 20; E. Mayes, 20; D. Hurley, 19; R. Coles, 13-12—25; W. Geisle, 10.

In the trap shoot the five highest shooters were: A. Mantovani, 20; Pepper, 20, 13; DeGraff, 18, 18; C. Horne, 18, 17; L. Houghtaling, 16-15.

"Flavor-peaked"—for extra richness! This superb American blend has that expensive, "imported-whiskey" flavor because its foundation whiskies are specially distilled to give them individual qualities—then blended together to a delicate "flavor peak." Color Does It

BOWLING NEWS

Mercantiles to Meet

The following teams have entered the Y. M. C. A. Mercantile Bowling League for the coming season:

Pontiacs, Ballantines, Kingston Trust, Canfield No. 1, Canfield No. 2, Blue Moon Farms, F. B. Matthews, Treadwells, Sears Roebuck, "Y" Couples, Ertels, Wonderlys, Freeman No. 1, Freeman No. 2, Knitting Mills, Elstons, Clarifiers and the Electrols.

There is still room for a few more teams. Representatives of the above teams as well as any other teams who wish to enter the Mercantile League are requested to be present at a meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. It is requested that team rosters be handed in at this time to the secretary so that the schedule may be arranged. There are to be three divisions, bowling on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. It is expected that the league will start operations October 14.

The league is one of the largest in the city this year and officials plan for another successful season. The "Y" alleys have been placed in excellent condition for the coming season.

Nocando League Results

At Homer Emerick's Recreation alleys last night Jack Martin, anchor for the Standards, pushed his teammates into a two-way tie for first place when he grabbed the two high marks of the night with a 541 triple and a 203 single game as the Standards took three games from Scholls.

Martin began his bombardment in the first game with a 180 and followed up with 203 and then 158. Bill Mohr, leadoff for the team, spiked out 522 while J. Lowe posted a 502. Standards finished with a 2404 triple. H. Svirsky had 498 for the losers.

The Norton bowlers also made their way into first place by sweeping three games from Fredericks. Jim Norton paced his own club with a 503 three game series while Julius Rudolph had a high 194 single of the match. Rudolph had a 491 series. Lacey Burger posted 458 for the Fredericks.

Ken Van Etten unloaded his first good triple of the season last night of 537 which helped the Mack team to take all three from the Eichlers. As a result the Macks clamped on third place while the Eichlers dropped from first to last in the league standings. Van Etten posted scores of 174, 192 and 171. His 192 was high single of the match. Walt LaPine had a 506 series for the winners. M. Cole had 479 for the Eichlers.

In the only other match last night at Emericks, Barney Rosinki's team took two matches from Emericks. Homer Emerick shot a 505 triple for the losers and a high 180 single but these two high marks failed to bring the club up to the Rosinskis. A. Struble poured out a 479 series for the winners. His two 176 scores were high marks for the team.

Emerick's Ladies' Jottings

. . . Rudy's Alpine bowlers took the spotlight in the Emerick's Ladies' League matches at Homer Emerick's Recreation alleys Tuesday night. As has been stated before, this is one of the strongest teams in the loop and it will pay the other clubs well to watch them as the season progresses. They rolled a 2284 team triple. Etta Ginder took high honors with a nice 203 single and a combination of a 506 three-game series to her credit. . . . Evelyn Dolson had a real set-up in the 5-7-10. But she failed to make it. Better luck the next time Evelyn. . . . The Alpines took two out of three from the Mayorettes, losing the second game by only four pins. . . . Evelyn Jones of the Mayorettes made several nice splits including the 4-5-7 and 1-3-5-10 which is good in any league. The rest of the team must have been waiting for the return of Madeline Schline who is vacationing these two weeks in the deep south. Perhaps the artistry of Madeline's shooting will help the Mayorettes to get out of their slump and incidentally, last place. . . . The Minasians took three from Kingston Coal as Elsie Relyea, anchor for her team, came through with a nifty 477. Gert Breitfeller, high for the losers, pounded out a cool 154 in her last game. . . . Phelan and Cahill took two games from the Bliss team. Phil Gehringer came through with a swell shot on the 5-7-9 split while Mrs. Trowbridge struck out for her first game. Yet, the Bliss bowlers won the initial game. . . . Rosemary Weigand made the 7-9 split, a rare oddity and finished up with a 404 series while Mathilda Bruck spared on the 5-7-9 split. . . . A welcome mat is out to Dot Williams, who, observers opine, will do the Emerick's Ladies' League credit before the season is very old. Dot displayed her worth to her team Tuesday night by spilling the 5-10 split. Rose Chamberland made the 5-10, too. M. Reinas bowlers took three games from the Ertels, the newcomer to the league family. Alyce Riseley, Helen Smart and Tillie Clearwater made some nifty shots in this match. The decision for the three games cannot be decided until after Thursday night's roll-off for the Ertels and Kingston Coal will meet to decide the handicap. . . . It looks very much like the Reinas have scooped all three in their victory. . . . Gert Ertel and Mary Callahan made swell splits. Jane Holcomb is rolling nicely in this early season which is his first year in the sport. Although the Ertels dropped three games Thursday night it is the opinion of the Emerick's Ladies' League veterans that this team will soon hit its stride. . . . Williams Lake made their debut in new uniforms and there's no doubt about it that the gals look pretty smart. . . . Evelyn Provenzano ran true to form with a cool triple of 504 and a new high single for this year of 204. The season is young yet, Evelyn. There's plenty of time to be rapping out those coveted high triples and high singles. . . . Phyllis Roosa of the Williams Lake squad is doing acceptably well to date as is Sally Kuehn. The team rolled a nice 2241 triple. . . . Becks, sparked by Adelaide Ashley, took two games. Carrie Mohr came through with a 180 single while Chris Wilson poured out a 422 triple. . . . Elstons took two games from Schwenks. K. Williams posted a 464 series to lead the winners. She also took a high single of 175. . . . Marge Williams is coming along steadily, her 451 triple bearing this out in no uncertain terms. Dot Holmes also is coming along nicely as her 143 single score illustrates. . . . Lillian Buswell had a nice 178 for Schwenks and a triple of 467. Mrs. Hayes made the 6-10 split and is beginning to look like herself as of last year's style and it won't be long before she will be rolling up the high scores as her friends expect. A. Markle crushed the 6-10 split. Keep it up girls. It's up to you to keep this grand sport alive while our fellows take a personal sock at Adolph and the Japs. . . . Although the 1942-43 season is very young, the bowlers of Emerick's Ladies' League realize what good fortune is theirs by the splendid work of President Wetzel. She's here and there and all around, one word for this bowler and a compliment for the next one. The high interest in this year's league fully shows the work which she has put into this organization. . . . Next week's games include the following:

7:15 p. m.

Elstons vs. Phelan & Cahill.
Kingston Coal vs. Williams Lake.
Schwenks vs. Ertels.
Bliss vs. Becks.

9 p. m.

Reinas vs. Mayorettes.
Minasians vs. Alpines.

Grahamsville Club To Sponsor Shoot

Event Is Scheduled for Coming Sunday

The Chestnut Valley Rod and Gun Club of Grahamsville will hold its annual trap and rifle shoot Sunday, September 27. This is expected to be the greatest shoot the club has ever sponsored.

There will be many feature shoots added this year, and War Savings Stamps have been added to the list of prizes to be awarded for best marksmanship.

The shoot will be held all day at the new club range on the Bruce Denman Farm, between Curry and Grahamsville.

Burt Van Deusen Is in Army Hospital

Burton Van Deusen, who is a member of the 20th Technical School at Lowry Field, Col., on Monday entered the army hospital there to undergo an operation, according to word received today by his father, Herbert T. Van Deusen, plumbing contractor of Hasbrouck avenue.

Mr. Van Deusen at the time he entered the U. S. Army was serving as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Princeton, N. J. He is a graduate of the Kingston High School, and after finishing high school he took up Y. M. C. A. work, and was graduated from Springfield College.

Donald Van Deusen, another son of H. T. Van Deusen, is a member of the U. S. Air Corps. He was a student at the New Paltz Teachers College when he enlisted in the air corps.

The Dominican Republic has an area twice the area of Vermont.

GREAT SPORTS EVENTS covered by a GREAT SPORTS STAFF

It takes the country's greatest sports staff to cover the country's greatest sports events for hundreds of America's newspapers. The Associated Press, and its affiliate Wide World, have that staff.

Right now it's swinging into action on the 1942 World Series, fall football from coast to coast, and the Louis-Conn fight.

Millions of American fans will follow these events with such experts of AP and Wide World as AP Sports Editor, Herb Barker, Wide World Sports Editor Dillon Graham; columnists Whitney Martin, Hugh Fullerton, Jr., sports cartoonist Tom Paprocki, and AP sports writers Sid Feder, Judson Bailey, Gayle Talbot, Harold Claassen, Austin Bealmear and Orlo Robertson.

At the same time AP's Wirephoto and Telemat services provide the play by play pictorial story.

It's a sports coverage without parallel, because—

AP has full time sports writers in Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles, Columbus, Des Moines, Denver, Kansas City, Detroit and Philadelphia in addition to its large general staff in New York and more than 200 special correspondents.

AP operates six football wires throughout the gridiron season, providing at least 100,000 unduplicated words every Saturday, exclusive of state coverage.

AP delivers the picture with the story and in addition through Wide World a complete feature sports service.

Stimson to Probe Louis-Conn Bout; Says He's Shocked

of this war by permitting the fight and called for a congressional investigation to determine whether favoritism was being shown some members of the armed forces.

"Any member of the armed forces who at the time of his induction or enlistment owed money to any individual may now obtain leave and return to his former civilian occupation for the purpose of raising funds to pay this indebtedness," O'Toole contended, was a new army policy.

"What a mockery we are making of our army and of charity," he added. "The United States Army is being used for the first time to guarantee obligations that are owed to a fight promoter."

In New York, Jacobs, promoter of the fight, had this to say:

"War Boxing Incorporated and the War Department asked me to promote this fight to raise a large sum of money for Army Emergency Relief.

"The plans for the fight were approved by the War Department and War Boxing, Inc. If Mr. Stimson thinks an investigation is necessary, it's all right with me.

"A representative of the War Department saw Louis at Fort Riley before the fight was arranged. Louis told him that he had certain obligations which he would like to have met if he was going to fight. So far as I'm concerned, whatever money Joe owes me he can owe me for as long as he wants."

War Boxing, Inc., is the corporate name of the sports writers committee.

Man Confesses He Slew His Parents

argument, and then struck his father.

"I know the penalty for my crime and I'm willing to pay it," Nash told reporters at a press conference held after the police announced he had admitted the slayings.

"Are you sorry?" he was asked.

"Of course, I'm sorry," Nash replied.

Nash's version of the murder, as told by authorities, related how, after he had grabbed a hand ax and killed his father, his mother, frantic with fear and grief, cried: "Now look what you've done."

Her hands wildly clutched at her son as he turned in anger, struck her with his fist, then again took up the bloody weapon and slashed her repeatedly.

"I hit her on the head, shoulders and back," Nash said. "I placed his body in the trunk and then I threw her body on the floor."

His confession detailed how he drove to the Nash home, changed his bloody clothes and began motoring to Illinois. About 30 miles east of East St. Louis, Ill., Nash said, he tossed out his bundle of clothes.

The stolid electrician told how he abandoned the car north of Springfield because of a second flat tire and went to that city in search of a new tire.

It was then he hitch-hiked a ride with James McCue, a coal hauler, who officers said, identified Nash last night in a police show-up and provided authorities with what they said was the first real break in the case.

Failing to obtain a tire, Nash said, he ate breakfast in a Springfield restaurant and then hitch-hiked to St. Louis.

In addition to McCue, C. F. Sutton, a Springfield garage owner, viewed Nash and police said he identified him as the man who sought to buy a tire at his garage, but this Nash continued to deny even after admitting all other details.

Before announcing Nash's confession, Acting Chief of Police Andrew Aylward, had said that young Nash a few days ago had admitted mailing a premium on a $2,000 insurance policy on the life of his father.

Some hours prior to his full confession, police disclosed, Nash admitted driving the bodies of his parents into Illinois, but he denied the double killing. Aylward, however, on the strength of that admission ordered the youth booked for murder and made plans to seek a murder warrant today.

Officers found the amputated ring finger of the mother near their car, but throughout the grilling the son continued to deny he had cut off the finger and asserted he did not know how that happened.

Order on Speed Limit Does Not Apply to City

An order from the State War Council received by Mayor William F. Edelmuth this morning fixing the speed limit of all motor vehicles not to exceed 35 miles an hour, does not apply to the city of Kingston where the speed limit is fixed by city ordinance at 25 miles an hour.

Mayor Edelmuth turned the telegram he had received from the State War Council over to the police department. The ordinance prohibiting speed in excess of 25 miles an hour in the city will be strictly enforced.

The telegram to the mayor reads as follows: "The State War Council has adopted an order making it unlawful for motor vehicles to travel at a speed of more than 35 miles per hour for a distance of one quarter of a mile. Please see to it that this order is enforced by the law enforcement authorities under your jurisdiction."

to do very much about the economic problems of either and also hoped that "the Russians will whip the Nazi but not be too unreasonable about spreading their uncomfortable doctrines outside Russia."

He called for a return to the "standard of Democratic idealism, which means tolerance, humility, sacrifice and understanding of the meaning of human dignity."

"It is a standard fashioned for us long ago, in suffering and hardship, by our forefathers," he added. "We put it away and took instead the billboards which proclaimed us the strongest, greatest and most superlative people that ever put in two and got out five.

"We are still flexing our imaginary muscles and shouting: 'Wait till I catch that lug who hit me when I wasn't looking!'"

Farewell Gifts for Men

After Friday evening's service at the Temple Emanuel Kingston's B'nai B'rith Lodge will present farewell gifts to the following Jewish men who will leave this city soon for Camp Upton and active service in the United States Army. The boys are Emanuel Yallum, Schall Alcon, Louis Lehner, Isidore Friedman and Jerome Leher. An interesting program has been arranged for this occasion and everyone is invited to attend the services.

Ulster School Children Will Take Active Part In County Scrap Harvest

October 1 Is Opening Date for Collection of Junk to Help War Effort

School children of Ulster county are going to be asked to take an active part in the Ulster County Scrap Harvest which opens on October 1.

Every citizen of the county will embark on a campaign to salvage every possible pound of scrap iron and rubber which is now idle on farms and in homes throughout the county. This scrap will be started on its way to the mills where it is needed so vitally to keep war production at peak speed during the winter months.

The part the school children will be asked to play in the drive is an important one. Not only will the school children be asked to search out scrap at home but they will be asked to make a canvass of abandoned mills, search out scrap from creeks and ponds where it had been buried for years, but they will be asked to lok about for any possible source of scrap during their travels about their communities and report such junk to their teacher who in turn can report this scrap to the town superintendent of highways of the town who will have the junk gathered up and transported to the community junk depository.

Albert Cashdollar, chairman of the Ulster County War Council, has arranged with the district superintendents of schools to have the message of the Scrap Harvest spread directly in the schools where an appeal will be made to all children to aid in the campaign. "Children circulate pretty freely about their home communities and often spot sources of junk which an adult never would see," said Mr. Cashdollar in announcing the part the children would be asked to play in the campaign.

Co-operating in the movement is District Superintendent of Schools Clarence Johnson of the First Supervisory District; Ralph Johnson of the Second Supervisory District; Lester Roosa of the Third Supervisory District, and Reginald Bennett of the Fourth Supervisory District.

Only One Action Tried at Present Session of Court

The present term of Supreme Court being held by Justice Harry E. Schirick during the month of September has thus far established a rather unusual record. In session now over two weeks there has been but one trial which has reached the jury for decision, all of the remaining cases which have been disposed of have been settled during the progress of the trial.

Again on Wednesday five actions were moved for trial and a jury taken but the issues were agreed upon and a settlement reached without submitting the question to the jurors. These actions were negligence cases brought by Tony Monforte, Evelyn Rutiglino, Josephine Monforte, Rose Monforte and Carlo Rutiglino against Charles Harvey Agnew of Newburgh to recover damages for injuries suffered in an accident near West Park on the evening of November 30, 1940, when the cars of Tony Monforte and the car of Agnew collided.

A jury was taken at the opening of court Wednesday and then a recess was called. Later all five cases were announced settled. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for the plaintiffs and Judge Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant.

The only trial which required the decision of a jury this term was the actions for personal injuries brought by Edwin Thomas and Burton A. Markle against Seaboard Freight Lines. A no cause verdict resulted. Since then eight cases have been taken up for trial but settled before submission to the jury. A number of other cases have been moved to the day calendar and announced settled before the actual trial was started and many cases were marked settled on the original call of the calendar.

Woman Taken to Hospital After Consuming Iodine

Mrs. Nellie Kouhout, wife of Frank Kouhout, of 50 Hunter street, who according to the police, drank the contents of a bottle of iodine in her home yesterday afternoon, was expected to be discharged from the Kingston Hospital where she was taken today.

The police department received a telephone call from a neighbor stating that a woman had drunk iodine and Officers Guernsey Burger and Gerald Every were rushed to the house in one of the police radio cars.

The officers administered first aid in the form of starch, the white of eggs and milk to the woman, and then she was rushed to the hospital in the Conner ambulance.

Two strawberry dishes were sold recently in London for $880.

Four Children Do Not Know Why Father Dies

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—There are four children in New York today who do not understand why their father is dead and why their mother is in jail charged with homicide.

For death yesterday ended the tribulations of Alman Harrington, 23-year-old electrician whose last moments of life were brightened by the presence of the children despite his wife's refusal to let him see them for weeks.

Three months ago Harrington was shot in the spine by his wife, Anna, who had been free in $2,500 bail on a felonious assault charge. Half an hour after Harrington's death, the Bronx district attorney's office ordered her arrest on a homicide charge.

She was not present when her husband died. Three weeks ago the State Supreme Court ruled that the children be placed in custody of their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence Kelly, the court deciding that "the most important thing at present is that the children be with the father. . ."

The children, Carol Ann, 5; Alman, Jr., 4; Anthony, 2, and Allen, 1, have seen their father daily since then.

Saturday night Harrington lapsed into a coma. The children were with him chattering with each other when he died—but he did not recognize them.

No Use for British Breed

Cheltenham, England, Sept. 24 (AP)—Lady Astor told an audience here yesterday that Russia's great enemy in Britain is the British Communist. "I would not mind sitting on the platform with a Russian Communist," the American-born member of Parliament said, "but I would not be seen dead with a British Communist."

Fire Department Honors Three Men Who Go in Army

Wednesday evening the members of the Kingston fire department met at the Central Fire Station and presented Commissioner James R. Murphy, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and Firemen Edwin Van Etten and Edward Murphy with wallets containing a sum of money.

The three men are members of the contingent who leave for Camp Upton Monday morning, all three having been inducted in the U. S. Army, and are home on a 14-day furlough after passing their physical examination at an army induction center in Albany.

Following the presentation the three men were guests of honor at a farewell banquet served in Schoentag's Hotel. Among the speakers at the banquet were: Mayor William F. Edelmuth and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford was toastmaster.

Councilmen Give Dinner to Gilday

Wrist Watch Is Presented to Local Alderman

Alderman Andrew T. Gilday, who has been inducted into the U. S. Army and leaves soon with the contingent for Camp Upton, was tendered a farewell dinner Wednesday by his fellow members of the Common Council. The aldermen presented their colleague with a wrist watch.

The dinner was served in the private dining room at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and the only absentee was Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk who sent a telegram expressing his regret at being unable to attend since he had been called out of town on business.

Alderman Paul Black, Democratic minority leader, presided as master of ceremonies, and brief addresses were made by the aldermen present.

Case Is Settled

An action for misappropriation of money which was opened in Supreme Court this morning was settled following the selection of a jury. The action was brought by Magdalena Gustafson against William Fink. Lester C. Ringe appeared for the plaintiff and Peter Harp for the defendant. Court then recessed until 2 o'clock this afternoon when two actions on promissory note were scheduled to be taken up. They are actions brought by Charlotte Baines Naef as executrix, etc., of Thomas Blythe, deceased, against Ethel Greenberg and Edward B. Hughson.

Firemen Honor Three Men

were believed to be Vincent D. Sweeney of Pittsburgh, public relations director of the United Steel Workers, and Phil Curran, member of the union's legal staff. Union officials said they boarded the Washington-bound train this morning at Pittsburgh.

Ambulances and fire engines from nearby towns rushed to the scene, and one fireman said fire fighters were hampered by lack of water. He described the wreck as "a terrible scene."

A hospital train with doctors and nurses sped to Dickerson from Washington.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor of Maryland said all available state police and state police ambulances were sent to the wreck.

All members of the three train crews were reported safe.

The road officials said a flagman had been sent out while the Cleveland train was standing and being repaired, and that he had been recalled as the train started up. An official added that either he neglected to put out a warning torpedo, or that the torpedo had failed to explode.

Investigators were sent out by the safety bureau of the interstate commerce commission.

The first injured were taken to Frederick, Md., about 18 miles north. Others were rushed to Hagerstown, 45 miles northwest, and an emergency hospital at the state penal farm near Hagerstown was made ready to receive still others.

To Dedicate Flag

At 10:30 o'clock on next Sunday morning, September 27, at the regular church service in the Hurley Reformed Church, a special program will be given to dedicate a service flag for all those who have entered the service. Everyone and anyone who has a member of the family or friend in the service is invited. At 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning the Sunday school is planning a rally program to which everyone is invited.

Red Armies Drive Nazis From Forts

now raging with unprecedented savagery, with the Russians doggedly clinging to their defenses in barricaded streets and smoking ruins under shot, shell and bomb.

German warplanes were pounding the city and Volga river traffic in continuous raids, Red Star said. A barge withdrawing refugees was reported smashed.

Large Building Seized

In the streets, Nazi troops seized a large building after violent fighting, the Red army newspaper added. Soviet patrols rushed its approaches, overpowered guards, and blew up the structure while the Germans were inside.

As the struggle continued, amid the first faint signs that the Nazi offensive may have passed its peak, Wendell L. Willkie conferred with Premier Stalin for two hours in Moscow and subsequently declared he would take back to Washington a story of growing Russian disappointment and dissatisfacton over the failure of Britain and the United States to open a second front.

"I feel it and you must," Willkie said, after chatting with Stalin and presenting a personal message from President Roosevelt.

Meanwhile, the British radio declared the allies were preparing to launch an offensive against Germany and appealed to the French people to cooperate by evacuating French coastal areas.

"An offensive of the United Nations is being prepared," the broadcast said. "On the day when we can be assured of attaining our goal—which is nothing less than the annihilation of Hitlerite Germany — this offensive will be launched.

"No one will be warned in advance of the attack or the point at which it will take place, but when the moment comes to call for the cooperation of the French people as a whole, we will keep our promise to let you know in time."

British bombers carried out new attacks on Germany overnight, attacking the Nazi U-boat base at Flensburg and an Axis convoy off the Dutch coast. Ten R.A.F. bombers were listed as missing.

Flensburg is a Baltic port in the Prussian province of Schleswig-Holstein, near the Danish frontier, which has come under increasingly heavy attack in recent weeks.

Australians Hold Firmly

Australian jungle fighters were reported holding firmly today amid a renewal of fighting in the New Guinea mountains, 32 miles from Port Moresby, while allied warplanes strafed Japanese troops and blasted enemy supply bases.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said casualties were suffered on both sides in clashes on the southern slope of the Owen Stanley range, but there was no indication of any further Japanese advance.

Continuous aerial strafing of the enemy communication lines was reported greatly hindering the Japanese in the already difficult task of keeping their forward troops supplied.

A United Nations communique said allied fighters made three sweeps over the key Japanese base at Buna, New Guinea, raking seven enemy barges with cannon and machine-gun fire and blasting supply dumps. Earlier, allied bombers dropped one-ton bombs on the Buna airdrome in a night assault, setting big fires.

In the China campaign, a Chinese army spokesman reported a lull in fighting along the entire front, broken only by minor skirmishes.

The spokesman withheld comment on reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was gathering strength for a Chinese counter-offensive in the spring.

In London, the British announced officially that the French garrison at Tananarive, Madagascar capital, surrendered unconditionally yesterday and British troops occupied the capital just a fortnight after their landing on the west coast in a move to eliminate the 1,000-mile-long island as an Axis base.

Women to Meet

The Women's Missionary Circle of St. James Church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon, September 25th, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren will conduct the devotions and Miss Lenora Drais will present the program, "Youth of Our Church." The hostesses will be Mrs. William Hogan and Miss Marilla Bloom.

Russian Ingenuity Troubles Axis Troops

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Russian ingenuity in the use of concealed bridges for retreat and counter-attack in the battle of the Don bend draws plaintive comment from Il Giornale D'Italia of Rome.

"The Soviets," said the newspaper in a dispatch broadcast today by the Berlin radio, "built several bridges across that river (the Don) which were, however, completely invisible to Italian ground troops and also to the air force because they were laid about a foot and a half below the water's surface."

Moving up or withdrawing, the Russians waded knee-deep across these bridges by night. The dispatch said the trick was discovered when a Russian soldier pursued by Italian infantrymen escaped by striding across one of the spans.
